MOVE TO MAKE OFFICERS SHIFT STORIES TOLD

Report Vital Files Have Vanished

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26—With the joint congressional committee on Pearl Harbor in its seventh week of marking time, attention of members of congress tonight was focused on further disclosures relating to the suspected conspiracy to black out Washington responsibility for the naval disaster.

Human Events, a weekly analytical Washington news letter, brought out into the open three stories that have been whispered in the corridors of the capitol for weeks on activities designed to shift the finger of blame now pointed at the late President Roosevelt and top civilian and military officers in his state, war, and navy departments.

These are that vital files have disappeared from the navy department, that key army and navy officers are being subjected to pressure to change their stories, and that President Truman sent a directive to the war and navy departments on Aug. 29 sealing the lips of officers to every one on Pearl Harbor.

Situation Far from Ideal

This directive was lifted by an executive order issued last Tuesday which also opened the way for naval officers to talk to the committee. However, Republican members of the committee regard the situation as far from ideal. They said that it is possible under the new order for the Democratic majority of six men to ride roughshod over the four Republican members on the questioning of witnesses. They are not sure that they as individual committee members will be able to question naval witnesses.

While Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], committee chairman, insisted the rules have not been determined, and reiterated that the majority had no intention to strangle the minority, Republicans said they were concerned about inferences of the possibility of majority rule in the newest order.

Republicans withheld their fire, however, pending a final determination of the committee rules. They were constrained to do so when Democrats pointed out that the inference they drew on questioning of witnesses—whether by the committee or by individuals—might also be drawn on the question of access to official records. Yet, said the Democrats, these have already been made available to the committee and individual members of that body have access to them.

80 Volumes Available

Some eighty-odd volumes of army and navy reports are available to Republicans and Democrats alike. Also made available by Presidential order were files of the Roosevelt administration in the archives building and at Hyde Park. Mr. Truman promised in a letter to the committee that if it had any difficulty in getting what he wanted he would "issue the necessary order so you may have complete access."

The news letter made its disclosures in three brief paragraphs.

How Honolulu Naval Racket Reaped Riches

BY THOMAS MORROW

A tale of racketeering and corruption in Honolulu naval circles which paled some of the antics of Al Capone was disclosed last night. It came from unimpeachable sources.

Carl G. Stockholm.

At the same time it became known that a Chicago navy officer, Comdr. Carl G. Stockholm, was transferred suddenly from his position as head of the shore patrol in Honolulu while investigating graft conditions. His next assignment amounted to serving as a bouncer in a Saipan officers' club.

Before Comdr. Stockholm's investigation was interrupted it developed:

1. That one Honolulu trading firm moved, frate free, from the United States several hundred thousand dollars worth of merchandise purchased on navy priorities. The merchandise was moved in naval vessels while these craft were needed for supplies and personnel in the Pacific war.

Buyers Sent to Gift Shop

2. That a Honolulu gift shop displayed business cards in a ship's service store and a clerk was instructed to send naval men there for high priority wristwatches and fountain pen sets. The pen sets, which should have been available only in the ship's service stores at approximately $12, were bringing $27 at the gift shop. The establishment attracted federal bureau of investigation attention by flagrant radio advertising of these articles.

3. That civilian employes were openly carrying off money and merchandise from the ship's store. Stockholm's investigation implicated more than 30 persons and recovered approximately $30,000 in cash and merchandise valued around $20,000.

Error Produces Confession

Those caught looting took the attitude that "sure, we're stealing. Why shouldn't we? Every one else is." In one case, in which investigators got to the wrong house, a woman there confessed she also had been making off with merchandise.

The racket in navy goods was possible, it was explained, thru a merchandise markup system used by the civilian employes which showed only the purchase price on which the maximum markup allowed was 15 per cent. The investigation disclosed that an unauthorized additional 50 or 60 per cent was being added with the result that one service store under investigation was doing monthly business of $600,000.

The store in question handled everything from fine jewelry to the most insignificant item. At one time, investigators were told, when things got hot, 10,000 toy machine guns were shipped to another island to get them out of the way.

Navy Order Blank Used

The buyer who shipped the more than $300,000 worth of merchandise to his own firm had come to the United States to buy naval goods. When he found that the private merchandise couldn't be moved, he used a naval order blank for his shipment, which included pianos.

At one point investigators, seeking to question a man involved, elicited the indignant retort: "This is not your business. I have arranged to have you transferred. Why, I can give you a day by day report of what's been going on in the investigation."

Also uncovered during the Stockholm investigation was the fact that an officers' club in the area was holding dice, poker, and blackjack games in some of which one lieutenant won $30,000 in two days.

John Golden, a Chicago policeman who has returned to duty on the force since his release from the navy, also took part in the investigation.

Comdr. Stockholm refused to comment last night. He said that, of course, if he is called before a congressional committee he will tell his story.

Face Black Market Quiz

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 26 (AP)—A possible federal grand jury inquiry into alleged embezzlement of supplies from ships' service stores at Pearl Harbor and their diversion into black market channels was indicated today by United States Atty. Ray O'Brien.

Estimates of the value of government property diverted into what the senate war investigating committee has termed the "Pearl Harbor black market" range from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

End of Truman War Powers Demanded

A HYMN FOR NAVY DAY

One man left to tell the story
Of Torpedo Squadron Eight—
Splendid story of the glory
Of a rendezvous with fate.
Fifteen planes with thirty heroes!
(Twenty-nine were doomed to die.)
Plunging through a cloud of Zeros
Down the danger-ridden sky.
Twenty-nine, with proud devotion,
Ere the fatal flight was done
Vanished in the hungry ocean—
But the Victory was won!
One man left to tell the story
Of a rendezvous with fate—
Tell the story of the glory
Of Torpedo Squadron Eight.

PEACE DECREE MOVE FOUGHT BY BUROCRATS

Urge Congress Lift Emergency Acts

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26—Legislation declaring the war officially terminated, thus stripping President Truman and government heads of tremendous war powers, was started thru congress today amid outraged protests from burocrats.

John W. Snyder

Reconversion Director Snyder led a parade of witnesses from government departments, including the army and navy, who asserted that altho the shooting stopped 10 weeks ago, the retention of war time controls was now more necessary than ever.

Holding opposite views, nine congressmen of both parties sounded before a house judiciary subcommittee the theme, "let's be honest with the people and the men in uniform," and urged immediate revocation of 226 acts and directives passed or issued as war emergency measures. They appealed for "a return to constitutional government."

Draft Law One of Measures

All the war measures expire at various periods, six months being the most frequent limit, after either the President or congress has proclaimed "the termination of hostilities." The draft law is one. Others give the executive departments vast authority to dictate, control, and regiment the people.

A number of resolutions are pending before the committee which fix the end of the war as either Aug. 14, when Japan stopped fighting, or Sept. 2, when Japan signed the terms of surrender aboard the battleship Missouri in Tokyo harbor.

Snyder, who said he spoke for the President, asserted repeal of war powers thru a "cessation of hostilities" resolution would "seriously interfere with the reconversion program" and urged a one-year extension of certain provisions of the second war powers act which automatically expire Dec. 31.

"In our haste to return to the ways of peace, there is a grave danger that the very machinery we need to attain an orderly reconversion may be thrown out of gear by too hasty abandonment of some war time controls whose need continues to be vital," he told the committee.

Cites Army's Stand

"The army does not believe we can safely proclaim hostilities are at an end now, I am informed. We must maintain, supply, and equip a very large army in distant portions of the globe for some time.

"Emergency rationing and allocation powers are absolutely essential to the reconversion program. We must be prepared to deal with shortages and bottlenecks that may crop up from time to time during the transition period.

"The OPA has ceased to ration many foods and goods, but some rationing controls must remain well into next year.

"Controls by the WPB make it possible to set aside stocks of consumer goods, food, coal, mining machinery, and other things required to restore production in the devastated areas.

Backs Snyder's Views

"In a very real sense the war emergency continues and can be met only by continued exercise of some of the emergency powers required to mobilize the country for war."

Chairman Sumners [D., Tex] said, however, that there was "considerable pressure and general anxiety" to terminate the war powers as soon as possible, and a procession of members of congress, appearing as witnesses, urged early action on the legislation, appealing for "a return to constitutional government."

Reject Ashes of Quisling at His Birthplace

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 26 (AP)—The sleepy village of Cyresdal, where Vidkun Quisling was born, has refused to accept the ashes of the executed traitor for burial because the place would get a "bad name."

Its citizenry complained that burial there would attract throngs of curious tourists. Cyresdal lies deep in the valleys of the Norwegian province of Telemark.

Overturn Mother's Tombstone

Nor does the Telemark capital of Skien care for the ashes of the man who sold out his country to the Germans. The night before he died in front of a firing squad the tombstone at the grave of Quisling's mother was overturned and other indignities were committed at the adjoining graves of his father and sister.

An authoritative spokesman said Quisling's last wish was that he be buried in the churchyard of his village birthplace. The spokesman, who asked that his name not be used, supplied some details of Quisling's death.

The pudgy traitor was told of the time set for his execution and Mrs. Quisling was taken to his cell. She stayed with him for several hours before his death.

Clergyman Visits Cell

When she left, a clergyman was admitted and he spoke quietly of religious matters until it was time to leave for the execution square.

Quisling spoke not a word as he stood before the firing squad. After the volley was fired, the officer in charge stepped near the crumpled traitor and fired a coup de grace bullet into his temple.

The body was cremated immediately. Police still have the ashes. It was considered possible that they may be quietly deposited in the Oslo cemetery, perhaps at an unmarked spot.

ANTI-SEMITISM DOOMED NAZIS, WRITES DR. LEY

'Forsook God,' Says His Testament

NUERNBERG, Germany, Oct. 26 (AP)—Robert Ley, the German labor leader, who chose suicide rather than trial before the international military court, blamed anti-Semitism for Germany's downfall in his political testament to "My German People," which authorities released today.

Ley, himself one of the anti-Semitic firebrands of Hitler's regime, wrote in his prison cell that "I was with Hitler in the good days and I want to be with him in the black days." In this phrase, the war criminal, listed fourth in the allied indictment, expressed his belief that Hitler was dead.

"Do I have a right to appeal to the German people after its singular catastrophe? I have been one of the responsible men, I was with Hitler in the good days, during the fulfillment of our plans and hopes, and I want to be with him now in the black days.

"God Lets Me Fail"

"I have learned to see in everything the hand of Providence. God led me in whatever I did, He led me up and now lets me fall. I am torturing myself to find the reason for the downfall, and this is the result of my contemplations.

"We have forsaken God, and therefore we were forsaken by God.

"We put our human volition in the place of His Godly grace. In anti-Semitism we violated a basic commandment of His creation.

"Anti-Semitism distorted our outlook and we made grave errors. It is hard to admit mistakes, but the whole existence of our people is in question; we Nazis must have the courage to rid ourselves of anti-Semitism. We have to declare to the youth that it was a mistake. The youth will not believe our opponents. Men may fall, parties and systems disappear, but the people must remain and live.

Must Be Reconciled

"We have to eradicate distrust. We have to meet the Jews with open hearts and on a clear basis. A complete reconciliation has to be found, and a new modus vivendi.

"For the lack of any other ideal, youth will stick to national socialism. The deported Jews will not be able to return carefree. They will find themselves opposed by a phalanx of defense and hate.

"The occupation troops will leave some day, new political constellations might give Germany new chances. Nothing is more unstable than peace agreements. Then anti-Semitism would flame up anew and rage much worse than ever before.

"It is unwise to believe it possible to exterminate anti-Semitism with histrionic trials, no difference how skilfully they are conducted. On the contrary, one will achieve the opposite, one will steer world opinion to a problem which can only maintain itself in the dark, unless one has courage to solve the Jewish problem by public discussions and enlightenment. One cannot stop the excited sea at once, but has to let her calm down gradually. Otherwise, terrible repercussions will result.

"German anti-Semitics have taken the first step. They have to take the second step, too. Jewry has to reconcile herself with Germany and vice versa, for the sake of world peace and of world welfare. Not an armistice, but a peace built on logic, knowledge, clear rights and obligations is necessary.

"The Jew should make a friend out of Germany and Germany a friend out of the Jew. If humanity is not able to control again the stirred up emotions, she will perish thru them.

"The emotions have to be subdued at the starting point, from Germany. Here the outspoken anti-Semites have to become the first fighters for the new and yet so close idea. They have to find the courage to conquer themselves, they

Obscene Note Charge False, Pastor Pleads

Freeport, Ill., Oct. 26 [Special]—Before a courtroom filled with his congregation, the Rev. Robert J. Hansen, 37, pastor of the Lighthouse Chapel mission of Rockford, denied at his trial today a government charge that he sent obscene pictures and letters thru the mails.

A prank played by a youthful member of his church originally involved him in the matter, Hansen testified. But the difficulties in which he became enmeshed, he contended, resulted from his being "framed" by a postal inspector who told him he was being used to help trap some one else.

A jury of seven women and five men listened to the testimony in the federal court of Judge Elwyn R. Shaw. Half a dozen pictures of nudes and about the same number of letters, admitted by both sides to be obscene, were offered as exhibits, but had not been seen by the jurors pending arguments concerning them.

Former Deputy Sheriff

The Rev. Mr. Hansen, a former deputy sheriff and county jail chaplain at Rockford, was indicted last April. It was charged he had exchanged obscene literature, thru the mails, with William K. Anthony of Flushing, N. Y., said to be a dealer in "nude art."

The government's case, concluded at noon, was based on the testimony of Postal Inspector Walter Olson of the Rockford district, the man Hansen accused. Olson identified the letters and pictures which the pastor was alleged to have sent thru the mails.

Solicited Nude Art?

In 1942 he and others in his congregation received from Anthony's companies, one of which was the Sunshine Nudist, letters soliciting them to exchange nude art. Hansen later learned that a member of his congregation, John Perry, then 17 and now in the army, had sent the names to Anthony "as a joke."

The pastor took the letters to the Rockford postoffice, told authorities of his objection to receiving them, and was told that postal authorities would take care of the matter.

"Didn't See the Pictures"

Early in 1943 Inspector Olson came to him and asked him to help federal authorities trap Anthony. Hansen agreed and, at Olson's specific dictation, wrote and signed the letters dispatched to Anthony asking him to send more art.

Frequently he objected to writing the obscene passages which Olson dictated but did so at the inspector's insistence. He never saw the pictures which Olson furnished but knew some were sent with his letters to Anthony. He delivered all letters unsealed to Olson, he never mailed any of them, and no time did he doubt but that he was doing it all to help the government.

The payoff came March 12 when Olson came to him—according to Hansen's account—and told him to sign a statement. The statement was a confession the pastor had sent all the letters on his own initiative. Hansen objected but did sign when the postal inspector threatened to "ruin him in Rockford" if he didn't.

Then, according to the pastor, Olson told him the postoffice investigator's efforts had been aimed at trapping him as an obscene letter writer and that the letters he had been writing had provided the government's case against him.

TRUMAN ADVISED TO TELL PEOPLE TO 'GO TO WORK'

Akron, O., Oct. 26 (AP)—William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber company, asserted today that President Truman is "vote grafting" by "kidding the people into believing they can have more without making it."

He made this statement verbally to newspaper men who had inspected his plant here. He contended that the President, who is to make a statement on wages and prices next Tuesday, should "tell the people right now, not next week, to go back to work."

"It is about time we learned that we can't have a better standard of living in America until we make the things that make for a higher standard of living," O'Neil said. "Working fewer hours and making fewer products as a means of creating more work is absurd. Churchill got licked because he told the British people the truth. Truman doesn't want to get licked, too."

Ethiopian Princesses' $8,000,000 Gems Rescued

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 26—Jewels worth from 8 million to 12 million dollars, rescued from a British plane destroyed by fire at Valletta, Malta, are said to belong to two granddaughters of Ethiopian Emperor Halle Selassie, who arrived in London tonight. The girls, Sophia Desta and Ijigayexu Assawessim, both under 14, are to be educated at a school in western England. The plane made a forced landing.

Mother Wins First Prize in Fashion Show

BY RITA FITZPATRICK

The sixth annual Chicago Tribune American Fashions contest and show came to a brilliant climax last evening when a New York City housewife, mother, art teacher, and free lance designer captured the coveted first prize with a costume so outstanding that it led, like the thorobred it is, in all five showings.

Valerie Galembert

It is a beautiful gray wool suit with silver beaver, as artfully blended as a tone poem. The suit won the hearts of all audiences, both professional and public, and brought to Valerie Galembert the $2,000 grand prize and the highpoint of her career.

Costume Evokes "Ahs!"

Worn by beautiful Rosemary Craig, famous mannequin, the costume brought "Os" and "Ahs" from the moment it was first shown before 550 Chicago stylists Wednesday evening in the W-G-N studio theater. It repeated the same successful performance Thursday and yesterday.

Created of a fine wool, the suit has a pencil-slim skirt topped with a hip length jacket of excellent draping. A shawl collar of the silver beaver hugs the neck and falls, widening, in luxurious folds to form deep pockets. A striking turban of the wool with a mushroom crown of the beaver completed the perfect outfit.

Began as Winner at 9

Valerie, as she is known in the designing profession, began her career at the age of 9 when she won a children's competition for a best dressed doll in Milan, Italy. She never forgot that success. Thruout the years when she moved to Trieste, where her father, an engineer, built the famous Trieste harbor, she looked forward to making a name for herself in the fashion field.

After marriage, she continued her studies in Paris, France, and designed for several of the leading model houses as well as for individual patrons. She now teaches in the Fashion academy in New York City and does free lance designs for many motion picture and radio stars. In her late 20s, she is a clear-eyed, dignified mother of two children and in her spare time designs book covers, metal craft, and costume jewelry.

BRAZIL'S ARMY ALERTED OVER REVOLT REPORTS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 26 (AP)—Amid widespread rumors of impending revolution, the Brazilian minister of war today directed the military forces to keep clear of politics and withstand "all political passions that would plunge the nation into a civil war." Military services and the police were alerted and tension in the Brazilian capital was high.

Some newspapers were using the word "revolution" in broad headlines over stories dealing with the political situation, which has been growing more heated with approach of presidential and congressional elections on Dec. 2.

The pro-government newspaper A Noite in a signed editorial said: "After a meeting of army generals next week will come the D-day and H-hour of the revolution." The paper declared it had knowledge of a telegram from Maj. Gen. Edeardo Gomes, a candidate for president, ordering "suspension" of a revolution which had been scheduled for today against the regime of President Getulio Vargas.

have to show their people the way. God has taught me that in my cell in Nuernberg, and now my plan:

"A. First, the creation of a board of Jews and anti-Semites, honestly prepared to travel this road and to find the conditions under which Jews and Germans can live together.

Suggests Reëducation

"B. Executive committee, again Jews and Germans together, to execute the agreed upon arrangements.

"C. An organization for reëducation and propaganda to disseminate these ideas down to the smallest village.

"German people: Many of you might think me mad or a traitor. They do not realize that I am not admitting a mistake, but that I am merely coming to a logical conclusion. They cannot perceive that one must have been an anti-Semitic to come to this further step of knowledge. This is why only you, my German people, may dare to invite the Jews to make their future home with you. Is it not strange that nearly all Jews all over the world understand German? Hate and love lie close together.

"Is the Jew prepared to go along? If he is intelligent—yes. If not, then I cannot change that. At least I have done my duty by showing humanity the road. God showed me. If the Jews refuse my plan, then the depicted world catastrophe will take its inevitable course.

"Hitler Like Hannibal"

"I know my plan is bold, almost audacious. If one should ask me what the fuehrer would have said, my answer would be: 'This singular genius, a commander in chief like Hannibal, would not want Germany to perish as Carthage perished.'

"All I can say is that I dared it. I put it now into the hands of God, from whom I believe I have received the inspiration and revelation.

"Only a few weeks ago I did not dare touch the subject of anti-Semitism. Today, it is entirely clear to me. I am possessed with this idea, now God has to help me to bring my thoughts to the appropriate place. I have confidence in Him. He will find the right way.

Praises Yanks' Treatment

WIESBADEN, Germany, Oct. 26 [Reuters]—Dr. Robert Ley left a note praising treatment he was given by the Americans, it was disclosed tonight. The note, in German, said:

"Farewell. I can't stand this shame any longer. Physically nothing lacking, food good, warm in my cell, Americans correct and partially friendly.

"Spiritually, I have reading matter and write whatever I want. I receive paper and pencil. They do more for my health than necessary and I may smoke and receive tobacco and coffee.

Notes to Three Wives

"I may walk at least 20 minutes every day. Up to this point everything is in order, but the fact that I should be a criminal—this is what I can't stand."

Ley left two other documents, prepared in his cell. One was a will, addressed to his children; the other a long discourse directed to his three wives. A spokesman said he called upon his last wife not to remarry, "because I know you love only me."

The guard on duty outside Ley's cell has been exonerated, it was announced by Justice Robert H. Jackson, United States chief war crimes prosecutor.

FIND CONDITIONS AMONG GERMAN JEWS IMPROVED

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 26 (AP)—Food and living conditions for displaced Jews in the American zone have improved since last August, Jacob Trobe, director for Germany of the American-Jewish distribution committee, said today.

The daily diet, he said, averaged from 2,300 to 2,500 calories a person, but the food was monotonous and special diets were needed for persons whose health was destroyed in concentration camps. He reported clothing and fuel supplies are adequate.

Trobe said little had been done to unite families separated by the war; to restore family life, or to train refugees in jobs so that they could resume their places in society.

SORRY PLIGHT OF CHILDREN IN GERMANY TOLD

Homeless Tramp Roads; Schools Jammed

No Heat for Schools

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 18 [Delayed]—While the allies are arguing over the brand of "democracy" to be taught children to rid them of nazi ideas, winter has appeared prematurely and will close the schools because of lack of fuel. Austria, following Germany and Hungary, announced that the schools would recess in a few weeks until spring because no coal was available to heat them.

BY LARRY RUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Oct. 26 — Occupation authorities reported Oct. 13 that 1,200,000 children were attending elementary schools in the American zone of Germany. It was admitted, however, this was only 70 per cent of the number who should be going to school. It also was admitted that an average of 84 pupils were assigned to each teacher and that 17,000 more teachers were needed.

At the same time, it was announced that German secondary schools and more colleges and universities would be opened Nov. 1—but not more than 50 per cent of the number needed. The higher medical school at Heidelberg has reopened, but the right of students and professors to do research work is denied.

School Buildings Jammed

At the Bremerhaven school there is one building in which 14 classes are held daily in four rooms, another in which 19 classes are held in eight rooms, and a third, the largest, requires 53 classes to meet in 18 rooms. Each class numbers between 50 and 60 pupils.

Rooms are so small that three children sit in places for two. Not only is this crowding clearly unhealthful, but it prevents the children from concentrating on their lessons.

Spelling books are available for only half the pupils, and arithmetic books do double duty, being used for both arithmetic and grammar. For the higher classes there is only one textbook. Copybooks and slates are difficult to obtain and there are no drawing books or tablets.

Neither children nor adults receive current publications, except newspapers printed under strict censorship, which fail to mention any of the tragedies which have befallen the German people. The papers also fail to tell the people what is going on in other occupation zones or towns.

Radio Programs Censored

Every good club, theater and hall, including beer halls, have been taken over for occupation troops.

Germans may listen to radio programs beamed at them from American, Russian, or British broadcasting stations, but all are censored. They may go walking, but the curfew keeps them inside their homes or shelters from 11 p. m. until daybreak.

When the nazi arbeitdienst [labor service] was dissolved, hundreds and thousands of boys between 16 and 18 went to Wesermuende. Hundreds flocked into Bremerhaven and other towns, hoping to obtain work. Boys unable to find jobs pass the nights in shelters, sheds, shacks, or ships.

They carry all their worldly belongings with them. After tramping the roads half starved and weary, they lose all sense of ownership and steal anything they can, from food to something they might barter.

Girls with Soldiers

Girl refugees from the east, traveling in the company of soldiers, add to this moral breakdown. Fraulein Kost, public prosecutor for the Juvenile court of Bremerhaven, said:

"Petty thievery now has reached a scale of gangsterism hitherto unknown in Germany." She mentioned two gangs, one of which has a leader 17 years old, and a member who is 8. Another gang had a woman leader 24 years old. Her lover was a boy of 16.

The first gang of children stole systematically from soldiers and houses. Cigarets and chocolate and soap bars by the hundred were found cached by the gang. The second gang for six months stole food supplies and clothing, as well as cigarets and liquor, which it bartered on the black market.

Girl of the Month

Dolly Den, 1160 S. Oak Park av., Oak Park, is the October "girl of the month" at the Hawthorne works of the Western Electric company. She was chosen by the Hawthorne club, employes' social organization, and as girl of the month she must write a letter to the plant's 5,500 men in service. The first letter, accompanied by her picture, will be duplicated 5,500 times. However, the replies from the soldiers, sailors, and marines must be answered individually. The newest girl of the month is 19, an ash blond 5 feet 4 inches tall weighing 115 pounds.

Boy, 9, Shot by Pal, 8, as They Examine Pistol

John Mernin, 9, of 1834 Cermak rd., was shot in the back yesterday by George Carnes, 8, of 1931 W. 21st pl., while they were examining a .38 caliber pistol in the rear of the Carnes' home. The bullet emerged thru his chest. He was taken to St. Anthony de Padua hospital. After he had been given a transfusion, surgeons said they believed he would recover. The revolver is owned by Carnes' father, Corp. Ray Carnes, who is home on a furlough after service in Europe.

WARNS U. S. CASH NEEDED TO END EUROPE'S HUNGER

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin declared today that Europe had been brought to near chaos by a deliberate nazi plan, and faced disaster soon unless the United States congress voted $1,800,000,000 to the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration [UNRRA].

Ernest Bevin

Hunger and privation in Europe may bring "further prolific human loss more devastating than a gun or atomic bomb," he told commons.

Bevin drew attention to congressional debate on funds for UNRRA, and declared "if that vote is not granted, UNRRA will be broke and the situation we have to face in a few weeks time will be disastrous."

[President Truman has asked congress to give $550,000,000 to UNRRA, the remaining portion of America's first authorized contribution of $1,350,000,000. Truman said that after this action was completed he would ask congress to authorize a second $1,350,000,000 contribution. A second contribution from member nations was voted at the recent UNRRA council meeting in London.]

Britain Can "Do Little"

Bevin said that "difficult as our own situation was, we agreed to pay the same equivalent amount with America—1 per cent of our national income."

"We, by ourselves, can do very little to relieve conditions in Europe," he said.

Bevin estimated that between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000 persons were wandering thru Europe, homeless, ill clothed, and without food. He said "terrible epidemic" threatened this winter which "cannot be limited by frontier or strategic post."

He laid the blame for these conditions on Hitler, accusing the Nazi leader of carrying out a deliberate plan to leave Europe in a "state of complete anarchy" after he discovered Germany could not win the war.

Of the vast masses of homeless Europeans, more than 10,000,000 were displaced persons, labor slaves, and prisoners of war who had to move back to Italy, France, and elsewhere, Bevin said.

Charges Potsdam Pact Broken

"A rough estimate of the total we have handled and are handling is not far short of 20,000,000 or 25,000,000," he added. "No one knows how many Germans have gone to work in Russia."

In the debate that followed Maj. Guy Lloyd, a Conservative, asserted that if the Potsdam agreement had been kept "the tragic tales told the house today would not have been told." He said there was no doubt the agreement had been broken, "altho not by Britain."

EX-PRISONERS SEE HOLY LAND

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Oct. 26 [Reuters]—Prisoners of war returning by air from the Far East can now visit Jerusalem and Bethlehem on their journey home. Sentenced Judge Julius H. Miner in Criminal court yesterday sentenced John Ricci, 17, of 1114 Vernon Park pl., to 1 to 14 years in prison on a charge of manslaughter. Ricci pleaded guilty to fatally shooting Howard Canty, 16, Negro, in a gang fight in front of the Chicago Mail Order Co., 511 S. Paulina st., May 21.

Three companions of Ricci who were present at the shooting but said they did not know Ricci was carrying a gun pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to commit bodily harm. They were sentenced to six months in the county jail and then placed on probation for four years.

Judge Miner said the evidence showed that the group headed by Ricci "took the law into their own hands to avenge previous unwarranted assaults upon them by Negro boys." The judge said the responsibility of ending racial strife rests with parents and educators.

Judge Miner said he would not set a minimum or maximum term for Ricci, but would leave that to the parole board.

TUBERCULOSIS KILLING 10,000 POLES A MONTH

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 16 [Delayed]—Poland's 20,000,000 people are dying off from tuberculosis alone at a rate of 10,000 monthly and health authorities say all elements are present for disastrous epidemics this winter.

There are 1,200,000 reported cases of tuberculosis in Poland, government authorities say—5 per cent of the population—and it is believed there are, perhaps, twice as many more unreported ones. In Warsaw where a more thoro check is possible the incidence rate is 20 per cent; among students in Warsaw it is 25 per cent; students in Lodz 35 per cent, and, in some localities, as high as 80 per cent.

Fortunately the Germans were systematic about inoculation, so contagious diseases are not so rife except for venereal disease. But present conditions are not calculated to improve the public health. The ministry of social welfare says 800,000 Poles are living in holes in the ground and this number is likely to increase with continued repatriations to at least 1 million.

MINES LOOSED BY STORM PERIL EUROPE SHIPS

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Mines torn from unswept mine fields tonight imperiled scores of vessels including the 81,000 ton Queen Mary, caught offshore in the worst storm in 20 years as they rode out mountainous waves churned up by a 90 mile an hour gale.

The four day old blow sweeping over all of western Europe and the British Isles has caused the sinking of four vessels and millions in property damage. A total of 20 persons were dead or feared dead on land and sea. Sea rescues kept the toll from being far higher.

Mines Hurled About

Scores of mines torn from charted mine fields were hurled about by the 50 foot waves endangering sea coast towns as well as ships.

A mail tug fought thru to the Queen Mary late today but none of its 1,020 passengers was removed. Residents of the Isle of Wight, from where the Mary was visible, said she was tossing in a savage mass of tumbling water and high spray, the sea crashing against her sides and cascading over her superstructure.

Repatriation Ships Delayed

Other big ships held at sea by the storm included the liner Empress of Australia, with 1,775 passengers, and the Antenor, both British repatriation ships off Liverpool, and the channel steamer Isle of Jersey, carrying 600, off the Channel Islands.

Four ships capsized off the Isle of Wight, with two seamen feared lost. A Dutch fishing vessel docked at Brussels with two Belgian fishermen who said 13 of their companions were lost after their boat sank Wednesday.

French fishermen from St. Nazaire saved the captain and all 40 crewmen of the storm wrecked American Liberty ship Charles C. Glover, whose hull was smashed on a reef 20 miles out. She was carried away by the tide.

U. S. RECOGNITION FOR VENEZUELA EXPECTED SOON

[By Cable to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

CARACAS, Venezuela, Oct. 26—Venezuela's junta received unofficial advices today that its recognition by the United States was expected within 24 hours. To demonstrate the pro-democratic feeling of the new regime it was made clear here that no dealings would be had with the governments of Spain and the Dominican republics.

By late afternoon four countries had officially recognized the Betancourt regime, it was said. These were Cuba, Ecuador, Paraguay, and Panama. [Another dispatch added México and Bolivia to the list.]

MISTRESS TELLS SUICIDE PACT OF LEY, GOEBBELS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 26—Madeleine Wanderer, the 20 year old Estonian ballet dancer who was the last of Dr. Robert Ley's mistresses, told American interrogators today that when the allied armies invaded the reich last spring Ley and Dr. Joseph Goebbels vowed that they would never fall into allied hands to be imprisoned and punished by the united nations.

Ley supplied the poison with which Goebbels, his wife and children were believed to have committed suicide in the reich's chancellry just before the fall of Berlin, she declared.

Ley twice tried to shoot himself but each time his pistol failed. Ley was the father of her illegitimate child, Frau Wanderer declared, adding that he wanted to marry her but could not get Hitler's permission. Ley's wife committed suicide in 1942 after Ley had begun his liaison with Frau Wanderer.

STORY OF YANKS WHO WOULDN'T DIE TO BE TOLD

Tribune Series Will Bare Life of Prisoners

BY CARL WIEGMAN

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and associated newspapers tomorrow will begin publication of "Men Who Wouldn't Die," a thrilling story based on the diary kept by Maj. A. C. Tisdelle during 40 months as a Japanese prisoner of war. The story runs from surrender to victory. Maj. Tisdelle will be interviewed at 7 p. m. tomorrow on the Reading of The Tribune program over W-G-N.

Maj. Tisdelle, who was the aide de camp of Maj. Gen. Edward P. King Jr., commander of the American army on Bataan, was with the general at the surrender and tells for the first time the details of that tragic event.

Later Maj. Tisdelle was the American commander of 500 Yank prisoners who were forced to work as slaves in a Japanese coal mine. He gives the first comprehensive account of how prisoners were treated in the camps of Japan.

Treated Worse than Coolies

Chapters in the story deal with the trip to Japan in the hold of a frater, how the prisoners celebrated Christmas, how they handled grave morale problems, how they outwitted the Japs in small ways and were able to survive a treatment worse than that endured by Korean coolies.

Maj. Tisdelle, who was the aide-camp acquainted with Baron T. H. Mitsui, head of one of the richest families in Japan, and induced the baron to help the prisoners. The concluding instalments reveal how the Japs' attitude changed as defeat approached and how victory day came at last.

Maj. Tisdelle was born in Chicago 35 years ago, attended Loyola and New Trier High schools, and took tutor courses at Northwestern university. Before the war he was engaged in the investment banking and advertising businesses in Chicago.

Becomes Gen. King's Aide

In 1936 he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the reserves, serving with the famous Black Horse troop. In May, 1940, he went on active duty, and in the spring of the following year was sent to the Philippine Islands. He became Gen. King's aide in October of 1941 and was at his side thru the entire Bataan campaign.

Maj. Tisdelle was reunited with Gen. King in Mukden, Manchuria, after the end of the war, and flew back to the United States with him. Recently Gen. King came to Chicago to attend the wedding of Maj. Tisdelle and Miss Margot Massee.

HEARING ON 12 CENT 'L' FARE HIKE HELD OVER

Prospects for an immediate raise of elevated fares to 12 cents faded yesterday when Daniel A. Covelli, master in chancery for the Circuit court, continued a hearing on the necessity for the increase of 2 cents until Nov. 28.

Judge Philip Finnegan of the Circuit court had instructed Covelli to take testimony to show whether the elevated system is earning operating expenses. Under a decision of the Illinois Supreme court the company is entitled to temporary relief if income does not meet costs.

The delay was opposed by Attorneys William C. Wines for the attorney general, William H. Sexton for the city, and Harry R. Booth for the office of price administration. All are fighting against the fare increase. Atty. Thomas L. Marshall, representing the elevated, said he would be ready to introduce testimony on earnings in recent years when the hearings are resumed.

STATE'S SOLDIER BONUS COST PUT AT 350 MILLIONS

A state bonus of $400 for each Illinois service man would cost the taxpayers 350 million dollars plus interest, it was estimated yesterday by the legislative committee of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, which forwarded a statistical study to the state veterans compensation committee. The compensation committee recently estimated the proposed bonus might cost 500 millions.

James F. Stiles Jr., head of the state chamber of commerce said the study was undertaken to determine whether a cash bonus or some other benefit would best serve Illinois men and women who served during the war. The study assumed that 816,375 Illinois veterans would qualify for the bonus.

About 267,500 Illinois veterans of World War I. were paid an average of $206, at a total cost to the state treasury of 85 millions, the study showed.

STOP RELIGIOUS TEACHING HERE, SUIT DEMANDS

Religious education of Chicago public school pupils, which has been in effect since 1929, was challenged yesterday in a suit for mandamus filed in Superior court by Ira Latimer, secretary of the Chicago Civil Liberities committee. He asked that the board of education be ordered to halt the program.

The suit, filed by Atty. Landon Chapman, who represented Mrs. Vashti McCollum in her suit against the Champaign board of education over its religious education, would affect a program now including approximately 4,500 Protestant and 18,000 Catholic pupils.

Latimer's petition charged that school facilities and the time of school officials and teachers are used for the program, and therefore school funds are diverted to religious education in violation of the state constitution and state legislation.

NEW PUBLICITY PLAN FOR TRADE PACTS ORDERED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—President Truman by executive order today established the system of giving publicity to projected trade agreements with other countries.

At the same time, the President created a new committee for reciprocity information, composed of representatives from various government departments and agencies, to hear the views of interested persons on proposed trade agreements.

Under the order, notice of the government's intention to conclude any trade agreement must be published 30 days ahead of time in the Federal Register, the State Department bulletin, the Treasury Decisions, and the Foreign Commerce Weekly.

TRIBUNE RAISES WHITE COLLAR WORKERS 10 PCT.

White collar, nonexecutive employes of THE TRIBUNE will receive a 10 per cent salary increase effective Oct. 29, Elbert M. Antrim, business manager of the Tribune company, announced yesterday. Office workers of W-G-N, Inc., also will benefit. In all, some 1,300 persons will be affected.

"We've been considering this ever since August, when the federal wage freeze ended," Antrim said. "We realized that living costs had gone up, and this seemed the best way to help our employes meet the situation."

He pointed out that, even without the 10 per cent increase, TRIBUNE wages were the highest in the industry and its employe benefits the most liberal.

Liberal Benefits Enjoyed

These benefits include payment of full salary to ill or disabled employes for as long as six months, group life insurance running as high as $11,000, payments of as much as $300 monthly to the families of employes on military leave, bonuses based on length of service and amount of salary, vacations with pay, and a generous voluntary pension plan. There also are a credit and two savings plans, free dental service, and wedding gifts.

Expenditure for benefit purposes by the company for the first nine months of 1945 totaled $734,842.53.

Tribune Plan Industrial Model

The Tribune voluntary pension plan, which has been widely studied in industry, now provides 91 former employes with a life income. Of these 34 are ex-composing room employes. The others are divided as follows: editorial, 10; etching, 6; stereotype, 2; black press, 5; roto etching, 1; roto press, 4; advertising, 3; circulation, 7; mailing and delivery, 3; auditing, 7; administration, 8; ink manufacturing, 1.

In a recent survey of the seven major classifications of Tribune employes, it was found that ex-employes of the composing room, which has 16 per cent of the total number of employes in the seven classifications, accounted for 44 per cent of the pension pay roll.

Distribution of Benefits

Distribution of Tribune benefit payments among seven major classifications of employes during the first nine months of 1945 follows:

	Number of employes	Pct. of total pension payments	Pct. of all major benefit payments
Regular and color engraving	104	7	6
Black press	259	5	10
Composing	395	44	21
Drivers	182	1	6
Stereotypers	88	2	2
Mailing	289	1	6
White collar	1,140	40	49

White collar workers, who make up 48 per cent of the total in the seven groups, or three times that of the composing room, received 40 per cent of the total pension payments.

DR. TICE RESIGNS AS HEAD OF TB HOSPITAL BOARD

Mayor to Accept; No Successor in Mind

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Dr. Frederick Tice, for the last 14 years president of the board of directors of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, resigned yesterday after weeks of accusations by hundreds of patients and attaches that the hospital was poorly managed.

Dr. Frederick Tice

Dr. Tice's resignation climaxed a series of charges, investigations and changes in the institution for which Chicago pays 3 millions a year in taxes, including condemnation of the meals, loaning of the city school's lunchroom expert, and surveys by physicians and organizations in which the health service was criticized.

New Food System Installed

After an investigation by a Chicago restaurant committee, made at the request of Mayor Kelly, the school board loaned F. O. Washam, director of lunchrooms, who installed a system assuring wholesome and well-cooked meals.

Three doctors of the Mississippi Valley Tuberculosis conference, in a multiple-page report of their survey of the institution, described medical care as merely "adequate" and made a number of recommendations for improvements.

Mayor Kelly announced he will accept Dr. Tice's resignation. The mayor said he has "no one in mind right now" to fill the vacancy. He said he has neither received nor considered resignations of any other board members or sanitarium heads and administrators.

Harry J. Reynolds, a contractor, is vice president of the board of directors. Dr. Richard Davison, $5,000 a year surgeon at M. T. S., is the third man on the board.

Writes: "It Seems Advisable"

In his letter of resignation to Mayor Kelly, Dr. Tice ignored all the letters of complaint from patients and attaches—one of which was signed by 435 of them. He wrote:

"After devoting several years of conscientious and faithful service, with many personal hardships and sacrifices, as president of the board, to make and create a sanitarium with an enviable reputation, it seems advisable to tender my resignation as of the present date. With regrets, I am, yours truly. . . ."

Dr. Tice began his public career as an intern at County hospital in 1895. He rose to be president of its staff, but resigned in 1937, five years after the late Mayor Cermak had appointed him president of the M. T. S. board on May 18, 1931.

9 CHICAGOANS BEARING NO. 13 BEAT TYPHOONS

SHANGHAI, China—[Delayed]—Nine Chicago sailors carried an unlucky number thru a lucky voyage and were among the first American navy men to move into Shanghai, after the end of hostilities. The unit was the mysterious NABU 13, or naval advance base unit 13. Members of the group, most of them Seabees, were the first American to move thru the Yangtze and Wangpoo rivers in eight years.

The LSTs that brought the unit to Shanghai for Samar Island were uneffected by two typhoons, and the exploding of a floating mine rocked one of the craft.

The Chicagoans are Albert Candusso, 2014 Lawler av.; Robert McCann, 7653 S. Stewart av.; Joseph G. FIGHT EFFORT FOR NEW GAG ON PEARL HARBOR

Report Valuable Files Have Vanished

Key Message "Missing"

"The congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor is reportedly concerned because some vital files, mentioned in the army and navy reports, are missing," the news letter said. "Oddly enough, the 'east wind rain' key message, Japanese radiogram warning of a declaration of war on the United States, cannot be found. According to some accounts, President Roosevelt received word of this warning the day before the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.

"Additionally, there are rumors that official pressure has been exerted on some officers to change their testimony.

"Furthermore, it is now known that President Truman, on the day he released the army and navy reports, sent a directive to the services and government departments forbidding all personnel to talk of the decoded messages. Will this prevent some witnesses from talking freely?"

The effort to silence army and navy and other official personnel was begun under Roosevelt with the submission of a bill early this year providing a heavy penalty for any one revealing so-called top secrets. Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.], now a member of the investigating committee, charged that the top secret being protected was Pearl Harbor, and blocked senate passage of the bill until some ameliorating amendments could be tacked on.

Bill Killed in House

The bill was not brought up on the floor of the house until this week. It was killed there when several members, headed by Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.], also a committee member, charged it might hamper the inquiry into Pearl Harbor thru possible barring of decoded Jap messages to the investigators.

In the weeks between release of the army and navy reports on Pearl Harbor last Aug. 29 and the house action yesterday, Mr. Truman achieved the purposes of the bill by his directive. This directive effectively sealed army and navy lips about Pearl Harbor, particularly on the breaking of the Jap codes.

Members of the committee asked that the directive be rescinded altho the committee, like all congressional committees, has the power of subpena and could question any one it wished. It was felt that the rescinding of the directive would facilitate questioning of witnesses.

Urge Modification

A suggested executive order to rescind the directive was prepared by the committee counsel, William D. Mitchell, and approved by the committee. Republicans proposed that the suggested order be modified to permit individual members of the committee to question officers on active duty without subjecting them to possible disciplinary action.

Mr. Truman issued the order asked by the committee counsel. This directs any officer to give evidence to the committee. The order does not specify that there must be a majority vote on the summoning of witnesses, altho it was conceded that such an interpretation could be defended under the language of the order.

Under such a strict interpretation, an individual committee member might be required to get consent of the committee before he could talk to an officer. It also would be possible for the majority to vote down such a request from a minority member.

However, it was said at the White House this was not the purpose of the order. It also was said the whole problem undoubtedly would be resolved satisfactorily by the committee.

52 Pages Kept Secret

"Let them try to stop me from talking to any one and I don't charge seriously that they will—and I will go on the floor of the house, on the public platform, and on the radio to shout that the administration is suppressing the truth about Pearl Harbor," said Keefe. "With that I am sure the people will break any shackling stranglehold the democrats might apply on the republican membership of the committee."

It was reported in congress that Mr. Truman contemplated going further than the directive to the army and navy in suppressing the secrets of the 52 pages of the army and navy reports which have been withheld from the public. It was said that he prepared, and signed, an executive order barring these pages for all time, not only from the American people but also from the investigating committee.

According to the story current on capitol hill, the White House was about to issue this order when the Australian minister of defense let the cat out of the bag by asserting the victory over the Japanese in the battle of the Coral Sea was due, in great measure, to the breaking of the Jap code.

Couldn't Issue Order

Once the breaking of the code had been publicized, it was felt that the executive order could not be issued, as it would then be apparent that the real purpose of the order was to suppress the facts.

Within the same week in which the Australian minister made his disclosure, it also was reported that American breaking of the Japanese code had enabled American air forces to ambush and kill Adm. Yamamoto. Since then there have been frequent references to the code breaking in congress.

The "east wind rain," which Human Events reported is missing from navy files, is one of the major secrets of the 52 suppressed report pages, according to members of congress. It has a fascinating history centering on the breaking of the Japanese code.

Early on Dec. 6, 1941, the day before Pearl Harbor, the British intercepted a message from Budapest to Tokyo, according to members of the investigating committee. This read: "On the 6th the American minister [John F. Montgomery] to the government of this country [Hungary] reported a British government communique to the effect that a state of war would break out on the 7th."

Intercept Message

That night the American government intercepted a Japanese coded message to Kichisaburo Nomura and Saburo Kurusu [Japanese ambassador and special envoy, respectively, who were negotiating in Washington] containing the note they were directed to present in breaking off relations with the United States. The note was presented the next day.

By 9 p. m., E. S. T., the night before Pearl Harbor, that note was on the desks of War Secretary Stimson and the late Navy Secretary Knox. An hour later it was on the desks of President Roosevelt and former State Secretary Hull.

This Jap message was accompanied by an additional coded note saying special instructions as to the time of presentation would follow.

As a result of these messages Roosevelt and his secretaries, Knox, Stimson, and Hull, knew everything except what hour the attack was to come, according to members of the investigating committee. The "east wind rain" message gave the answer to the hour.

This message had been received earlier by the navy in intercepting communications from Tokyo to the envoys. When decoded, the three words meant little. However, by some means not as yet known to the investigating committee, the meaning of this message was solved by a naval officer.

Evidently the Japs had prepared a series of code messages within their regular code. These employed weather terms to signify military operations against Britain, China, Russia, and the United States and signaled the place of attack.

CIO STEEL UNION TO FILE STRIKE VOTE PETITIONS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—Their demands for a wage increase of $2 a day rejected, the CIO United Steel Workers said today they will file petitions for strike votes by more than 600,000 employes of 766 steel, aluminum, and iron ore companies.

Philip Murray, president of the steel workers and the CIO, made the disclosure at a press conference after the union's 175 man wage policy committee had authorized its officers to "take whatever action they deemed necessary" toward getting the pay raise.

Ready by Monday

Murray said he "hoped to have the petitions in the the hands of the NLRB, WLB, and the labor secretary no later than Monday."

He said all 766 of the companies, including such large firms as United States Steel, Jones & Laughlin, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, had rejected the wage demand.

He estimated that the number of workers affected by the strike vote petitions eventually may run close to a million. He said 643,595 employes of the 766 companies involved are members of 1,042 local CIO unions.

VOTE CHRYSLER STRIKE

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26—(AP)—CIO United Auto Workers employed by the Chrysler corporation voted 19,870 to 2,359 yesterday in favor of a strike to support their demand for a 30 per cent wage increase, the national labor relations board announced today.

Only 22,304 of the 98,557 workers eligible to vote participated in the election. Seventy-five ballots were ruled void.

A strike vote among Ford Motor company workers will be held Nov. 7.

SORRELL MEETS WARNER

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 26 (AP)—With the end of picketing at all studios, Strike Leader Herbert Sorrell and Harry Warner, president of Warner Brothers, today scheduled personal conferences on this issue: Are the studios liable for injuries and property damage suffered by pickets at their gates?

At a mass meeting of 4,500 strikers last night, Sorrell, head of the Conference of Studio Unions, said neither Warners' nor any other studio would be picketed today. He said a decision on whether to go back to work Monday would be made at a meeting Sunday night.

ASK DOCK MEDIATION

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—The AFL International Longshoremen's association and the New York Shipping association tonight asked the government to arbitrate their dispute over a work contract.

The Longshoremen returned to their jobs Oct. 19, ending an 18 day strike. Earlier this week they rejected contract proposals made by the shipping association.

PAY OFFICE LEFT OPEN

Meadville, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—Shipment of zippers ceased today from three Meadville plants of Talon, Inc., where pickets kept 3,000 workers from all departments except the paymaster's office.

A strike started two days ago after 350 AFL tool and die makers voted in favor of a walkout. The union seeks "equalization of wage rates for employes doing comparable work" and a pay raise for all workers.

ELECTRIC WORKERS QUIT

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—Eight hundred night shift workers at the Philadelphia plant of the General Electric company marched out tonight, bringing to 5,000 the number of workers idle as the result of a dispute over a new contract. John A. Warren, a member of the executive board of local 119, United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers [CIO], called the stoppage "not a strike but a protest." He said it was called because the company "will not negotiate."

MACHINE TOOL STRIKE

Providence, R. I., Oct. 26—(AP)—A union official reported that 50 per cent of the employes of the Brown and Sharpe Manufacturing company, makers of machine tools, today refused to pass picket lines manned by clerical workers striking for a 65 cents hourly wage minimum.

Raymond J. Jamieson, president of local 76, AFL Office Employes' International union, said that 800 of the 1,000 office employes on strike were joined by 2,200 of the 5,000 production workers at the plant.

WARNS OF TIRE STRIKE

Akron, O., Oct. 26 (AP)—L. S. Buckmaster, international president of the CIO United Rubber Workers of America, today said the union would support its wage and hour demands by striking one major tire company at a time if necessary.

In a letter to local union presidents, Buckmaster declared, "Our best chance of gaining substantial wage increases is by cracking the armor of one or more of the larger companies."

Buckmaster earlier this week make public a seven point program, including a 30 cents per hour wage increase and a 30 hour work week.

DOZEN FLIGHTS SLATED TODAY IN AIRLINES' STRIKE

American Airlines officials last night scheduled 12 flights in and out of Chicago for today, compared with eight flown yesterday as ground crews and maintenance men continued their strike and posted picket lines at the company's shop at the airport. Normally, the airlines operates 51 outbound and inbound flights daily.

Flights at 8 p. m. to Mexico City and at 5:15 p. m. to New York were added to the curtailed schedule. The other outbound flights will be at 2:30 p. m. to New York, 3:45 p. m. to Washington, D. C.; 6:20 p. m. to New York, and 11:50 p. m. to Los Angeles, Cal. The incoming flights will include three from New York and one each from Washington, Dallas, Tex., and Los Angeles.

Operations out of New York, where the strike again last Tuesday, again were normal with the exception of restricted flights to Detroit, Mich., where 15 maintenance men walked out Thursday, and to Chicago. In Chicago maintenance foremen and supervisors sent four flights from the city and received four.

ACTOR IN EQUITY ROW CALLS FAY A NAME CALLER

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Oct. 26—A sixth charge against Frank Fay, New York stage star, has been brought before the council of Actors Equity association in the squabble between pro-Communists and conservatives over leadership of the AFL union of all stage performers, it was learned today.

Meanwhile, Godfrey P. Schmidt, attorney for Fay, said the other five charges on which Fay was convicted and "censured" by the council, governing body of equity, involve "a clear issue of free speech" and that he will fight the case thru the courts if Equity's membership fails to exonerate Fay.

Fay was censured for conduct "prejudicial" to equity and its members for alleged criticism of five players, Margo, Sono Osato, Luba Malina, Jean Darling, and David Brooks, who attended a Red front rally in Madison Square garden Sept. 24, where the Roman Catholic church was attacked. Fay is a Catholic.

Attacks Censure of Fay

"What Fay actually said about those five players," Schmidt explained, "was, 'if this is true, it is inexcusable.'"

"Certainly, under the bill of rights, he had every privilege to make such a remark. They cannot force my client to keep quiet by waving the big stick of discipline."

Schmidt said Fay did not accuse the five players at the Red front meeting of misconduct. He asked only for an investigation of the incident, whereupon each of the five filed a charge against Fay, Schmidt said.

Schmidt said the charges on which Fay was censured were brought on "hearsay evidence."

The sixth charge against Fay, brought by Actor Philip Loeb, a fellow council member and well known Red sympathizer, threatens to reduce the Equity association fight to the status of a school yard scrap between bad boys. It seems Loeb thinks Fay called him a nasty name.

Filed in Legal Form

Loeb's charge, filed in dignified legal form with the equity council, reads:

"I herewith bring charges against Mr. Frank Fay for conduct unbecoming a councilor and member of this association for calling me a '.....,' as attested by Miss [Mady] Christians, Miss [Rebecca] Brownstein, Miss [Edith] Atwater, Mr. [Paul] McGrath, Mr. [Sam] Jaffe, and Mr. [Louie] Calhern."

Fay has filed an equally dignified answer:

"I deny as complete and malicious misrepresentation Mr. Loeb's allegations that I addressed to him [or to any one else] language and conduct such as he describes in his charge."

Arthur Harding, assistant president of Equity, said the charge must go on formal trial next Tuesday before Equity's council unless Loeb withdraws it.

Booed by Leftists

The "name calling" incident, as related by Fay, occurred during the Equity council meeting Oct. 2, where Fay planned to request investigation of the five players who appeared at the joint Anti-Fascist Refugee committee rally to raise funds for the so-called Spanish republicans. Harold J. Laski of the British Labor party criticized the Catholic church in a broadcast to the meeting after the actors left.

Several Red sympathizers in the council, who had been working to block Fay's move, booed him down. Loeb came at him, waving a sheaf of papers. Then there was an exchange between Fay and Paul Robeson, Negro singer and avowed Communist supporter.

The conservatives who are aligned with Fay assert that the leftists in Equity want to get control of it and submerge it in other theatrical, radio, and screen unions which are strictly "party line" organizations. Equity's officers say it never has deviated from a strict nonpolitical course, and they are fighting to keep it on that track.

ASSAILS HIDING OF WAR RECORDS AT F. D. R.'S HOME

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—Rep. Dondero [R., Mich.] today assailed what he called the hiding of secret records of the Pearl Harbor disaster "in a vault at Hyde Park," New York, home of the late President Roosevelt.

On the house floor yesterday Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.], member of the committee investigating Pearl Harbor, said he has been unable to obtain access to the files. Later Rep. Murphy [D., Pa.] said he had been told by the White House that the files at Hyde Park would be made available to the committee.

"The secret records in connection with Pearl Harbor," Dondero told a reporter, "should not have been carted away to Hyde Park. Whatever they contain is information which belongs to the entire nation."

Supersonic Plane Tests Revealed by 2 Firms

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 26 (AP)—Two major aviation concerns revealed today they were working on supersonic airplanes. One of them announced it was sending new flying devices thru the air at more than 1,400 miles an hour.

Thus for the first time, supersonic speed—which means above the 750 mile-an-hour speed of sound—has been nearly doubled by a controled, self-sustained flying device.

Dr. C. C. Furnas, director of the Curtiss-Wright research laboratory, said military security made it necessary to withhold all details about these supersonic speed machines. He would say only that they were not rockets and not artillery shells, and that at present they were pilotless craft.

Work on Guided Missiles

Lawrence D. Bell, president of Bell aircraft, announced his concern was working not only on supersonic planes but also on guided missiles, rockets and radio controled pilotless aircraft. He, too, refused to go into details for military reasons.

Both men spoke to a group of reporters who have been touring the country to study reconversion progress.

"Right now the devices are not carrying pilots, but we are working on this," Dr. Furnas said.

"We think the value of this development will be largely military. Such speeds are too fast for commercial use, altho if any one wanted to pay enough to go that fast we probably could make it possible within 20 years."

Highest Previous Speed

The highest previously announced speed for a flying machine has been under 750 miles an hour.

Dr. Furnas also announced the development of a telemetering system whereby the performance data of an object in flight could be recorded at a mobile receiving unit. He said this had enabled them to study the instruments and performances of the special flying devices while they were traveling at speeds so great that the sound waves created would be inaudible to the human ear.

Dr. Furnas reported his research laboratory was working on the problems of getting a pilot out of an airplane while it was traveling at speeds greater than that of sound. If a human being jumped from a plane traveling at such speeds he would be killed instantly. In fact, he added, few men had been able to live after leaving an aircraft traveling at 500 miles an hour.

One possible solution may be the jettisoning of part of the plane containing the pilot, so that he could jump from it after the speed had been reduced.

Dr. Furnas reported he was meeting unusual problems in getting a plane above the speed of sound. At 750 miles an hour, he said, shock waves arise and special airplane wings are necessary. A double wedge shaped wing has given the best results so far.

Denmark Sends Its Bill to Nazis: $2,400,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 26—Denmark's reparations claim against Germany, which has been figured out at $2,400,000,000, includes the cost of maintaining the nazi army of occupation for five years. The bill was forwarded today to the international conference which will assemble in Paris Nov. 9 to settle claims against Germany.

Ready to Set the Clock Back

On Standard Time

Residents of Chicago and suburbs, the only major area of the country on daylight savings time, will turn their clocks back one hour tonight. While the official change-over is scheduled for 2 a. m., most persons will set their clocks back one hour when they retire.

Since Oct. 1, when national war time ended after being in effect three and one-half years, Chicago railroads have been operating on standard time while the city and suburbs have continued to keep clocks an hour fast.

S. E. Hastings, Chicago superintendent of Western Union Telegraph company, warned those with Western Union and electrical clocks that the resetting should be done by advancing the minute hand around the dial 11 times. Minute hands of electrically synchronized clocks, he pointed out, should not be turned backward and the hour hand should not be touched.

JAPAN BALKS AT RECALLING ALL FOREIGN ENVOYS

TOKYO, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Japanese today questioned the propriety of allied orders to disband their diplomatic network abroad, while Gen. MacArthur's headquarters expressed ignorance of the prospective arrival of British and other troops to share in the occupation.

American authorities seized new caches of precious metals and other treasures of doubtful title and pressed a campaign to confiscate all arms held by Japanese. While most Japanese military stores have been handed over, disarming of individuals is expected to take until Dec. 1.

Disbandment of the Japanese diplomatic and consular services was ordered by MacArthur yesterday on instructions from the joint chiefs of staff in Washington, D. C.

Today the Domei agency said foreign office officials intended to ask allied authorities whether this unprecedented step conformed with the Potsdam declaration under which Japan surrendered.

The ship shot down 15 suicide planes, but was hit by seven others.

REPORT DUTCH, INDONESE NEAR PARLEY STAGE

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 26 (AP)—Prodded by both American and British diplomatic representatives, Dutch and Indonesian leaders appeared closer tonight to negotiating on their differences in the Netherlands East Indies.

H. J. Van Mook, acting governor of the islands, was reported to have asked President Soekarno of the "Indonesian republic" to meet with him at the home of Lt. Gen. Philip Christison, the British military commander. A reliable source said Van Mook was ready for exploratory talks.

Formation of an interim government with the Dutch in control was seen as a possible outcome. The price the Indonesians would ask for joining such an administration would be the setting of a definite date when they could achieve complete independence.

The Indonesians have asked for the United States to act as a mediator. The Dutch at first wanting to settle with the Indonesians alone, now seem to prefer Britain as a third party.

Soekarno called on United States Consul General Walter A. Foote today, accompanied by his foreign minister, Soebardjo. They talked informally for more than an hour.

ISLE OF DESPAIR, THAT'S OKINAWA TO HOMESICK GIs

OKINAWA, Oct. 26 (AP)—This typhoon battered island, where some of the bitterest fighting of the Pacific war raged, has become the bottleneck for United States service men frantic to return home.

Already it has been labeled by some as "The Island of Despair."

As the war ended, Okinawa had become a huge staging base preparatory to invasion of Japan. Collapse of the Japanese left the island heavily populated with troops.

Then, on Oct. 9 and 10, a fierce typhoon swept in from the sea, flattening Quonset huts, smashing shipping, ripping grounded airplanes. An already serious transportation problem trebled overnight.

Men here agree the typhoon not alone was the cause of their troubles, but it was obvious it greatly aggravated the entire situation. The food question became acute. Parachuted rations were only a temporary alleviation. Loss of mail was considered an especially hard blow by men anxious to hear from their wives and families.

U. S. STEAMS OUT OF GEN. WANG'S BLOODLESS WAR

BY JOSEPH HEARST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WEIHAIWEI, Shantung Province, China, Oct. 26—This is the story of Gen. Wang Chu-san, who mysteriously came into a wad of money after being dead broke and embarked a force of 1,500 men on an amphibious operation against the Chinese Communists at Chefoo. The expeditionary force has yet to fire a shot.

Gen. Wang, a very fast talker altho unable to promote himself a general's uniform to replace his colonel's outfit, appears destined to fail in his operation against Chefoo, 50 miles east of here. However, he may take solace in the fact that the presence of his men there caused United States naval units to move out of the harbor fast.

Said He Would Help

The general may not be typical, but his story illustrates some of the problems with which American military officials in North China must cope. Shortly after the marines landed at Taku Sept. 30, Wang appeared at marine headquarters, said he commanded 1,700 very tough men who had fought thruout the war against the treacherous Japs and the equally treacherous—so he said—Chinese Communists in the Taku-Tientsin area.

He said he would be glad to help the marines handle the situation.

Lt. Col. H. L. Hodge, brigade commander, said that was mighty nice of him and then started checking up on Wang. Folks around Taku said they didn't like the general and indicated his presence was as bad as a swarm of locusts, for they had to feed and house them. He was nothing but a guerilla leader, they added.

Wang told Hodge he represented the Kuomintang [central government] for from what Hodge already had seen in North China, this might well be. But Hodge learned Wang was broke and not above sending his men to help themselves at marine supply dumps. Then Wang disappeared and Hodge thought his troubles were over.

Back With the Cash

But a few days later the general turned up with plenty of money and a plan for invading Chefoo from the sea and coming to grips with the Communists who control the city. Chefoo is the port which Vice Adm. Daniel E. Barbey, commanding the 7th amphibious force, and Maj Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commanding all the marines in North China, recommended that United States forces stay out of. Wang didn't say who was financing him, but conceivably the Chinese central government would be pleased to see the Communists ousted.

Col. Hodge was willing to do anything to get Wang out of his immediate vicinity by this time so he gave him safe conduct out of the Haiho river and into the Chihli gulf and forgot the matter.

Now the picture shifts to Chefoo harbor where on the morning of Oct. 19 Rear Adm. Thomas G. W. Settle, onetime stratosphere balloonist, was aboard the anchored cruiser San Francisco. Settle was surprised to see eight small steamers and four junks—some flying the United States flag—arrive and disembark Chinese troops on barren Evans Island, about a mile and one-half from the nearest Communists. He observed that the visitors had rifles and a few machine guns.

Asks or Fire Support

One boat brought a Chinese officer to the San Francisco for a talk with Settle. The officer said he represented Gen. Wang who, unfortunately, had been unable to accompany his men to Chefoo and that the force was a mobile unit of the Shantung Kuomintang force. He said all he wanted was for Adm. Settle to turn the cruiser's big guns loose on Chefoo and cover his landing. Settle's answer was to get up steam and move away quickly to Weihaiwei along with his destroyer escort.

Since then Gen. Wang's force has been sitting on the island watching the Communist held shore and the Communists have been watching his men. You Chou, communist mayor of Weihaiwei, said today that Wang's men have hi-jacked 10 junks and appropriated all the food and merchandise on them.

He said the junk men, who were later released, reported that they recognized men in Wang's force who formerly were in the puppet troops of Japan at Chefoo, Fushan, and Penglaiha.

Low on Supplies

Presence of Wang's troops has caused some apprehension here where it was reported the garison has been increased to 2,300 communist troops. However, Mayor Yu believes the force eventually will get hungry and go back to Taku. Adm. Barbey concurs in this view.

VON RUNDSTEDT AND KESSELRING TO BE TRIED AS CRIMINALS

Marshals Kesselring [top] and Von Rundstedt

NUERNBERG, Germany, Oct. 26 (AP)—Field Marshals Karl Rudolph Gerd von Rundstedt and Albert Kesselring will go on trial for their lives as war criminals after the Neurnberg trials are concluded, it was learned today.

Under the provisions of appendix B of the war crimes indictment handed down in Berlin Oct. 18, trial is mandatory for both Von Rundstedt, who planned the Christmas breakthru in the Ardennes last year, and "Smiling Albert" Kesselring, whose stubborn defensive tactics cost thousands of allied lives in Italy.

Appendix B refers to the general staff and high command of the German armed forces.

TRUMAN MOVES TO CURB UNREST IN PHILIPPINES

Told Guerrillas Threaten Government Stability

BY WILLIAM STRAND
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26—Investigation of civilian unrest in the Philippines was ordered today by President Truman. In a memorandum to Philippine Commissioner McNutt, the President asserted the stability of the island government is being threatened by a guerrilla army which did not disband at the end of the war.

McNutt is scheduled to leave soon for the islands. He was instructed to make an inquiry upon his arrival and to recommend remedies.

The President also called upon Atty. Gen. Clark to move against natives who proved disloyal to the United States during the war but who are reported still to be holding important offices in the commonwealth government.

Act Before Election

Mr. Truman said it is essential that the task of investigating and trying the offenders be completed before the holding of the next general election in the islands. Intelligence sections of the war and navy departments were directed to assist in the justice department's inquiry and to make their records available to the investigators.

The communications to McNutt and Clark were two of several Truman sent during the day to officials calling for counter-measures to ease the commonwealth thru the post-war period. They were drafted following a series of conferences with the island president, Sergio Osmena, Interior Secretary Ickes, and McNutt.

Currency Is Problem

The letters to War Secretary Patterson and Treasury Secretary Vinson instructed them to prepare recommendations as to what should be done about redeeming emergency currency issued in the Philippines during the war. To Patterson, Mr. Truman also said that aid should be given the Philippines in reorganizing the constabulary "on a nonmilitary basis."

The memorandum to McNutt dealt largely with what was termed agrarian unrest. Thousands of men, said the President, are involved in the movement. He explained that these are sharecroppers who organized a guerrilla army "which reportedly did good work" against the Japanese but has refused to disband "and today constitute a special problem."

The President emphasized, however, that these Filipinos must not be dealt with ruthlessly. As a result of their efforts against the enemy, he asserted, they have a legitimate claim to fair treatment.

BRITISH ORDER U. S. WRITER OUT OF PALESTINE

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 26 (AP)—American war correspondent Constantine Poulos of the Overseas news agency has been ordered to leave Palestine at the request of the British commanding officer there.

Lt. Col. George P. Welch, public relations officer in the United States middle eastern theater, said that Poulos, who is now back in Cairo, had been declared persona non grata by the British, but had not been disaccredited by the United States army. Brig. J. V. McCormack, British public relations officer, confirmed that Poulos had been dismissed but said he could not give a reason for the action. Poulos, a native of Boston, Mass., came here after being informed in Jerusalem that his 30 day military travel orders for Palestine had been revoked. No explanation was given him.

Poulos, in a dispatch from Jerusalem Oct. 23, compared the Palestine of today with Greece a year ago, and said the comparison was "odious but inescapable." He said recent British broadcasts revealed "studious efforts by the British to build up tension" in Palestine preparatory to intervention.

ASSAILS DELAY IN REPATRIATION OF TYLER KENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26—A protest against delay in repatriating Tyler Kent, former American embassy code clerk in London, was registered today by Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.], who suggested that the administration may be holding up Kent's return until "gag" legislation can be passed to prevent him from telling his story.

Kent was arrested in 1939 in London under mysterious circumstances. He was charged, as an embassy code clerk, with disclosing contents of coded messages.

His sentence expired Oct. 5, but his deportation to the United States, first scheduled for Oct. 11, has been twice delayed, Hoffman noted.

Hoffman said in a statement inserted in the Congressional Record that he will offer a resolution Monday calling on the state department to explain its stand in the Kent case.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—The war department today announced that voluntary enlistments in the new peace time regular army reached 44,799 on Oct. 19.

Of this number, 48.92 per cent are former regular army soldiers; 43.15 per cent are men who are serving or who have served as a result of the draft, and 7.93 per cent are men without previous service.

The department also made public figures showing that thru Oct. 21, more than 2 million soldiers have been discharged from the army since V-E day.

TROOPER'S GUN WOUNDS TWO AT REFORM SCHOOL

Eldora, Ia., Oct. 26 [Special]—Two inmates of the Eldora State Training School for Boys, recently the scene of mass escapes, rioting, and death, today were wounded by slugs from a state guardsman's sawed off shot gun which assertedly was discharged accidentally.

James Jorter, 15, of Council Bluffs, was near death. Dr. D. N. Nyquist, Eldora physician, said "continuous" blood transfusions were being given him. The other victim, Hugh Riddle, 16, of Dow City, was wounded in the left wrist.

Lt. Col. Earl C. Wickham, commanding officer of the Iowa state guardsmen who have been preserving order at the school for two months, said the guardsman's gun apparently was defective. He said the weapon was discharged when the guardsman leaned over to open a stockade door to take Porter out for a drink of water. Col. Wickham said an inquiry is being made to determine how a shell came to be in the chamber of the gun, which was against orders tho shells are permitted in the magazine. The name of the guardsman was withheld.

BRITISH BEAT OFF ATTACKS BY ANNAMESE

SAIGON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Annamese forces made heavy attacks against British Indian troops north of Saigon last night but were beaten off upon the arrival of reinforcements, a southeast Asia command bulletin said today. No casualty figures were given.

Elsewhere, British and French troops reported comparative quiet as they cleaned out areas where the Annamese are contesting French rule in Indo-China.

The French occupied Myitho and Tanan without opposition and announced that two police posts had been reëstablished in Cholon after a brief skirmish.

British troops arrested a large number of Annamese and seized a quantity of arms and ammunition in the Cholon area.

Two gendarmes and a civil service official were wounded by a grenade, the French said. Independent eyewitnesses said Annamese and Chinese bystanders were felled by French rifle fire.

DEMOCRATS QUIT AS MRS. F. D. R. GETS TALK BID

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 26 (AP)—Two executive committee members of the Young Democrats of Georgia today resigned their posts because, they said, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt had been invited to address their statewide meeting here Dec. 3 and 4.

The two, Earl Wingo and Robert N. Fellows, in a letter to Executive Director Sid Williams, also said the director had invited a number of Negroes to attend the meeting.

Jim Evitt of Ringgold, Ga., president of the organization, said no Negroes had been invited. Wingo and Fellows wrote Williams in part:

"Our ideas are not in harmony with the speaker, who from press reports favors racial social equality."

N. Y. RIVALS GET BUSY; LINK EACH OTHER TO GANGS

BY ARTHUR EVANS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Oct. 26—Racketeering, slot machines, and the bookies are one phase of New York's three cornered mayoral campaign.

Judge Jonah J. Goldstein, candidate on tickets of the Republican, Liberal, and Fusion parties, and supporters of William O'Dwyer, candidate on the Democratic and communist dominated American Labor party tickets, are belaboring each other with charges and counter-charges of alliances with characters of the underworld.

Like Chicago Battles

Newbold Morris of the No Deal party, Mayor Fiorello La Guardia's protege, is depicting his two rivals as fronts for the bosses. In his speeches he is saying that the best intentioned Democratic or Republican candidate would be encircled by fixers and gamblers. The campaign has something of the flavor of old political battles in Chicago over the alliance of crime and politics.

O'Dwyer personally is giving no attention to Goldstein's accusations that "powerful underworld characters" are behind O'Dwyer. Others in the O'Dwyer camp, however, have countered with charges that Goldstein, before he went on the bench, was on friendly terms with three racketeers, including Dutch Schultz, the policy king slain in 1935 in a gang war. This brought denials from Goldstein.

Both Given Guards

Goldstein had a guard of two detectives last night after he reported he received threats as a result of his naming Frank Costello, slot machine king, as a power in the Democratic camp. Two detectives also were assigned to O'Dwyer, who did not report any threats.

Mayor La Guardia, in talking for Morris, has harped on slot machines and gambling. He declares that if O'Dwyer or Goldstein wins, 10,000 slot machines would spring up in New York. He said in one speech that slot machines, bookmaking, policy, and the number racket would yield a take of 10 million or 12 million dollars a year to the big politicians and lesser amounts for the "punks and clubhouse loafers."

It doesn't seem to excite New York very much, for public apathy still hovers over the campaign. The rival camps are hoping it will enliven before election Nov. 6.

Their Contrasting Backgrounds

The backgrounds of the three leading candidates are interesting. "It could happen nowhere else but in America," say the politicians.

Of the three, Morris, 43, of an old Knickerbocker family, is the only native American. He is 6 feet 3 inches tall and 10 years ago won the middle Atlantic championship in figure skating. For seven years he has been president of the city council.

Goldstein, 59, was born in Canada, one of eight children of a Lithuanian immigrant. He was brought to New York when 6 years old, took a law degree in 1907, and became secretary to the late Alfred E. Smith, then leader of the state assembly.

Tammany put Goldstein on the bench, and when Tammany later turned him down he ran as an independent and beat the wigwam.

How O'Dwyer Started

O'Dwyer, 55, was born in Ireland, son of school teachers who had 10 other children. He came to America in 1910 with $23.85 in his pocket, worked as a stevedore, then was a policeman for seven years, meanwhile studying law. As district attorney of Kings county in 1940 he smashed "Murder, Inc.", a gang of professional killers. In 1942 he entered the army as a major, and in 1944, while in Rome, was made a brigadier general. While on active duty he was reëlected district attorney by Democrats, Republicans, and American Laborites.

James A. Farley, former postmaster general and former Democratic national chairman, entered the campaigning tonight with a speech for O'Dwyer, one of three he is to make. In the guessing on 1945 politics there is a lot of speculation as to whether Farley will be a candidate for governor of New York.

JURY ACQUITS VET WHO SLEW WIFE'S LOVER

Madera, Cal., Oct. 26 (AP)—Lt. Claude Chipman, 27, today was acquitted on a murder charge in the rifle slaying of Herman Blood, 26, who he said he had found in the arms of his wife, Barbara, 21, three nights after he returned from army service in the China-Burma theater.

The verdict was reached by a jury of eight men and four women 15 minutes after the case was submitted to them. The announcement brought cheers from spectators.

Mrs. Chipman testified she had "lived openly" with Blood. She said Chipman entered her home, found Blood kneeling beside her bed in an embrace, and shot him. Chipman testified he did not remember what had happened.

Saved from Fire

Four persons used firemen's ladders and a net to escape the three story brick building at 51-53 W. Superior st. yesterday after exits were cut off by a fire that started in the basement and did an estimated $2,500 damage. Twenty-five other tenants were routed by the blaze.

Robert Phillips, 25, recently discharged from the army, jumped from his third floor apartment into a net. Mrs. Esther Rates, 40, carried her small dog, Nipper, with her down a ladder from the third floor. Robert Haas, 35, and his wife, Helen, 39, were brought down a ladder from the second floor.

Ten employes escaped unharmed from a fire in the American Sack company's two story brick factory at 529 W. 24th pl. The factory roof collapsed at one place. Most of the machinery and a large supply of sacking were destroyed. Loss was estimated at $10,000.

AGREE TO ERASE ENLISTED MEN'S SERVICE PAY TAX

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—House tax experts today agreed to go along with the senate in forgiving all federal income taxes on the service pay of enlisted personnel from 1941 until the formal end of the war, which has not been decreed yet.

That was the first decision made by a senate-house committee named to adjust differences in the 1946 tax reduction bill which passed the house with cuts of 5 billion 350 million dollars and the senate with cuts of 5 billion 788 million.

In other decisions, the conferees granted commissioned officers a three year period in which to pay accumulated taxes on their service pay, and a similar period to pay taxes on pre-service income for 1940 or 1941 which became due after the taxpayer entered service.

The enlisted men, forgiven their taxes, will not even have to make out returns.

Clevenger Says Country Needs 1-Term President

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—Rep. Clevenger [R., Ohio] today said that what the country needs is a President who'll say he will serve one term and do his job without political considerations. Clevenger told a reporter present day problems never will be solved so long as Presidents think about reëlection.

JAIL WOMAN, 60, FOR REFUSING TO OBEY OPA EDICT

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 26 [Special]—Mrs. Anna L. Sheets, 60, Carmel property owner who once quipped that "every woman should spend a little time in jail," was doing exactly that tonight as a result of a long battle with the OPA over her rent charges.

Tho chagrined over missing her "off to jail" farewell party, Mrs. Sheets was making herself at home in the San Bruno branch of the San Francisco county jail—where she will serve a 10 day sentence for contempt of court—and already was receiving messages praising her "spunk."

When Deputy Marshal Ray Ryan went to Carmel yesterday to get her, Mrs. Sheets asked him if he would mind waiting a few hours while she attended a farewell party for her which her friends were holding in a Carmel cafe. The marshal replied that he did mind.

Wants Baggage Carried

"Well, all right, then, let's go," Mrs. Sheets reluctantly agreed. Pointing to a heavy suitcase, she told the marshal: "You can carry that."

Ryan said Mrs. Sheets earlier had "bawled him out" for not coming for her Tuesday, the day her attorney announced she would surrender on the contempt citation. The marshal related that she had her big suitcase packed and waiting when he arrived yesterday but she had planned to celebrate her departure.

Among the items jailers found in her suitcase were vitamin tablets, lace pajamas, face tissues, a spare blanket, and a book. The new inmate was told her simple wants would be cared for by her host—the county.

Enjoined in Rent Case

Mrs. Sheets' rent troubles began a year ago when Federal Judge B. B. Goodman issued an injunction forbidding her to charge over ceiling prices for her Carmel apartments.

The OPA had accused her of renting a $37.50 apartment to two navy lieutenants for $90 a month. It was charged she provided the officers with false receipts and threatened them with eviction if they protested to the OPA.

The judge refused to jail her because of her age but ordered her to pay a fine of $150 and to refund $265 in overcharges to tenants of her apartments, which are part of her extensive real estate holdings on the Monterey peninsula.

On Oct. 9 she was brought into court and adjudged guilty of contempt for refusing to abide by the injunction. She was ordered to jail Tuesday but asked time to consider appealing. Tuesday, however, her attorney announced she had decided to surrender.

"Why, I can answer nearly all those questions. If you'd let me visit those broadcasting studios we could pay off those bills."

NATION HONORS ADMIRALS WHO BEAT JAP NAVY

Pacific Commanders' Life Stories Are Told

Here are the admirals who won the naval war in the Pacific, battling the Japs wherever they found them—with pitifully inadequate forces in the early days—until the fleet finally steamed into Tokyo harbor. For sheer heroism, combined with ingenuity, technical and tactical knowledge of the highest order, and dogged determination, their feat sets a new high in naval history and probably will furnish text book material for generations to come. It is to these men and the heroic crews they commanded that the American public owes a debt of undying gratitude. They are honored by the nation on this Navy day.

ADM. T. C. KINKAID

Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid has been hailed as the outstanding diplomat of the navy. His coöperation with the late Lt. Gen. Simon B. Buckner Jr., of the army, in the Aleutians area was accepted as a model for subsequent amphibious operations requiring army-navy teamwork. In the closing stages of the war, he commanded the 7th fleet, which was assigned to Gen. MacArthur, who termed him "one of the greatest of modern sailors."

Kinkaid was born in New Hampshire and was graduated from the naval academy. His home is in Philadelphia, where his wife resides. In World War I he served on a battleship assigned to the British fleet.

He was awarded the distinguished service medal with two gold stars for his work in World War II.

VICE ADM. J. S. M'CAIN

Vice Adm. John Sidney McCain, a peppery seadog who insisted on rolling his own cigarets in a high wind and consequently left a trail of tobacco flakes all over the Pacific, lived long enough to lead task force 38 to victory and witness the Jap surrender. Then he returned to America and died two days later.

His men said he spoke two languages, "English and profane." He was second only to Adm. Halsey in his hatred of the Japs. A year ago, task force 38 caught the Jap fleet between the Philippines and Formosa. In the mighty engagement, the Jap carrier forces were smashed and McCain's force swept the Jap air force from the Philippines.

His physician said the strain of the final months was too much for the 61 year old fighter. He died of a heart attack on Sept. 6. Surviving him are his widow, two sons, and a daughter. He was graduated from the naval academy in 1906, and he learned to fly at the age of 51.

ADM. R. A. SPRUANCE

Adm. Raymond Ames Spruance, the youngest full admiral in the navy, who was described by a fellow officer as a "cold blooded fighting fool," shouldered the command of America's drive across the central Pacific in 1943, and his forces never lost an engagement.

He won Adm. Nimitz' attention in the spring of 1942 when he commanded one of the task forces that whipped the Japs at Midway. He was in over-all command of the invasions of the Gilbert and Marshall Islands and of the task force strikes against Truk, the Marianas, and the Palau Islands.

Altho born in Maryland, he lists Indianapolis, Ind., as his home. He was graduated from the naval academy in 1907 and became a full admiral at 57. He neither drinks nor smokes.

VICE ADM. M. A. MITSCHER

It was the custom of Vice Adm. Marc Andrew [Pete] Mitscher, 58, wiry, gimlet eyed boss of task force 58, to park his 135 pound frame on the bridge of his flagship, pull a broad billed baseball cap low over what he described as "a beautiful head of skin" and signal, "Prepare for action."

A native of Hillsboro, Wis., he was appointed to the naval academy in 1906 and in 1915 he took flight training and decided to make aviation his career.

This Badger skipper commanded the carrier Hornet during the battle of Midway and when it launched Doolittle's flyers in the first bombing raid over Japan. He struck the supposedly impregnable Jap stronghold of Truk in February, 1944. In one month, his task force sank 122 Jap ships and destroyed 978 planes.

ADM. 'BULL' HALSEY

One of the toughest old seadogs to scour the high seas since the days of the Spanish Main is Adm. William F. Halsey Jr., better known as "The Bull." This beetle browed, heavy jawed man was commander in the South Pacific until his fleet and his marines drove the Japs from the area. Then he took the mighty 3d fleet and hammered the home islands of Japan with aircraft and shellfire.

His formula for winning: "Kill Japs, kill Japs, kill more Japs; sink ships, sink ships, and sink more ships."

He was born in Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 30, 1882, the son of a navy captain. In 1900 he was appointed to the naval academy, where he played football. He commanded a destroyer in World War I., learned to fly when he was 52, and combined the dashing tactics of small craft and planes in his handling of major fleets. He is married and has two children.

Universal military training is necessary to man the United States fleet to the extent necessary to make the United States an effective force in world affairs, Fleet Adm. King, commander in chief of the fleet, said yesterday.

Adm. King spoke after receiving the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Northwestern university in Cahn auditorium on the Evanston campus. He addressed an audience of graduating naval personnel and their families in a naval convocation beginning observance of Navy day.

"In the current unsettled state of the world, human nature is such that you can have good will and good intentions, but unless you have the means on hand to back up what you say and what you stand for, there will not be sufficient attention paid to your stand," Adm. King said.

Fleet Distribution in Peace

The admiral pointed out that universal military training will be necessary because the post-war disposition of the navy's more than 1,000 ships will be as follows: 30 per cent of the ships in full commission, with 75 per cent of a war time crew aboard; 10 per cent in reserve service, with about 25 per cent of a war crew aboard, and 60 per cent out of service, with caretakers aboard.

"In another emergency, we will want people to fill out these crews immediately," Adm. King said. "Paradoxically, the more nearly we are prepared for another emergency, the less likely it is to happen. Officers will come from such sources as Northwestern university's naval program. The enlisted men will come from universal military training."

Tribune Medals Presented

Adm. King's degree was presented by Franklyn B. Snyder, president of the university. Dr. Snyder paid tribute to the navy and its relationship with the university. Earlier, the fleet admiral and members of the naval commands in the Chicago area had reviewed the school's naval R. O. T. C. and V-12 units on Deering meadow.

Degrees were awarded to 84 members of the naval R. O. T. C. and V-12 programs and commissions as ensigns were presented to 17 R. O. T. C. members.

The Chicago Tribune gold medal was awarded to John T. Whitson, 311 Oak av., Park Ridge, for military and scholastic achievement. The Tribnue silver medal was presented to John E. De Vito of Martinez, Cal., for military merit and scholastic achievement.

Other awards were made to Leo H. Neuman, Ashton, Lee county; Joseph C. White, Iron Mountain, Mich.; James E. Wray, St. Joseph, Mo., and John K. Bauman, Mendota, La Salle county.

TRUMAN TO DISCUSS FOREIGN POLICY IN N. Y. SPEECH TODAY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—President Truman expects to deliver tomorrow in New York "the most important speech from a news standpoint" that he has made since entering the White House, a Presidential secretary said today. It will mark Navy day and will deal with foreign policy.

The 25 minute address, the second the President will make while in New York, will be broadcast on all networks.

[This address, at 1:30 p. m. Chicago time, will be broadcast by W-G-N, WMAQ, WBBM, WLS, WCFL, WIND, and WJJD. At about 4 p. m. networks will interrupt football broadcasts to give a description of Mr. Truman's review of the 3d fleet in New York City.]

The first speech will be at 11 a. m. Chicago time aboard the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt at the Brooklyn navy yard. Eben Ayres, assistant press secretary, said the second address, to be made in Central park, would be the most important since the President took office.

ADM. C. W. NIMITZ

A tall, white-haired Texan whose dignity is legendary in the Pacific is the man who picked up the shaken Pacific fleet and hurled it across the world's greatest ocean to beat the Japs into submission. He is Adm. Chester William Nimitz.

Such things as atomic bombs, "the world's mightiest armada," and unlimited man power and supplies were just figures on paper on a bleak day in December, 1941, when Nimitz, then 56 and a rear admiral, was jumped over 28 other admirals to command the Pacific fleet.

The Japs were roaming the Pacific almost without hindrance. Yet within three and a half years, Nimitz dropped the anchor of his flagship in Tokyo bay and signaled his fleet, "Good job—well done."

REAR ADM. D. J. CALLAGHAN

Before daylight on Nov. 13, 1942, off Savo Island, near Guadalcanal, the U. S. S. San Francisco and a small squadron of cruisers and destroyers spotted a Jap fleet approaching in three columns.

"Steam down the middle and slug it out!" came the signal from Rear Adm. Daniel J. [Uncle Dan] Callaghan, aboard the San Francisco. A Jap cruiser exploded and sank. A destroyer went under. The San Francisco closed to 2,000 yards with a Jap battleship. "We want the big ones!" flashed the order from the San Francisco.

A few minutes later, 14 inch shells from the Jap battleship hit the bridge of the San Francisco and Adm. Callaghan was killed. He was 52.

POLICE LAXITY UNDER FIRE IN M'KNIGHT CASE

(This is the sixth of a series of articles in a survey of the Chicago police department, the things it does well, and the things it does poorly, its makeup and recommendations for its improvement.)

BY ORVILLE DWYER

The current McKnight murder case is an example of Chicago police technique—or lack of it.

A reëxamination of the known facts in the McKnight murder give this picture of police methods:

Joseph McKnight, 48, an Evanston automobile salesman, was at the bar in the Regent room, 1 N. La Salle st., last Tuesday night. He was heard quarreling with Julius [Dollie] Weisberg, 49, gambler, and dry era speakeasy operator, who shot and killed a beer runner in a loop street in 1925.

McKnight and Weisberg admittedly quarreled. Charles Morrow, the Regent manager, walked over and ordered them to "break it up." As Morrow walked away, shots were fired. He turned in time to see McKnight fall. Then he ran out, he said, to call police. At least 50 patrons were in the place at the time.

Fail to Lock Doors

Police arrived a few minutes later. Many of the patrons, including some who on the law of averages must have seen the shooting, were still around. Police did not lock the doors and round them up.

They tried to talk to McKnight, who couldn't talk much. Then they questioned Morrow. He was reticent.

Sgt. William Walsh told Morrow he'd take him into custody unless he talked, whereupon the Regent manager named Dollie Weisberg as McKnight's assailant.

Detectives milled around, talking to this witness and that. Two witnesses are reported to have said that they saw Weisberg put a gun into a holster under his coat after the shooting. But police neglected to get their names. Names of few witnesses were obtained. Assistant State's Atty. Edmund Grant is now appealing thru the newspapers for the two gun holster witnesses and any others to reveal themselves.

Only One Witness Listed

Out of at least 50 potential witnesses police have obtained, so far as has been disclosed to date, a lone witness, Manager Morrow, and he says he can't say who shot McKnight because his [Morrow's] back was turned at the moment of the shooting.

A few minutes after the shooting a squad of detectives arrived at the St. Clair hotel where Weisberg lived. They asked an employe for permission to search Weisberg's room.

The hotel man refused, and the detectives said "okay."

At the Bridewell hospital police took an oral dying declaration from McKnight in Weisberg's presence. Police announced that McKnight identified Weisberg. The police could have taken a formal written statement by using available printed forms for taking declarations from dying persons, or they could have called in an assistant state's attorney and a stenographer.

Written Statements Preferable

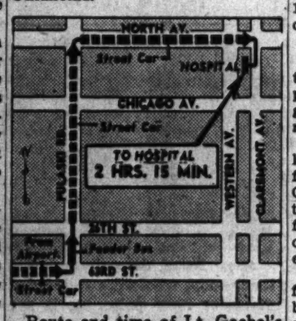
An oral declaration is more vulnerable in court than a written, signed declaration.

Later at the detective bureau Weisberg was asked to take a paraffin test. In this test a wax impression is made of a subject's hand to learn whether he has recently fired a firearm.

Weisberg didn't take the test. And, incidentally, police did not make use of their scientific crime laboratory, second only to the FBI laboratory in Washington, to help in the investigation.

A Flyers Trip

Route and time of Lt. George Goebel's flight to Chicago from Oklahoma.



Route and time of Lt. Goebel's trip from airport to hospital to see new baby.

What Lt. George Goebel of the army air forces needed for the trip he made to St. Elizabeth's hospital the other day was a parachute. Lt. Goebel was at Frederick, Okla., when he learned of the birth of a son, Gregg, in the hospital at 1435 N. Claremont av. He flew to the army field adjacent to Chicago airport in 2 hours, 50 minutes, in an A-26 medium bomber, then spent 2 hours, 15 minutes on street cars, a bus, and a short walk to reach the hospital. Lt. Goebel was the one time boy soloist on the WLS National Barn Dance program.

WEISBERG JAILED TO AWAIT JURY'S SLAYING INQUIRY

Julius [Dollie] Weisberg, dry era speakeasy operator, was locked up in the county jail yesterday after he was ordered held without bail by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in Felony court on a charge of murdering Joseph McKnight. Weisberg's hearing was set for Nov. 7.

McKnight, 48, an Evanston automobile salesman who lived at 131 Clyde av., Evanston, was shot twice and fatally wounded Tuesday night in the midst of a large crowd in the Regent room, 1 N. La Salle st. Before dying, he named and identified Weisberg as his assailant.

The defendant was far from the gay figure night clubs have known thru the years as he appeared before Judge Hartigan, with his lawyer, Harold R. Levy. His clothing was wrinkled, he needed a shave, and he appeared utterly dejected.

CONGRESS ASKED TO PROBE OPA'S PRICE BALLYHOO

Illinois congressmen yesterday were asked by J. T. Meek, executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations, to investigate plans of the office of price administration to promote prolongation of price control thru country carnivals in 2,400 buying centers.

Meek cited OPA promoted carnivals in two Tennessee counties as examples of OPA efforts to "sell people on the need for a continuation of controls far beyond June 30, 1946, the present termination date of the emergency price control act.

Spending Authority Challenged

Meek also asked the congressmen to ascertain how much of the taxpayers' money these elaborate programs are costing and in what manner the expenditures are authorized.

He said he also would like to know why the programs did not set forth "the tragic results of current OPA restrictive absorption and preticketing policies not only to manufacturers, wholesalers, and merchants, but to their customers and employment in general."

The first OPA carnivals, organized for the ostensible purpose of combating inflation, were held in Madison and Jackson counties in Tennessee. Meek described them as "well organized, effectively displayed and convincing," adding "it was a skilful presentation, but it did not tell the whole story."

Meek said the OPA intends ultimately to hold similar carnivals in 2,400 buying centers of the country and that the real object is "to popularize the alleged need for continued price control."

Types of Inflation Cited

"There are many kinds of inflation," Meek pointed out. "Inflation can come from inferior quality of goods resulting from OPA restrictions. It can come from OPA policies, which discourage adequate production, lower the supply, and invite inflation.

"It can come from regulations that distort normal practices. And it can come thru steady elimination of sound small merchants who, by being put out of the competitive scene, make prices less controlable by normal, vigorous competition."

GREAT NAVY DAY PARADE SLATED FOR 10 A. M. START

Chicagoans will get more than a glimpse of naval pageantry and real life today as it observes Navy day. The celebration will begin with a colorful parade thru downtown streets of thousands of sailors, marines, coast guards, WAVES, and SPARS. Starting at Monroe st. at 10 a. m., the parade will move north in Michigan av. to Randolph st., west to State st., south to Jackson blvd., west to La Salle st., and north past the city hall reviewing stand. Vice Adm. Mitscher of task force 58 will review the parade.

Visitors will be permitted aboard the Wolverine and Sable, lake aircraft carriers, from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Entrance to Navy pier may be made thru the main gate at the foot of Grand av.

The medium rocket ship 507, tied up at the Michigan av. bridge, will be open to visitors today and tomorrow from 9 to 11:30 a. m. and from 1 to 5 p. m. It is a new type ship with multiple rocket launchers. The LST-312 will also be at the bridge for visitors.

BOBBY SOXER, 16, KILLS 'FRESHIE' WITH HATCHET

New York, Oct. 26 [Special]—Lena Neinstedt, 16, a bobby soxer who carried a hatchet "for protection against fresh guys," today was charged with homicide for using it with fatal results against a man, 71, who tried to hold her hand.

"I used to carry a knife to keep freshies away, but I lost it," Lena was quoted by police. "Then I began carrying a 14 inch hatchet. It just fit in my bag."

She was equipped with the hatchet Sept. 12 when she stopped at the shop of John Wagner, a tailor, on her way home from work.

Also Takes His Wallet

Detective Joseph Sullivan said she gave this account of what happened next:

"He wanted to hold my hand. I pulled my hand away and walked out. I was mad. I went back to the store to bawl him out. He wanted to put his arms around me. I took the hatchet from my pocketbook and struck him."

Then she picked up his wallet, containing $5, and left. Outside she noticed she had forgotten her hatchet and went back for it. She picked it up, struck the unconscious man another whack with it, put it in her handbag, and went home.

"I got a thrill out of it," she was quoted by Asst. Dist. Atty. Victor Levin.

"Not a Bit Sorry"

"Weren't you sorry?" Levin said he asked her.

"Not a bit," she replied.

Lena, wearing a sweater and skirt, ankle socks, and saddle shoes, was arraigned today in Queens felony court. Because she was not represented by an attorney, a plea of not guilty was entered for her and a hearing set for Nov. 1.

Lena, who lives with her mother, Mrs. Theresa Strumlege, was put on probation a year ago for stealing $20 from a neighbor.

Skipping school led to her arrest last night for the slaying. When police investigated her absence from classes they found a man's wallet blood stained clothing, and her "pocketbook hatchet."

TRIBUNE STORY AIDS EX-SOLDIER WHO QUIT UNRRA

A Chicago Tribune story of the troubles of Ex-Corp. Chet. Rennet with American governmental red tape in London ended a six weeks' wait for him, he said yesterday after his arrival at his home at 18 N. Melrose av., Elgin.

Renner, who had resigned from the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, when after two weeks he was unable to ascertain his duties or find any one who could explain them to him, sought in vain for a passport in London or some government means of returning home.

After six weeks of red tape, his troubles were related in a dispatch sent by E. R. Noderer, Tribune correspondent in London. Within 24 hours, Renner said, a cable was received from Washington, D. C., ordering that a passport be issued to him.

Renner had obtained his discharge from the army and had joined UNRRA in France. After resigning he was told to go to London, where he was informed he should have obtained travel orders in France. Being an American civilian, and without a passport, the British could not clear him for return to France. This impasse was cleared up only after the Tribune dispatch was published here, Renner said.

PUPILS IN GARY VOTE PROTEST ON PRINCIPAL

White pupils at Froebel High school in Gary, Ind., voted yesterday to stay away from class rooms Monday in protest against the return of Principal Richard A. Nuzum, whom they accuse of favoring Negro pupils.

The threatened strike is a resumption of recent class skipping caused by the rising enrollment of Negroes in the school. It was reported that some children and their parents would picket the school to keep others from classes.

Nuzum was given a leave of absence last month pending inquiry by a committee of professors into white pupils' charges. The committee cleared him, and he was reinstated Wednesday. New complaints against him by the white children is that he has "approved white and Negro mixed parties," and that he has ordered the girls' swimming pool opened to Negro girls.

Chicago Robin Hoods Get Two Deer with Arrows

A foray with bows and arrows into the Wisconsin woods near Eagle River netted two deer for Emil Richter of 10733 S. Maplewood av. and Joe Moeller, owner of the Beverly Archery company at 5708 S. Western av. The archers returned to Chicago yesterday with their quarry. Moeller, who last year won the title of Illinois state field archery champion, is leaving Tuesday for Oregon, where he will attempt to bring down an elk a la Robin Hood.

Die in Auto

Miss Irene Schwall and William Eddy, who were found dead of motor fume poisoning in auto near Mundelein.

The bodies of William Earl Eddy, 18, of Prairie rd., Mundelein, a medically discharged sailor, and Miss Irene Stella Schwall, 16, of Shady lane, Libertyville township, a senior in Libertyville Township High school, were found last night in Eddy's automobile, parked on a lane a half mile northwest of Mundelein.

Deputy Sheriff Stanley Christian of Lake county said the deaths apparently were caused by exhaust fumes and might have resulted from a suicide pact. The exhaust pipe outlet from the auto's muffler was disconnected, he said, allowing gases to escape into the interior. Police Chief Joseph J. Shields of Mundelein said he warned Eddy several days ago that the car, a 1934 model, was unsafe.

Eddy's and Miss Schwall's parents reported them missing Wednesday night. An examination, Christian said, indicated they died Wednesday night or early Thursday. Miss Schwall's father, Herbert, said she and Eddy had been keeping company for two years.

FELON HUNTED IN SLAYING OF SAILOR'S WIFE

Lorain, O., Oct. 26 [Special]—Police tonight hunted Gordon C. Wellman, 23, a Lorain steel worker and ex-convict, on a charge of first degree murder in the street slaying of Mrs. Helen Duffield 24, wife of a sailor expected home from the Pacific in a few days.

Gordon C. Wellman

Wellman's former roommate, Ralph Brown, is awaiting execution Nov. 9 for the penknife slaying of his sweetheart, Helen Katonak, last January. Authorities said they were investigating the possibility Mrs. Duffield was slain by a man jealous of her husband's impending return.

The hunt for Wellman was concentrated in Cleveland and Canton when it was learned he had taken a bus east about 12 hours after the slaying of Mrs. Duffield Wednesday night. She was shot four times as she sat in her car. The killer drove away in her car and hid her body in a water filled ditch in nearby Sheffield. Her body was found two hours later. The car, with the motor running, was parked in a nearby greenhouse driveway.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Oct. 27—The First Navy Day

On Oct. 27, 1922, the navy yards of the United States were thrown open to the public for the day. People who scarcely had given the navy a thought learned something about the activities of a branch of the service which repeatedly had suffered from public apathy despite the glorious tradition it had built up.

Among the observances of that first Navy day were parades, wreath layings, and banquets. The day was celebrated by Americans in London and Paris as well as at home.

Navy day was established as a result of the efforts of the Navy league, a patriotic organization dating from 1903, to interest President Harding in a public tribute to the nation's sea fighters. Oct. 27 was chosen, partly because it was the anniversary of a recommendation made by a committee of the Continental congress in 1775 to purchase merchant ships as the foundation of an American navy, partly because it was Theodore Roosevelt's birthday.

An assistant secretary of the navy under President McKinley, Roosevelt had thrown his influence behind measures designed to increase the efficiency of the nation's sea fighters. Later, when he had succeeded McKinley as President, he dispatched a fleet on a round the world voyage as a demonstration of American might.

His interest in the American navy dated back to his college days at Harvard. He made a special study of the naval aspects of the War of 1812 and in 1882 published a book on the subject.

PVT. R. A. ANDERSON DIED AS PRISONER OF JAPS, MOTHER TOLD

Sgt. Tienstra was a graduate of Thornton Township High school, Harvey.

PEANUT BUTTER GOING UP SIX CENTS A POUND

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—The government today announced that retail prices of peanut butter will go up about six cents a pound as the result of cancelation of a subsidy on Nov. 1.

Stabilization Director Collet reported the withdrawal of a subsidy of 4 cents a pound, paid to processors since November, 1943.

Processors were authorized to increase their ceiling prices four cents a pound, effective Nov. 1, for peanut butter in containers of two pounds or less. The increase will not apply to sales to commercial, industrial, and institutional users and to government agencies. The average increase at retail will be six cents a pound because ceilings are figured on the basis of a percentage markup over cost, Collet said.

RUSSIAN BORN OFFICER LEAVES WHITE HOUSE

Report of Official Role as Aide Denied

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26—Maj. Nicholas Eric Mitchell was transferred abruptly from duty in the White House office of Brig. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, military aide to President Truman, within a few hours after it was disclosed that Mitchell is Russian born and has a Russian born wife.

The White House in commenting on a published report said that the officer never had been a White House aide altho he had been on duty in the office of Gen. Vaughan.

Shifted to Air Forces

Without any comment the war department disclosed that Mitchell is being transferred to the air forces. It was not disclosed where his future station is to be.

Mitchell has been on duty at the White House since June 27. His appointment aroused wide comment in military circles because it was discovered that he was a naturalized alien.

The officer was born Nov. 6, 1913, in Leningrad, which was then St. Petersburg, Russia, and named Nicholas M. Podtiaguine. His father was born in Tiflis and his mother in Sevastopol. Mitchell was educated in Switzerland and came to the United States in 1930 to study at the University of Virginia.

He enlisted in the army on Aug. 10, 1935, at Langley, Va., and was detailed to the air force. He took a course in army intelligence and later applied for a commission in this branch of the service. In 1936 he became a naturalized citizen.

Legally Changes Name

On Jan. 13, 1942, he was commissioned a second lieutenant after going thru officer candidate school in Maryland. He was commissioned a first lieutenant in August, a captain in February, 1943, and a major the following October.

By court order he changed his name to Mitchell in 1943. He saw service in the Persian gulf area, where he married a Russian girl, Tatiana Dobronislavs.

Last July he accompanied President Truman to the Potsdam conference. This brought him duties of a White House aide if not actual designation to such an assignment. On his return he was one of the few officers permitted access to the White House map room, where the most important military messages were recived and top officers discussed strategy.

RIPS CEMETERY CODE PROPOSED BY CHICAGO UNIT

It Couldn't Be Enforced, Says Granata

BY GEORGE TAGGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26—The cemetery Association of Greater Chicago today was accused of attempting to put thru a code which couldn't be enforced. Rep. Granata [R., Chicago] made the charge before a state committee created to draft a code to govern cemetery operations.

Atty. Leonard L. Cowan of Chicago, a member of the commission, presented the association's version of a code. Cowan, president of the Cedar Park cemetery, opposed legislation presented earlier this year by Atty. General Barrett, who said a "multimillion dollar cemetery racket" exists in Illinois.

Cowan and seven other men were indicted in 1940 on charegs of defrauding investors of 7 million dollars by the fraudulent sale of stock in a Mexican timber development. A federal court jury caused a mistrial by failure to agree upon a verdict in 71 hours. In the second trial in 1944 the bench sustained a directed verdict of not guilty.

Assails Proposed Code

Granata opened the meeting by assailing the code suggested in a document Cowan submitted to the commission.

"This has no enforcement provisions whatsoever," he said. "My understanding is that the legislature in setting up our commission intended that there be supervision and enforcement of a code by elected state officials."

Sen. Knox [R., Chicago] said it would be best to learn at once whether the cemetery operators favor a code with teeth in it. Sen. Nash [R., Towanda] agreed that the commission might just as well abandon its work if a cream puff code is to emerge from its efforts.

"Supervision All Right"

Cowan said he personally would not object to state supervision of perpetual care funds.

"However, there comes a time when the only cemetery revenue is from perpetual care fund income [from investments]," Cowan said.

"If you have the fund audited by a state official the audit would be at the expense of the perpetual care trust funds. Conceivably this expense might eat up the fund."

Cowan said cemetery operators' objections might be lessened if the charge for state audits was eliminated or held within law limits. He conceded that there have been a "lot of abuses in the cemetery business."

Denies Accusation

He denied a statement made by Barrett before the legislature that the Cedar Park cemetery was more than $100,000 short in its perpetual care fund. He said the fund is $19,000 above requirements and that audits have been made for 20 years by a man now a member of Barrett's staff.

"Wait a minute," Granata said, "I've known the attorney general since he was knee high and he doesn't handle the truth recklessly."

"That Scratchmore team prides itself on not having been scored on this season."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

Oct. 26, 1945

If Chicago music critics want to practice their best barbing tactics against a musical conductor, they may visit the Fox river farm and write a critique on the director of the annual autumn feedlot chorus.

The farm manager is the conductor of this raucous concert. His choristers are the Aberdeen-Angus cows and their yearling calves, and their rural audience feels that a caustic review of their vocal efforts, in the true traditions of a music critic, might help silence this bovine chorus—if its members could read.

Chorus of Complaints

We heard one movement of this farm concert the other day, and can testify that the musical reviewers would need their full list of critical adjectives to describe the moaning and bawling emanations of the Angus chorus. The calves are being weaned from their dams; neither youngsters nor cows approve of the driving tactics of their merciless conductor. Hence the off-key music.

Eighty cows and calves participate in the fall concert, the calves bawling steadily from the feedlot while their dams reply from a pasture across the road.

Calves' Ears Tattooed

From morning till night, the sleek cattle complain about the separation, and the men believe it will be another week before the adult and junior cattle concede that the weaning sentence is final and their chorusing of no avail.

Aside from the mental torture of being separated from their dams, the 40 calves have had other reasons for complaint. Their ears have been tattooed as one of the steps in their registration, a veterinarian has tested them for Bang's disease and also vaccinated them, and identification tags have been attached on metal chains around their necks.

The tattooing method used for marking the calves' ears is a painless procedure; nevertheless, the cattle object to the necessary handling. On their right ear is marked their registration number and the date of their vaccination. On the inside of their left ears is put "CTF45", the brand which indicates ownership by Chicago Tribune farm and the year in which the calf was born.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS who have tended small back yard plots or cooperative gardens during the war years probably do not realize that their combined efforts provided more than 24 million tons of food for American tables. The National Victory Garden institute estimates that 72½ million gardens have been cultivated in the four years 1942 to 1945, inclusive, about 18 million gardens each year.

Using the conservative valuation of 7 cents a pound, this garden produce has been worth $3,360,000. About 40 per cent of all the vegetables raised in the country in the war years came from home plots.

This is the last of the 1945 series of garden articles in this space. All of the material used in the series has been based on work done in the sample gardens of the Wheaton farm.

U. OF I. DEDICATES AIRPORT AS PART OF ITS CAMPUS

BY ROBERT HOWARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 26—The University of Illinois today dedicated a 772 acre airport as part of its campus. The university already has reorganized and expanded its classes and research dealing with the economic, social, and engineering phases of aviation.

A crowd estimated at 40,000 attended the ceremonies.

The airport, built at a cost of 2¼ million dollars, is on the flat prairie five miles southwest of the campus buildings. To enable future expansion the airport is a mile west of U. S. Highway 45, just south of the village of Savoy.

No other university, so far as could be learned, is planning such an active role in aviation.

Bigger Than Chicago's

On the three 5,300 foot runways, paved with 8 inches of concrete, passenger planes today landed Gov. Green and others interested in aviation, while military planes roared overhead.

Prof. J. J. Doland, who built this airport and a number of lend-lease bases overseas, said the university field is "tops in the nation." It has more acreage than Chicago Municipal airport. Some military fields in the middle west have some longer runways, but they have near-by obstacles.

"Illinois Lacks Airports"

"Air transport will assume as much importance in the post-war economy as it did in the war," said Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, university president. "The present airport facilities of the United States can be compared with highway facilities 25 years ago. There then were fairly good automobiles, but their use was limited by lack of paved roads. Billions of dollars have since been spent for highways.

"We now have good airplanes, but their use is limited by lack of airports. This is true of the middle west in general, and of the state of Illinois."

Move Hangar from Arkansas

The dedicatory speeches were presented from a platform inside the 360 by 100 foot hangar, which also will provide office and laboratory space until an administration building can be built. Twelve weeks ago the hangar was a surplus structure on a government field at Grady, Ark. Doland said it was moved and installed at 25 per cent of the cost of a new hangar.

On the dedicatory program, with Green and Willard, were Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.], Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], Park Livingston, president of the University board of trustees, and Chester R. Davis, Chicago, a university trustee.

Speakers said the airport would enable the University to sponsor an ambitious army and naval ROTC program.

U. of C. Bridge Player Dealt 13 Spade Hand

David A. Levine of Norfolk, Va., University of Chicago college student, was dealt a perfect bridge hand—13 spades—last night in a game in Manly house on the campus. The dealer was William Conwell, St. Louis, Mo. One of the other players was Chester Bowles Jr., son of the OPA administrator.

LYONS WILL ASK RETRIAL IN HIS DIVORCE ACTION

Judge John A. Sbarbaro of Superior court Thursday will hear a motion for a new trial by Atty. Roberty E. Cantwell Jr., counsel for Dr. Horace Lyons, 54, ear, nose, and throat specialist, against whom a jury found late Thursday in his cross-complaint for divorce.

The jury, which deliberated more than six hours, returned a verdict in favor of Mrs. Alice Lyons, 45, of the Stevens hotel, heiress to an Indianapolis traction fortune, in her suit for separate maintenance.

Both actions were heard simultaneously by the jury of eight women and four men in a trial that lasted nine days. The jury found that Mrs. Lyons, who was represented by Atty. Benjamin Ehrlich, was not guilty of the charges of habitual drunkenness and constructive desertion. She alleged that she had turned over more than $400,000 to her husband, and that he had abandoned her for another woman.

ACCUSED OF BELSEN CRIMES, PRISONER TESTIFIES HE IS JEW

LUENEBURG, Germany, Oct. 26 (AP)—Ignatz Schlomowicz, one of 45 concentration camp guards on trial for war crimes, surprised a British military court today by asserting that he is a Jew. Two affidavits accused him of beating prisoners at Belsen. Schlomowicz expressed surprise, saying he had believed his accusers were his friends.

Schlomowicz asserted he fled from Vienna, Austria, thru six countries, and had been in six concentration camps when the secret police accused him of "behaving in an anti-German way." He was then sent with 1,500 other Jews, he said, to the camp at Oswiecim [Auschwitz], Poland, and "only seven of us are left from the original group." "I was put in the selection parade and chosen for work instead of the gas chamber," he testified.

Eric Zoddel, 32, a Belsen block leader accused of murder, described Belsen as a model camp, with plenty of food and prisoners doing only voluntary work.

SIX BLACK HORSE TROOP VETERANS PASS THRU CITY

Six members of Chicago's famous Black Horse squadron, which fought with distinction as a unit of the 106th mechanized cavalry thru France, Germany, and Austria, had their first sight of Chicago in more than 20 months last night when they paused at the Illinois Central station en route to Camp Grant.

Only one, Lt. Earl K. Richards, 818 Eastwood av., was a member of the original Black Horse troop, organized in 1929. Others, who joined the unit on its enlargement and merger with the 106th, were Tech. Sgt. John P. English, 740 N. Springfield av.; Tech. 4th Grade Lester Jacobson, 2704 N. Albany av.; Tech. 5th Grade Robert Lash, 1526 S. Springfield av.; Sgt. Daniel Afeld, Ingleside, Lake county, and Warrant Officer Lee S. Springfield, 1210 E. 53d st.

Others with the 106th were Pvt. William A. Moisan, 10044 La Salle st.; Sgt. Thomas Maloney, 6072 Neva av.; Pvt. Raymond McGuire, 5459 N. Long av.; Pvt. Felix Lange, 4502 N. Pulaski rd., and Pvt. James Giannakis, 1101 S. Racine av. Another Chicagoan in the group was Maj. Carl Piampiano, 2418 Wentworth av., who fought with the 442d infantry.

M'ARTHUR HAS 'NO IMMEDIATE PLAN' TO RETURN

TOKYO, Oct. 27 [Saturday]—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur, supreme commander of allied powers for the occupation of Japan, has "no immediate plans" for returning to the United States for a visit, authoritative sources at headquarters said today.

The comment was made after war department officials in Washington, D. C., had said they assumed MacArthur would visit the United States "in the near future." Reports in Washington had mentioned the dates between Nov. 1 and 8.

Headquarters sources also said MacArthur has received no official congressional invitation to go to the United States and appear before the house and senate.

GREEKS' "NO" BURNS AGAIN

LONDON, Oct. 26 [Reuters]—The word "no," with which Greece replied five years ago to the Italian ultimatum demanding capitulation, is spelled out tonight in letters of fire on the summit of Mount Lycabettus as part of celebrations recalling the entry of Greece into the war, the Athens news agency reported.

ARMOUR IS FINED $100 ON CHARGE IN FATAL COLLISION

Philip D. Armour Jr., 27, of 1500 Lake Shore dr., a member of the packing family, yesterday was fined $100 and costs, which he paid, by Justice of the Peace A. S. Krisor in Northbrook on a charge of passing in the third lane of a highway without due caution.

The charge resulted from the head-on automobile collision in Skokie rd., Northbrook, Oct. 7, in which Mrs. Myrtle Cooper of Evanston was killed.

Police Chief John C. Clausen of Northbrook testified that Armour told him he was trying to pass a truck when he collided with Mrs. Cooper's auto. This was denied by Armour, who said his car swerved when he stooped to pick a handkerchief from the floor of his car. Both a coroner's jury and the grand jury have exonerated Armour of blame for the accident.

U. S. ENVOY SEES STALIN; TAKES TRUMAN'S NOTE

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—W. Averell Harriman, United States ambassador to Russia, visited Generalissimo Stalin recently in the Sochi area where the soviet leader is spending his vacation, the Moscow radio reported tonight.

The broadcast said that President Truman sent a message to Stalin Oct. 14, which Harriman delivered Oct. 24. The American ambassador, the radio said, had two talks with the Russian premier before returning to Moscow today.

The Sochi area is about 50 miles southeast of Tuapse on the Caucasian Black sea coast. This was the first announcement of where Stalin has been spending his vacation.

Expect Stalin's Return

MOSCOW, Russia, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Russian people expect Generalissimo Stalin to return to his duties in about two weeks after a vacation. Reports abroad that Stalin was ill have not been repeated here.

WHAT IS MR. TRUMAN TRYING TO HIDE?

President Truman has given the New Deal majority of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee the power to suppress incriminating evidence against his party and its war time leader, Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Truman has signed an executive order providing that witnesses and records may be subpenaed only by majority vote of the committee members. Since there are six Democrats and only four Republicans, another whitewash is inevitable.

In taking this indefensible action Mr. Truman resorted to his war time powers as custodian of secret government records and as commander in chief whose permission is needed to question army and navy personnel still on duty. Altho the war has been over for two and one-half months, Mr. Truman has refused to issue a proclamation terminating the national emergency. His order yesterday indicates one reason why he insists on clinging to his war time powers. Under them he can frustrate any effective action to develop the truth about his predecessor's culpability in sacrificing the fleet and 3,000 lives to his desire for war. To allow the evidence to become public knowledge might well arouse such public outrage as to wreck Mr. Truman's party and his personal prospects.

Mr. Truman's order is the more outrageous in that it was issued directly after the administration had been defeated in the house when it attempted, by legislation, to impose the same sort of gag which he has now achieved by executive decree. His party was compelled to withdraw a bill which would have punished any one transmitting information obtained from coded messages—either our own or those of any other government—with 10 years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000. The Republicans could block that, but they could not prevent Mr. Truman from reviving his predecessor's favorite role as "commander in chief."

In fastening the muzzle on witnesses and locking up the secret records, Mr. Truman has abandoned the last pretense that he is a disinterested leader of all the people and has frankly acknowledged that he is a party politician. When he was campaigning for Vice President he made the statement: "I'm an organization Democrat. A statesman is only a dead politician. I never want to be a statesman." We are now obliged to take the description at face value.

There already have been two whitewashes of administration responsibility for the events of Dec. 7, 1941. The Roberts commission, appointed by the White House, was told to look somewhere else than toward Washington in determining the guilt for the disaster. The army and navy boards authorized to conduct new inquiries by congress last year were allowed a somewhat greater latitude and displayed more courage. It was too much to expect that they would inquire into the actions of Mr. Roosevelt and his secretaries of war and navy, who received the reports and decided on the disposition of them, but the investigators did possess sufficient independence to criticize former Secretary of State Hull, Gen. Marshall, the army chief of staff, and Adm. Stark, former chief of naval operations.

Mr. Roosevelt, with the support of Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, pigeon-holed the reports for a full year and, when they finally were made public, Mr. Stimson gratuitously stated that the findings relative to Mr. Hull were "uncalled for and not within the scope of their [the army board's] proper inquiry." It was clear that Mr. Stimson wanted that scope restricted so that no fingers would be pointed at his associates in Mr. Roosevelt's official family. If such lese majesty were permitted who knows but that somebody would have the effrontery to start pointing at him?

In his defense of Gen. Marshall from the army board's criticism Mr. Stimson had the support of President Truman, who expressed "confidence in the skill, energy, and efficiency of all our war leaders." Mr. Truman, however, himself was not wholly disinterested. During the 1944 campaign he had written a magazine article slandering the reputation of the Hawaiian commanders, Gen. Short and Adm. Kimmel, who were nominated as scapegoats within a week of the disaster by the late Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, and who were subsequently pilloried [but, until this day, denied a hearing] by the Roberts commission and the army and navy boards. After the release of the reports of these two boards Mr. Truman was asked if he wanted to recant some of his harsher charges against Kimmel and Short, but he refused to make an apology or correction beyond saying that he was mistaken in his statement that the two commanders had not been on speaking terms.

Now, with 52 pages of the army and navy reports still suppressed on the pretext that they concern the "national security" of a country no longer at war, the public is to be presented with a new and more complete whitewash of responsibility than any of those which had preceded it. The investigation this time frankly is entrusted to a majority of New Deal party politicians, under the leadership of the majority leader, Sen. Barkley. It will be able to squelch any attempt to bring out embarrassing evidence.

Mr. Truman and his henchmen can continue to withhold from the people the 52 pages of suppressed evidence. They can hide the Japanese code messages which were intercepted and decoded before Pearl Harbor and which gave unmistakable evidence of approaching attack.

Did Mr. Roosevelt and his cabinet know the attack was to be made at Pearl Harbor and keep this information from Kimmel and Short? Mr. Truman's action indicates they did.

A LESSON TO THE PUBLIC

Members of the AFL union which operates Chicago elevated trains staged a two hour grudge strike Wednesday, denying service to the public between 1 and 3 p. m.

The employes of the elevated system were granted a pay increase in August, which was retroactive for more than a year. Train operating employes are paid by the hour and the computation of the retroactive pay due them requires a reaudit of a full year's pay roll records. The company set an extra force of office employes at work figuring these pay rolls, and the task will be completed early in November. Office employes are paid by the month, and there are only about a tenth as many of them as there are operating employes. Thus, it was a comparatively simple job to figure their back pay, and they have already received it. This made the union employes mad and the strike resulted.

William F. Levander, president of the union, explained the work stoppage variously as "proof our union will preserve its dignity," "evidence to the company we mean business," and "proof we don't like other groups being put ahead of us." The union was, in short, out to teach the public a lesson as to its power.

It certainly succeeded. If we get legislation providing criminal penalties for union members and union leaders who interrupt essential public services—and we will get it if the daily life of the country continues to be disrupted for such trivial reasons as this—union labor can thank just such arbitrary fatheads as Mr. Levander and his colleagues for bringing it about.

TOWARD A REPUBLICAN FOREIGN POLICY

Former Gov. Landon made one of the important speeches of his lifetime the other day at Lawrence, Kas. He spoke on foreign affairs. The positions he took are those which the Republican party should take in congress and in the congressional elections next year. His ideas should be embodied in the foreign affairs plank of the Republican platform in 1948.

So far as Europe is concerned, Mr. Landon rightly says that the central issue is Germany. The Roosevelt-Truman policy is to destroy Germany as an industrial nation and reduce it to a cabbage economy. The unavoidable consequence, Mr. Landon shows, will be economic stagnation in all of Europe. There is no escaping that conclusion. Germany was the most advanced industrial nation of Europe. To an extent little realized as yet in this country Europe's welfare has depended upon trade in and out of Germany. As Mr. Landon says, loans to Britain cannot bring more than a temporary recovery, even to Britain, unless a sound solution for the German problem is found, for England cannot prosper if Germany's 70 million people are left prostrate.

All of that is obvious, or should be, and equally obvious are the moral implications of the Roosevelt-Truman diplomacy. At Yalta and Potsdam our spokesmen approved arrangements whose brutality and greed cannot be exaggerated. We are turning over war prisoners to the French for starvation as slave laborers. We are condemning hundreds of thousands to death from hunger, cold, and disease in Europe this winter. All of this and much more, including the partition of Poland, has been done in the name of Russian appeasement.

In consequence, as Mr. Landon carefully pointed out, social unrest is growing in Europe and a new World war is already in sight. Mr. Truman has found it necessary to recommend peace time conscription. The demobilization of our army is being delayed.

In Asia the Roosevelt-Truman diplomacy is of the same order. We are fast losing our good name across the Pacific by giving support to the imperial nations in their shameful effort to re-enslave their colonials. The Indo-Chinese and the Javanese are being killed with American guns and American ammunition. As Mr. Landon well said, "we should stand in the far east as advocating, in substance, what we did in the Philippines, where we set the model for colonial treatment and the development of self-governing communities."

Mr. Landon's foreign policy is sound in morals and in economics. It is calculated to save this country billions of dollars and the lives of another generation of young men. His propositions are easily explained to the mind and to the heart. The New Dealers cannot borrow his doctrine at the last minute because they are bound to defend the course they have taken. For all these reasons, we say that Mr. Landon's speech the other day was one of the most important utterances of his lifetime. He has indicated to his party the line it must take if it is to meet its responsibilities to the nation.

Editorial of the Day

FOR WORLD PRESS FREEDOM

[Miami Herald]

The move to tie in UNRRA funds with the nation's drive to establish world-wide freedom of news transmission makes good sense both from a narrow and a broad viewpoint.

In the narrow, perhaps even legalistic sense, it is no more than right for Americans to know what conditions are in nations where American relief money is to be spent. In the broader sense, any reasonable move to expand press freedom serves excellent purpose. Light on its affairs, as they affect other nations, never hurt any country with nothing to hide. It is one of the basic truths of our age that darkness among nations is the certain precursor of trouble.

It is worth recalling that the Potsdam agreement promised freedom of the press in Germany, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, and Finland. That was a beginning, depending upon how the promise is fulfilled. To make press freedom a condition of eligibility for American UNRRA aid would be a further, and longer, step in the right direction.

Offhand, anyhow, we can't think of any one who has had more advice and needed it less than Gen. MacArthur.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

   1/1,000 in. 1/100 in. 1/48 in. 1/12 in.
2. Caterers are usually associated with which one of these?
   Advertising Food Mining Furniture
3. You should expect to purchase nougats at which store?
   Butcher Confectioner Milliner Hardware
4. Privet is generally employed for which one of these?
   Salads Blankets Insecticides Hedges
5. Which one of these should make one think of the moon?
   Mosquito Butterfly Gnat Fly
6. The scenic beauties of America are not excelled by any other country. You are entitled to one point for each correct matching of the natural wonders listed in the left hand column below with the states where they are to be found.

[a] Smoky Mountains	[v] Wyoming
[b] Mammoth Cave	[w] New Mexico
[c] Grand Canyon	[x] Tennessee
[d] Carlsbad Caverns	[y] Kentucky
[e] Grand Tetons	[z] Arizona

MR. PEPYS IN UTOPIA

27th Oct.—Have been hearing about people who have come to town on some errand, necessary or not, and found no place to sleep, because the hotels are bulging with lodgers. But when I walk in our run-down districts, which are large, I see hundreds of houses that look inhabitable but have been surrendered to the mice and the family ghosts. Have nothing to suggest as remedy for this condition, but it was different after the last war.

Rents soared sky-high then, to the disgust of citizens whose earnings did not increase likewise, but every one went to work with vim, and new houses were built like mad, and pretty soon there were homes and flats for everybody. Where I lived there were many vacant lots, but one morning I went out to study nature and found the prairies covered with apartment houses. So give me the good old days and wars, when the world was not stuck in the mud of too much government.

Have done nothing of note during the last week except to dine with the Wayfarers, a fine body of men, at their first meeting of the season. Otherwise, have been cudgeling my brain over pieces to put into the paper. Find the best means of inspiration, if you can call it that, is a cup of tea, or maybe two, which reminds me of a character in a Dickens novel, "Our Mutual Friend" I think, who was described as "floating his powerful mind on tea."

Now to groom myself for the Northwestern-Purdue game, and hope I do not have to wear more than four layers of garments. It is a symptom of the times, I think, that even the football weather has turned sour.

SUNDAY DRIVERS

The Sunday driver's back! The Sunday driver's back!
All pedestrians beware,
Seasoned motorists have care,
Spare your hair and derrière;
Thru the honking and the horning,
If you'd see tomorrow morning
Stay at home. Let this be warning
For the Sunday driver's back!

The Sunday driver's back! The Sunday driver's back!
With his bag of tricks unique,
With gyrations all oblique,
Week-ends reek of his technique.
Starting when he should be stopping,
Keeping all and sundry hopping,
There's small joy in traffic copping
When the Sunday driver's back!

The Sunday driver's back! The Sunday driver's back!
Tho one war at last is done,
Here are battles just begun;
Shun your fun, be wise and run.
Practice jumping, ducking, leaping,
Waken, strollers, from your sleeping,
Lest you drag home crushed and creeping
Now the Sunday driver's back!

How to Improve the Mind

My father, a country editor, had his own system of collecting and filing memoranda. News items, ideas for editorials, lists of things to pick up at the grocery, want ads, bills to be paid, and other small town trivia were jotted down on scraps of paper and stuffed into a capacious coat pocket.

Toward the end of the week Dad tried to smooth out the crumpled notes and arrange them into some semblance of order. It usually required the help of two printers, mother, and myself to complete the job. To Dad's credit, however, he never forgot anything, once he got it down on paper and into his pocket.

I'm much more systematic. I have files, memorandum books, card systems, diaries, scrapbooks, indices, calendar pads, work organizers, and a reference library both at home and office. I never forget anyth—— . . . let's see, there was a point I wanted to make here. Now where did I put that memo?

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

D. M. writes: "I have more than enough points for discharge from the navy under the point system, but when I applied for discharge I was informed I am in the regular navy and not eligible. When I was enlisted I was under the impression that I was joining the naval reserve but learned that I was signed up for a six year enlistment in the regular navy. Is there anything I can do to get a discharge now so I can return to my old job?"

If you signed up for a full enlistment in the regular navy you will have to serve the entire six years, regardless of the points you have. It is probable that at the time of enlistment you misunderstood about the length of your service. Regular navy enlisted personnel whose period of enlistment has expired and who have been retained under the service extension act now are eligible for discharge under the point system the same as naval reservists.

H. T. asks: "Will men inducted into service now and subsequently sent overseas as replacements be entitled to wear theater campaign ribbons, or was this privilege supended after actual combat ceased in the European and Pacific theaters?"

Theater campaign ribbons will be issued for the "duration and six months." Duration of the war means the day on which either the President or congress declares the war at end.

SLEEPY MUSCLES

I READ recently about an unusual phenomenon concerning individuals who experienced temporary paralysis of the muscles at the beginning or end of sleep. This type of incapacity was originally described by S. Weir Mitchell as "nocturnal paralysis" or "night palsy." The attacks may be precipitated by terrifying dreams and perfectly robust persons may be afflicted. Instances have been recorded in which the incidents began in childhood and persisted thruout life without impairing health.

Rushton reports two cases, one of whom was a 54 year old woman who had encountered 12 such lapses during a period of four years. In the middle of the night she would waken, unable to open her eyes, move, or talk. By making a gurgling noise in her throat she could rouse her husband, who was able to terminate the manifestation by rubbing her arms briskly.

During the episode she was extremely anxious and had a fear of dying. On one occasion she decided to lie down for a nap in the afternoon and, just as she was dozing off, the difficulty developed. Two hours later one of her daughters, who had thought the mother was sleeping, came into the room and touched her. That was all that was necessary to restore motion. Following these occurrences the patient was always somewhat exhausted and unsteady but, after a few hours, returned to normal. She had an interesting family history in that her father, two children, and one sister were somnambulists. A maternal aunt, on the other hand, was a victim of sleep paralysis.

This author characterizes the disorder in the words of St. Matthew: "The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak." The condition lasts a few moments to several hours and apparently body contact is necessary before the "spell" can be broken. Noise will not dispel it. All during this time, the sufferer is aware of his surroundings, can hear and comprehend what is said, but can do very little about it.

The defect is seemingly just the opposite of sleep-walking for here the victim can move but is unconscious. That a relationship exists between the two abnormalities, however, is suggested in the case cited by Gowers in which a man was afflicted with sleep paralysis from adolescence to middle life and with sleep-walking from then on.

No one understands the cause but several theories have been propounded. It is possible that the cerebral centers controling consciousness are awakened long before those which govern muscular activity. Certainly the opposite is true, for in the process of falling asleep, the muscles may or may not relax before dreamland is reached.

The malady may be related to epilepsy. It is also similar to cataplexy, in which there is a tendency toward sudden weakness with limpness of the arms and legs or falling of the head to one side. This usually follows an emotional upheaval such as hearty laughter, anger, or surprise. During these momentary seizures, the patient cannot speak. It may also resemble a hysterical trance but in general these are more colorful and are not dissipated simply by touching the victim.

A WEAKENING INFECTION

L. S. W. writes: Two months ago I had virus pneumonia. I still am weak and suffer from night sweats. Is this the usual reaction?

REPLY

Assuming that your lungs are now clear, it is conceivable that the fatigue following such a bout can persist this length of time. I would advise that you have the breathing apparatus reëxamined. In some individuals a focus of infection remains, which is responsible for lassitude.

DAMAGED VALVES

R. T. E. writes: Does valvular disease mean heart trouble?

REPLY

Yes, it indicates that the valves in the pumping organ are involved. Infection, such as rheumatic fever, is probably the most frequent origin. Arteriosclerosis and lues are less common causes.

PROBABLY NOT

S. A. D. writes: If a person has had the gall bladder removed, is the urine likely to be highly discolored by bile?

REPLY

This operation should have no effect on the color of the urine. If anything, by improving the biliary system, a lighter hue may be anticipated.

The Long Ships Anchored

The long gray ships of war are home at last today, lined up in proud formation in every harbor along America's two great coast lines and in every major inland port. They came home with portholes opened and glowing at night, with radio operating at will, with the letters they wrote uncensored, with radar used to detect nothing more ominous than friendly shapes in the fog, and with the holes in their sides and hulls and decks patched and concealed with gleaming paint. For the weary men aboard them, who refuted by three years their own slogan of "Thru the Golden Gate in '48," it is a day of great joy; for the people of America, a day of gratitude.

Today is America's 23d Navy day and by far its most radiant of all those years. The day was first observed in 1922, the date Oct. 27 having been chosen because it was the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt ["Peace is a goddess only when she comes with a sword girt on thigh."], apostle of the American navy both in practice and in his historical writings. A few years later some one with a yen for dates discovered that, by happy coincidence, Navy day was also the official anniversary of the founding of the American navy, for on Oct. 27, 1775, a special committee of the continental congress reported in favor of buying merchant ships to start a navy for the little colonies who were soon to be free.

What happened on former Navy days, however, seems a mockery now, for it was observed with sham battles and coastal maneuvers and the capture [in 1933] of the federal building at a Century of Progress exposition by the marines. This time there will be none of that. All the ships and all the men have done it before and in terrible earnest.

Behind the long lines of ships and the weary men who sailed them are too many memories, too many ships locked fast on the floor of the ocean, and the recollection of too many terse words—the final words of the marines at Wake Island, when asked by radio what they needed, "Send us more Japs!"; the command of Howard Gilmore, the wounded submarine commander as he lay on the deck of his attacked ship: "Take her down!", and the innumerable gallant laconicisms uttered by men who went down and heard by men who never repeated them.

The American navy has suckled its men for 150 years on the glowing phrases of past accomplishment. "We have met the enemy and they are ours" [Perry, 1813, Battle of Lake Erie]. "I have not yet begun to fight" [John Paul Jones on the BonHomme Richard, 1779]. "Don't give up the ship!" [Lawrence on the Chesapeake, 1813]. "Damn the torpedoes. Go ahead!" [Farragut at Mobile bay, 1864]. "You may fire when ready, Gridley!" [Dewey at Manila bay, 1898].

To those now must be added the "Scratch one flattop!" of the Coral sea, the "Sighted sub sank same" of an aviation machinist's mate as he sent a Jap carrier to the bottom, the "We'll take the big ones first" of the cruiser San Francisco as she steamed in between two lines of Jap warships in the Solomons, and the laconic catechism for triumph of the skipper of the submarine Wahoo when she came into port with a mop on her periscope to signify having mopped up eight Jap ships on a single patrol. The skipper was asked how they did it. His reply: "Just sight, track, shoot, and sink." The next time neither he nor the Wahoo returned. With the Lexington, the Yorktown, the Borie, the Shaw, and a host of other gallant ships, dreadnaughts and minnows alike, they lie immeasurable fathoms beneath the seas of the world, the brave men who manned them within or beside them, the memory of them anchored as firmly in the memory of their land as the ships who returned today are anchored at harbor.

This Navy day is theirs. It is also that of the navy chaplain, a captain, on the Arizona who was there not to sail the ship, but to succor it. He was down below deck with 35 men when Jap bombs hit the Arizona as she lay tied up at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, and one by one he pushed the 35 men out thru a porthole. They all survived. But when it came his turn to go, he could not. He was too fat.

THE LOWER CLAWSSES IN THE NAVY

Great Lakes, Ill., Oct. 24—There has been much controversy over the profound distinction and hard feelings between officers and enlisted men. We suggest the former be more diplomatic and tactful in their public statements. Enclosed is a sample of what we mean:

"A few opportunities are now open for wives of enlisted men to obtain positions as housekeepers or maids on the center. No facilities for children. Wives must be available for at least two months. Room and board plus a small stipend. Also same positions off the center in navy families at prevailing wages. Interested parties should contact chaplain's office, building No. 211, topside."

ENLISTED MAN

TRAINING WHILE LEARNING

Chicago, Oct. 24—Instead of one years's military training for our American boys when they have reached the age of 18, why not have compulsory R. O. T. C. training for all boys from the age of 12 until they have finished high school? In this way they would get more than a year's training, and those who have careers planned that necessitate many years of college would not be deprived of an early college start.

Also the government could establish summer military camps where boys could spend all or part of summer vacations. Having them grow up with the very splendid and beneficial training of the military forces seems much better than "breaking in" on 18 year olds who are almost ready to take their places in life.

HE EXPECTS IT

La Harpe, Ill., Oct. 23—Please inform me as to a point in stiquet: Just in case Mi Lord Halifax should come riding to hounds thru the country and should pass the white cottage on our farm [tho it will not be ours for long if we have to help give Merrie Old England three or six billions of dollars], I say, if my husband and I should be in the yard, should he touch his forelock and should I bend my stiff old knees and make a curtsy?

READ IN THE SCHOOLS

Wilmette, Ill., Oct. 18—Referring to your editorial Oct. 2, "This So-Called Peace," I thought well enough of it to cut it out for my scrapbook. About a week later my daughter, in senior high school, mentioned that she was obliged to read an editorial in class the following day. I gave her this to read. It so happened that before her name was called another pupil read the very same editorial. Apparently others also appreciated it.

THE P. G. W.'s GAVE

Chicago, Oct. 24.—So Pvt. 1st Class Philip F. O'Keefe Jr. "could stand by gladly and see the German people starve." It was rather nice to see that the German prisoners of war at Fort Sheridan didn't feel that way as far as our community-war fund was concerned, which is for the underprivileged people all over the world, and voluntarily contributed $8,636.

ORIENTATION

Chanute Field, Ill., Oct. 17—I think I now know the reason why we are kept loafing around these army camps instead of being sent home. It's so they will have us in a position where we must listen to their weekly orientation programs. Music and entertainment have been added to the program to make it a little less boresome, but it's still propaganda, no matter how they dress it up. Today we sat thru a cleverly doctored up moving picture of how our underpaid and overworked congressmen are suffering. [Time out for tears.] If those same congressmen would just get on the ball and declare the emergency over as of V-J day, perhaps we would feel a little more sympathetic toward them.

ANOTHER GI

'THAT'LL TEACH 'EM RESPECT FOR A SUPERIOR OFFICER

Mansfield, Mo., Oct. 15—I have a letter from my brother-in-law in Japan. It seems that in his outfit there are a large number of men with 80 to 90 points, with up to 39 months in the service, and a number of over-age men, who were promised some time back they would get to come home soon. But now they are being given the run-around, are told their records were not moved to Japan, that their records cannot be found, and are given other excuses. But to cap it off, on a current "duty roster," a copy of which was sent me, high point and over-age men were threatened with disciplinary action that might keep them over there indefinitely if they fail to salute any officer.

This seems more designed to satisfy some high nobs' ego than to create teamwork on the part of our occupation forces.

RALPH O. WATTERS

TRAINING THE FORCES OF TYRANNY

Sheboygan, Wis., Oct. 19—What about applying the four freedoms to the Indonesian people, who desire freedom from their Dutch overlords and wish to establish an independent republic? I hear we are training Dutch boys at Camps Lejeune and Davis, in North Carolina, for service in the Dutch East Indies. Will they be used to suppress the Indonesian movement for independence?

ASSISTANCE FOR NONCITIZENS

Chicago, Oct. 26—I have heard that a person who has lived in this country 25 years without taking out citizenship papers is eligible to receive old age assistance. Is this true?

A. M.

Yes. The act [Ill. R. S. Chap. 23, Secs. 410-430, under amendments effective July 24, 1945] grants old age assistance to citizens or persons who have resided 25 years in the United States and are 65 years old; have resided in Illinois one year; are not supported by public institutions; have not given away their assets to increase their need; have no children able to support them, and have not purchased full care in private institutions.

5 'EXPENDABLE' GENERALSNAMED FOR PROMOTION

They Were a 'Sacrifice,' Says Truman

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—President Truman today nominated for promotion five officers who served under Gen. Wainwright in the Philippines, saying they were a "sacrifice to our state of unpreparedness."

They were among 54 army and 51 navy men whose promotions were sent to the senate by the chief executive. They are Major Generals Edward P. King, William F. Sharp, George F. Moore, George N. Parker, and Albert M. Jones.

Mr. Truman recommended that the five receive the same permanent rank of major general that they have held on a temporary basis. Their permanent ranks ranged from colonel to brigadier general.

Inspired Filipinos

"This is the group of leaders who inspired our American and Filipino forces to their heroic defense against overwhelming odds," the President said in a message accompanying the nominations.

"They had no chance of eventual successs. They, with their troops, were a sacrifice to our state of unpreparedness and endured agony of suffering, mental even more than physical, during their long imprisonment."

If they had been given further opportunity to demonstrate their leadership in battle, Mr. Truman said, they "unquestionably" would have been promoted to a higher grade before this.

King was the commanding general of the Luzon force on Bataan, Sharp was commanding general of the Mindanao forces, Moore was in charge of the harbor defenses at Manila and on Subic bay, Parker commanded the 2d corps on Bataan, and Jones the 1st corps.

Clark Nominated

Gen. Clark who commanded American troops in Italy and the occupation forces in Austria was named for permanent rank of major general. The same permanent promotion went to Lt. Gen. Richardson, commander of army troops in the Central Pacific.

Gen. Kenney, far east air forces commander under Gen. MacArthur, and Gen. Spaatz, chief of United States strategic air forces in Europe and the Pacific, both were included in the list of those to be major generals.

Three officers were described as so young that special legislation would be required to permit them to take the regular ranks of brigadier general to which the President named them. They are Lt. Gen. Hoyt Sanford Vandenberg of the 9th air force in Europe, Maj. Gen. Le May, deputy to Spaatz in the Pacific, and Maj. Gen. Louris Norstad, a deputy chief of staff of the AAF.

The promotions of navy captains to be rear admirals included Apollo Souchek, who is to command the aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt.

LAUNDRY DRIVER ROBBED

Michael Steinhauer, 5707 S. Marshfield av., a laundry driver, told police that five young Negroes seized him yesterday as he was entering his truck at 4343 St. Lawrence av. and robbed him of $15.

BENNET RETURNS

Mr. Izenga would never have a minute's peace till he knew Erica was safe. Erica drew out a white bud and sniffed it. "Lovely, isn't it? Huntley brought these over this morning."

"Very pretty."

"It's too much trouble to quarrel. Poor Huntley."

"Well, if that's the way you want to look at it." Mr. Izenga was curt. "How does Newcomb like your being so broadminded?"

Aha! thought Mr. Izenga.

Erica said, "Another thing I want to talk about is my will."

She smiled rather bitterly. "You needn't bother to pretend you don't know about my leaving everything to Toby. I'm sure you found out somehow. But anyway, I've changed my mind."

So she was seeing thru Newcomb at last!

"I was mad at every one when I made that hasty will," she began again. "I wanted to show my confidence in Toby. But I see now that that was wrong. I overdid it. I really hurt him instead of helping him."

"Did you arrive at this conclusion yourself, or did some one suggest it to you?"

"It's funny, but Uncle Harry is the one who started me thinking. He told me Aunt Hester was dreadfully hurt at my cutting out all the family. It wasn't that they expected me to die but it just looked bad, he said."

"But how did he know about the new will?"

"O, I told them. How could they know I trusted Toby so much if they didn't know I'd left him the money? I'd hardly be expected to pass out, just to prove my point."

"I simply wondered."

"Don't be peeved, darling. I didn't tell you because I wasn't sure myself I'd let it stand. But Uncle Harry pointed out I was really harming Toby. He said now they could call Toby a fortune hunter, and say he used undue influence on me. And of course he was entirely right. I never knew Uncle Harry had so much common sense. So I thought I'd change my will again. I thought I'd ask a few people's advice, you first, of course."

"Well, my dear, I certainly think it's wise for you not to leave everything to Newcomb. It does look bad. But on the other hand I wouldn't leave too much to the family. They have plenty now . . ."

"That's exactly what Uncle Ridge says. He says I'll outlive them all, and I don't need to pacify him. He really was sweet, the old realist. He said to leave anything I planned to give him, to Huntley."

"To Huntley! After the way he's acted?"

"O, my dear, don't you see, it doesn't mean a thing." Erica was bitter and disillusioned. "Don't take it so hard. It's just a gesture. I'll survive everybody and scoop in the family fortunes for my 10 children. So what does it matter if poor old Huntley thinks I forgive him for that silly Sunday? Forgive him to the extent of leaving him a few thousands. He'll never get it."

Mr. Izenga was bewildered by her attitude toward Huntley. She'd been so positive she never wanted to see him again.

And Mr. Izenga was not at all sure he wanted her to marry Huntley.

Mr. Izenga was about to leave when cars began to stream in thru Westerly's gate. Most of them were gold striped police cars with spotlights on top. But among them was an elaborate sky blue Packard coupe.

"Well, they got Bennet."

They all passed into the house below. There was a heavy tramping in the front hall, then a door closed.

"Well, I must be running along," Mr. Izenga said. He gave Erica a last coaxing look.

He went into the hall and slowly down the stairs. As he reached the last step, the library door opened and French's head stuck out. "Has Mr. Izenga gone? O, there you are. Come on in."

The library was laced with long strands of blue smoke. Bennet and Ridge were both smoking. How did Ridge get there, Mr. Izenga wondered?

French looked up from the chair in which he set facing Bennet Pomeroy. On the table in front of him were sheets of paper and a pencil. French motioned to a chair beside him.

"Mr. Izenga, I understand you have influence with this family. To save time, will you try to persuade Mr. Bennet Pomeroy to talk to us, and his uncle to lay off advising him to keep still?"

"I'm acting as Bennet's attorney at the present," Ridge informed Mr. Izenga loftily. "I don't think he should answer questions just now. He's exhausted."

Mr. Izenga scrutinized the captive judiciously. Bennet certainly had a sulky hangdog air about him that wasn't doing his case any good. But he looked fully able to answer a few questions.

A weariness of soul came over Mr. Izenga. He was becoming so sick of this suspense and trouble he hardly cared who was guilty. And if it were Bennet, why not get it over with? After all, a murderer is not a person one wants to shield, even if he is a Pomeroy.

"What is it you want to know, lieutenant?"

"First . . . if he bought any chloral hydrate at any time."

"No. I did not," Bennet shouted, angrily. "I can't see what harm it would do to answer that one. Why should I buy it and give it to myself? I should think I'd be the one person who wasn't suspected of buying it."

Mr. Izenga was irritated. It was stupid of Bennet to talk like that. French got it. So did Ridge Dawson.

"See what I mean Izenga? Even at the best of times my nephew isn't overly bright. Now he's a pushover."

"But he's got to answer questions some time," Mr. Izenga said.

"Some time, sure. Tomorrow. Let him have a night's rest."

Let him have 24 hours for you to cram him with the right answers, you mean, Mr. Izenga thought, and probably French did too. But French only said coolly:

"He can have plenty of rest now if he'll promise to take a lie detector test tomorrow."

"Not interested," Bennet said curtly.

"But good heavens, Bennet," Mr. Izenga said, "it's the same as admitting you're guilty, not to take one."

"Who says so?" Ridge cut in. "It's not admitted as evidence in any court. Understand, I don't say he shouldn't take it . . . he's perfectly innocent and it will prove it . . . but it's not evidence."

"You can save your breath, all of you, I won't have one." Bennet's drawn face turned darker red. "I won't have one, I tell you. I'm all shot as it is."

LT. BIRMINGHAM, LONG DETECTIVE, TO RETIRE TODAY

Police Lt. Edward P. Birmingham, a detective for 30 of the 38 years he served on the Chicago force, and who was cited for efficiency on several occasions, was to retire today after working his last night at the Summerdale station.

He joined the force in 1908. A year later he was transferred, on orders of the late former Mayor Fred Busse, to the detective bureau. In 1919, while he was a partner of the late Capt. John J. McGinnis, Birmingham, then a sergeant, headed the annual efficiency list of detective sergeants. In 1926, after he had been promoted to lieutenant, Birmingham and his squad topped 60 zone squads in efficiency.

Lt. Birmingham lives at 4250 Jackson blvd., with his wife, Grace.

CATTLE SHIPPED BY CHURCH SAIL TO AID BELGIANS

The Church of the Brethren yesterday shipped to Antwerp, Belgium, the first of two consignments of cattle being contributed to the reconstruction of that country. The 125 heifer calves were aboard the SS. Charles Wooster, out of Newport News, Va., and in charge of Charles Rohrer, North Manchester, Ind., dairy farmer, representing the Brethren service committee.

Distribution of the stock will be made in Belgium by the Rev. Luther Harshbarger of Ambler, Pa., cooperating with Belgian officials. The Rev. Mr. Harshbarger is in charge of the Brussels office of the Y. M. C. A. war prisoners aid.

This shipment is the third made to Europe by the Church of the Brethren. Earlier this year, six Brown Swiss sires were sent to Greece, and last week 150 heifers were landed at Le Havre, France. Another shipment to Belgium will be made on Nov. 4.

RUSSIAN PLOT TO CAPTURE U. S. TOLD BY AUTHOR

Upton Close, author, lecturer, and commentator, urged yesterday that the American people take two practical steps to forestall the possibility that Russia, when it has developed a supreme weapon, will hurl annihilation at the United States in the form of atomic bombs. They are:

1. Lessen American support of Britain's old empire game.

2. Clean up the Marxist conspiracy in this country, tell Russia what it can and cannot do, and what it can expect from the United States.

"Do this," he told members of the Executives' club in Hotel Sherman, "and you will have done much in a practical manner to save us from annihilation by that sentence of death passed on us by the scientific brain."

As long as the United States stands behind the British, Close told his listeners, Russia will "pound like an anvil with Uncle Sam in the middle." He urged that the United States stop coddling Marxist ideas in the government and letting their followers maintain the thought that if they push hard enough they can have the United States as well as Europe.

RACIAL CHARTER IS DRAFTED FOR CHICAGO UNITY

Hope that a race relations "charter" would soon be ready for Chicago was expressed by Thomas H. Wright, executive director of Mayor Kelly's committee on race relations, at a reception given by the committee for the press in the Bismarck hotel yesterday.

The charter is being drafted by the Chicago Conference for Home Front Unity and will be completed at sessions to be held in the city hall Oct. 30 and Nov. 6.

"We hope to evolve a charter that will govern in every field of relations between races living in Chicago," Wright said; all agencies closely concerned with race relations, particularly the police and housing authorities, will be asked to coöperate.

REFORMATION DAY SERVICES PLANNED HERE

167 Lutheran Churches to Unite for Event

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

World-wide Protestantism will recognize tomorrow as Reformation Sunday. The principal city-wide observance will be held at 3:30 p. m. in the Civic Opera house under the auspices of the newly organized Lutheran Men's council. Sen. Shipstead [R., Minn.] and Dr. William G. Sodt, vice president of the National Lutheran council, will be the principal speakers.

Reformation Sunday recalls the dramatic events of Oct. 31, 1517, when Dr. Martin Luther, an Augustinian priest and professor of philosophy at the University of Wittenberg, Germany, posted his 95 theses [statements of protest] on the door of the Castle church in Wittenberg. Previously he had assailed the preaching of indulgences by John Tetzel. This combination of incidents brought about unexpected results.

Results Are Described

Dr. Louis J. Schwartzkopf, of the Lutheran bureau, 77 W. Washington st., describes these results as follows:

"Church authorities condemned Luther as a heretic, ordered him to recant, and burned his books. The pope's bull of excommunication was issued in Rome on June 15, 1520, and published in Germany by Dr. Johann Eck. The decree of the church was to be executed by the 'secular arm' at the Diet of Worms the next year.

"The diet demanded that the condemned man be heard on a two-fold question: Whether he acknowledged the writings which had been placed before him as his own, and whether he would retract their contents. Luther affirmed the first part of the question, and requested time to answer the second part on the following day when he spoke for two hours and ended with the famous declaration:

"'. . . my conscience is bound by God's word; I cannot and will not revoke anything, for it is unsafe and dishonest to act against conscience. . . . Here I stand; I cannot do otherwise; God help me! Amen.' The diet adjourned at once in a tumult."

167 Churches to Take Part

One hundred and sixty-seven Lutheran churches of the Chicago metropolitan area will be represented at the Civic Opera house service. Others participating in the service will be the Rev. Dr. Armin G. Weng, president of the Illinois synod, United Lutheran church; the Rev. Dr. Oscar A. Benson, president of the Illinois conference of the Augustana Lutheran synod, and the Rev. Jesse Thorsen, president of the Chicago circuit of the Norwegian Lutheran church. Massed Lutheran choirs will lead the music under the direction of George A. Carlson.

Tea at Arts Club Will Open Its First Exhibition of Season

BY JUDITH CASS

THE opening exhibition of the season next Friday in the Arts club will be a large one, filling the entire galleries. It is a memorial exhibition of the works of Wassily Kandinsky, internationally known abstractionist, and will be opened with a tea from 4 to 6 p. m.

The exhibit comes on loan from the Museum of Nonobjective Painting in New York, with the exception of four paintings lent by the Art institute of Chicago and one by Mrs. Lora Marx of Chicago. The Museum of Nonobjective Painting was founded by the Solomon Guggenheim Foundation and is directed by Baroness Hilla Rebay, who was known to Chicagoans many years ago when her own work was shown in the Arts club. Mr. Kandinsky was born in Moscow in 1866, and died in 1944. The paintings to be shown here were selected from the large collection shown last year in the museum in New York.

The new chairman of the Arts club's reception committee, Mrs. William Henry Wood, will be hostess for the tea Friday. Adding interest to the exhibition will be a lecture on Kandinsky, to be given Saturday morning, Nov. 10, in the club by James Johnson Sweeney, director of the New York Museum of Modern Art. His talk will be illustrated. Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, president of the club, will entertain at luncheon for Mr. Sweeney that day.

On the Calendar

The American Friends of China will have an interesting speaker at the first meeting of the current season Tuesday afternoon in the home of Russell Tyson. The speaker will be Dr. Y. T. Mei, acting president of Yenching university, who will discuss "The Prospects and Problems in China." Mrs. Charles T. Adams is the organization's new president.

Members of the Cliff Dwellers have been invited to take "capsule course culture" at 8 o'clock tonight in the Art Institute, where Daniel Catton Rich, Dudley Crafts Watson, Fayerweather Babcock, Francis Chapin, and George Baehr will instruct them in various subjects. Supper will follow in the Cliff Dwellers' club rooms.

One of the gayest parties of the fall season will be the dinner-dance the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association is giving tonight in the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel to raise money for the Arden Shore Camp in Lake Bluff. A record crowd is expected, and the ballroom, which has been decorated by Mrs. Donald Ozmun, will have a suitably festive appearance.

The Thomas J. Flemings will entertain a large group of friends at cocktails in a second floor suite in the Palmolive building before going to the benefit. Others entertaining at cocktails before the party are Mrs. James O. McKinsey, chairman of the committee; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gramm, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Graham, the Stewart Buchanans, the Arthur Hailands, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Berghoff.

Born in Chicago, Miss Devaney later moved to Oak Park, where she was gradauted from high school. Altho she wanted to be a fashion designer from the time she was 12 years old, she protected herself with a business course, and studied her art work on the side in the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and in the Vogue school.

Tall, slender, and as attractive as any mannequin, she modeled for a nationally known coat and suit house and at present is employed in the Chicago office of a large sportswear firm. She considered winning a prize in the American Fashion Show a "definite stepping stone toward a designing career."

Third grand prize of $500 was awarded to a Chicago man, Eddie M. Capsuto of 1436 S. Christiana av. for a dinner dress that was the envy of every woman present. Inspired by the quiet, lustrous beauty of a star sapphire, it might well have been entitled "Stars in Your Eyes." Of misty blue, it was a simple sheath, slender as a sea-reflected pine, with tiny drop shoulders. Its only trim was thousands of matching blue bugle beads, hand embroidered in panels of a leaf design on the bodice and the hips. The beads glistened like myriad jewels in the moonlight.

Mr. Capsuto, now a dress designer with a Chicago firm, is an ex-service man, who on his own time in the army designed costumes for various army shows. He planned a fashion career from the time he created costumes for his class follies in Manley Junior High school. After his discharge from the air forces, where he served two and a half years, he availed himself of the GI bill of rights and pursued a refresher course in fashion designing.

Teen-age is the age of romance. It is fitting that the winning American Fashions sub-deb design should be a dress as fragile as first love and as touched with star-dust as a young girl's eyes. Only a man as versed in the ways of the world and with the talent and experience of a professional designer could have created the breath-taking, gray tulle "formal" which was awarded $500. He is Ralph Moni, a native of Chicago, who now lives in Scarsdale, N. Y.

Of gray tulle, the color of clouds dusted by the dawn, the gown is sprinkled with silver. Its bouffant skirt is caught at the waist with a trim, tight fitting corselette of kid demurely laced with cords of red velvet. To match young, bright lips, a charming shoulder cape and gloves of red velveteen complete the picture, a picture of gay courage and great dreams.

Moni was a director of design at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, and has been associated with that institution for more than a quarter of a century. For eight years, he was president of the Fashion Art League of America, an organization of some 2,000 designers. He has conducted his own dress studio for many years and has created costumes for such figures of the theater and screen as Ethel Barrymore, Ginger Rogers, the Duncan Sisters, Joy Hodges, and Ann Miller.

Scoring a number of successes in exhibition draping, he was the first to drape models for television. His hobby is designing dresses for his teen-age daughter, Alexandra Mary. No wonder he caught the rapture of youth in a cloud of tulle.

But it was not easy for the audience to choose the grand prize winners from among 50 beautiful ensembles, selected from among thousands of designs entered in the American Fashions contest by amateur and professional designers from all parts of the country. All but the first grand prize winner were hotly contested and great excitement grew as the ballots were counted.

The collection included costumes for every girl and every woman for every occasion. The teen-age division of the competition was an innovation this year and a separate award was given. In the adult group were 32 ensembles, suits, coats, afternoon frocks, and dinner and evening gowns. Accessories were luxurious furs and precious gems. Thirteen of the nation's loveliest models gracefully walked the runway and showed the costumes to magnificent advantage.

A highlight of the show was a historical pageant depicting the cycle of style every century from 1545 to that nebulous year, 2045.

At Last Night's Performance of 'I Pagliacci'

Opera House Is Filled for Sudler Debut

BY ELEANOR PAGE

Louis Sudler's opera debut as Silvio in "I Pagliacci" last night in the Civic Opera house drew an audience of business and social friends of the singer which provided all of the glamor and éclat customarily associated with an opera "first night." Clad in their prettiest dinner and evening gowns, and escorted by husbands and beaux in white tie — or dinner jackets at least — family friends gathered to hear the baritone in his first opera appearance.

The barrage of flash bulbs which greeted the arrival of the singer's wife and young son, Louis Jr., caused passers-by to pause. Mrs. Sudler, tall, slim, and blonde, was clad in a dinner gown of two tones of gray, and pinned a modest gardenia blossom to the throat of her fur jacket. She entered with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr., and after the performance they welcomed well wishers first in the Gold Key room of the Civic Opera building, and later in the Sudlers' apartment, where his parents, the Carroll H. Sudlers, awaited them.

The Robert A. Carrs, the Theodore Garys, Mrs. David Chambers Jr., whose navy husband had just arrived in Portland, Ore., and James C. Hemphill arrived together following a dinner party. Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, in a stunning cream colored gown and an ermine jacket, and Mr. Reid brought 30 guests on to the opera house from dinner in the Casino club. Mr. and Mrs. G. Corson Ellis, her sister, Mrs. Rudolph Knepper, the Earl Kribbens, and Mason Wells, who was being welcomed back to Chicago after an absence of 10 years, were in another group.

Mrs. James Drain Jr., Col. and Mrs. Ralph Soto-Hall, Philip B. Maher, and the John Haddocks, who just have moved here from Michigan City, Ind., dined at the Tavern before claiming their seats in the sold-out house. Mrs. Marshall G. Sampsell, Mr. and Mrs. William A. P. Watkins, the Howard V. O'Briens, the Gilbert H. Scribners, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings, the Solomon B. Smiths, Mrs. William M. Spencer, the junior Albert F. Madleners, Mrs. Irene Sidley, Mrs. Herbert E. Kennedy, Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Van Alyea, the Chauncey Blairs, Mr. and Mrs. George Beach Jr., Miss Eleanor McClurg, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, the Thomas I. Underwoods, Miss Frances Amberg, and Miss Dudley Winston were others in the audience whose presence made the evening one of the most fashionable so far this season.

Two visitors from Indianapolis, Mrs. Gale Fletcher and Mrs. Carl Vonnegut, were among the Abner J. Stilwell's guests, who also included Mr. and Mrs. E. Cummings Parker. Mrs. Frank Fuller, the William E. Raglands [Edith Mason], John Finlay and his subdebutante daughter, Barbara; the Huntington B. Henrys, and Mrs. Samuel D. Rowe and her budding operatic singer daughter, Muriel Lawrence, were others in the packed house.

Description Given of Finalists' 50 Costumes in Fashions Show

A bright future for women's clothing was predicted in the 50 winning costumes shown in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S sixth annual American Fashions show, which closed last night. They were selected from thousands of sketches submitted by professional and amateur dress designers from every part of the United States. Each winning design was made into a gown, coat, or suit at the expense of THE TRIBUNE.

A $50 cash award was given to the designer of each of the 50 costumes. Two designers each had two winning designs in the adult fashions group. They were Stephen B. Erklin, Mount Vernon, N. Y., and Poppy Pappas, Union City, N. J. Ralph Moni, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Leone Avey, Los Angeles, Cal., and Mme. Paule Madoc, New York City, had one winner each in the adult group and the teen-age group.

TEEN-AGE FASHIONS

Marilyn Virginia Eaton, Woodstock, Ill.—A soft gold wool coat detailed in saddle stitching, worked by hand in brown wool. There is a jaunty air in the unusual cut of the coat, which is accompanied by a simple dress of brown. The same shade is used for the pert beret and gloves.

Leone Avey, Los Angeles, Cal.—A back-to-school dress of coral wool. It is trimmed at the neck and at the low hip line with rolls of self material which also form an effective decoration on the short, boxy coat, where they provide an unusual finish to the deep pockets. Gloves and cap complete this ensemble.

Mrs. Frederic Blaser, Pittsburgh, Pa.—White wool with a navy blue stripe has been worked into what is almost a jigsaw pattern to create this perfectly tailored dress. It is simple in line, but the permanent appeal of fine craftsmanship is evident. A dash of red is contributed by the leather belt and shoes.

Carolyn Kuiak, Hammond, Ind.—Gay red, white, and blue buttons shaped like ABC's provide note contrast against the beige wool of this simple dress. The enameled lettering could easily be changed to form the initials of the young wearer. The blue of the buttons is repeated in the belt.

Betty Brinkman, Davenport, Ia.—Brown faille is the material used in this captivating party cut suit. A casual hat of green felt and shoes make an ideal spectator or resort costume.

Mrs. Ruth Schimpf, Lima, O.—This little black wool dress is highlighted by a few yards of rose grosgrain ribbon and the result is a charming frock smart enough for any informal party. The ribbon is used again in the short gloves that are worn with the dress.

Cecil Jill Meure, La Crosse, Wis.—This bewitching suit is made of navy blue silk alpaca. The jacket is shirred in back to give a youthful peplum effect, and a ruffled petticoat peeps from under the skirt. A jabot of pale pink linen completes the costume.

Rita Beasley, Kankakee, Ill.—Another going-to-a-party dress is the aqua wool bodice and circular black wool skirt combination, which apparently was inspired by a Mexican peasant costume. The skirt is appliqued with multi-colored flower motifs worked in silk and wool.

Doris L. Carter, Hilton Village, Va.—One of the attractions of this simple rust wool one-piece dress is the natural colored linen yoke that can be removed in a hurry and replaced by another in any color the wearer desires. The yoke is fastened with porcelain buttons.

Martha C. Masen, Detroit, Mich.—This fresh looking wool frock of blue is appliqued in red with white felt daisies. It is the perfect answer to the problems of a teen-ager who wonders what to wear on a bright spring day.

Stella Scarano, Utica, N. Y.—This unusual costume of multicolored striped wool is combined with plain wool of the same tone. The striped material is used for the top and the plain wool with the skirt, giving it a smart, yet durable, effect. This is shown with a short sleeveless gilet of plain material, faced and lined with stripes.

Rose Marie Merez, 2348 S. Lawndale av.—This white gabardine jumper dress, complete with a striped wool green and white sport shirt, is perfect for a trip to sunnier climes. The jumper has a wide shoulder line, and interesting pockets are formed by the unusual cut of the dress.

Jeannette F. O'Brien, 401 Fullerton pkwy.—Two dresses in one, with only a few seconds for changing, is this striking party dress. The snug fitting bodice is of green velveteen and the swirling skirt is of striped taffeta. The long skirt may easily be removed to reveal a velveteen day tipe dress.

Ann Leese, 2500 S. 57th ct., Cicero, Ill.—This dream frock of every teen-aged girl is of pale pink. Layer upon layer of net makes the wide skirt, which is decorated with uncurled ostrich feathers.

Camille Press, Milwaukee, Wis.—Innumerable ruffles decorate the full skirt of this glamorous party dress of candy striped taffeta. In contrast is the brief, tightly fitted bodice with shoulder straps of vivid green velvet ribbon arranged to meet at the waist in a soft bow.

Ralph L. Moni, Scarsdale, N. Y.—Silver spangles gleam here and there against the gray tulle of this breathtaking gown. Silver is used again for the tight fitting little corselette of kid which is demurely laced with cords of red velvet. Velveteen is used also for the shoulder cape and gloves.

Mme. Paule Madoc, New York City—The charm of youth is embodied in this fragile dress of white organdy. The material is embroidered by hand with a tracery of silver threads.

ADULT FASHIONS

Kenneth Williams, Bloomington, Ill.—This dashing red tweed coat has a band embroidered black wool design embroidered into the material. The plastron front of jet black Persian lamb is held at the waist by a wide patent leather belt. A youthful bandeau of matching fur completes the ensemble.

Joshua F. Breiger, 233 W. Jackson blvd.—Mustard colored wool is used for this casual coat which stresses wide shoulders and a softly draped back, the fullness of which is secured by a wide stitched belt with a heavy silver buckle. A skirt of dark green wool and a high draped turban of the same material complete the costume.

Stephen B. Erklin, Mount Vernon, N. Y.—[1] This unusual suit of black and henna brown wool is as new as tomorrow. The brown material is encrusted with a huge motif across the front and sleeve of the jacket. The straight skirt is in direct contrast to the flare of the jacket. A beret of henna felt, trimmed with black bands, carries out the sophisticated color scheme. [2] The richness of heavy white crepe and the shimmer of silk fringe combine to make this gown a thing of outstanding beauty. The dress, a simple sheath in silhouette, is trimmed with hand knotted fringe which falls in cascades against the mat surface of the crepe, forming the suggestion of a short cape in the back.

Irma Karasek, 2538 S. Ridgeway av.—An outstanding example of the tunic suit is this black wool tunic and skirt combination. The tunic is inset with bands of ginger wool, which also faces the cuffs. The skirt is pencil-slim. In contrast to the flared tunic. A high hat of black fox and a muff of the same fur give a touch of luxury.

Valerie Galembert, New York City—This luxurious suit has a draped shawl collar of beaver. The material used is fine and is especially chosen to enhance the beauty of the fur. The beaver hat completes an ensemble of subtle elegance.

Frank Brady, New York City—Classic simplicity is exemplified in this suit of Chinese ochre wool. Diagonal tucks are placed at the waist to insure figure flattery. Subtle color contrast is achieved by a hat and scarf of verotese velvet and a muff of leopard strikes an unusual note of chic.

Robert D. Ritter, 1436 State pkwy.—The fitted jacket of this stunning white suit is of soft wool trimmed with bands of Persian lamb which edge the pockets and continue into a deep point in the back. The simple skirt is of black wool. A large beret of Persian lamb gives a finishing touch to the costume.

Kathryn Ryan, Missouri, Mo.—Here is a dashing cut in this suit of rich brown tweed, the front of which is cut in double peplum effect. Bands of leather studded with nailheads form the armholes and form an unusual double waist belt. A hat of light fur and matching gloves serve as foils for this costume.

Donald Larsen, 3750 Irving Park rd.—Yellow wool jersey lends undisputed chic to this exquisite pert suit. A casual hat of green felt and green crocodile belt and shoes make an ideal spectator or resort costume.

Mariam Devaney, 608 Austin blvd., Oak Park, Ill.—A circular cape and slim skirt of white wool makes this a perfect costume for resort wear in the south. The only touch of color is the intricate motifs worked in green wool and highlighted with green sequins. A green felt hat with shoes of the same shade add color to the costume.

Peggy Pappas, Union City, N. J.—[1] A suit that can be worn for many occasions is this black and white costume. The jacket is of fine white crepe, the deep set armholes of which are outlined with delicate hand embroidery of jet and sequins. The heavy black crepe skirt is slim and straight. A feather hat with black satin gloves and handbag carry out the color scheme. [2] Striped silk and plain black wool meet in this two piece dress. Tie silk in soft shades of gray, blue, and black is used for the jumper top. The simple skirt is of black wool. Black again is seen in the wide suede belt. A chic hat trimmed with two feather tufts echoes the soft gray in the striped material.

Elizabeth Ann Crowell, Gilman, Conn.—Unusually chic is this dress of tobacco brown crepe satin. Untrimmed and depending on its beauty of fabric and design alone, this might well be called a dress for every woman. It will streamline any figure. Feather accessories complete the ensemble.

Ralph L. Moni, Scarsdale, N. Y.—Dramatic is the word for this gleaming black satin combined with beige wool dress. The dress is cut to suggest a brief bolero and tiered skirt, and features the extended shoulder line and deep set sleeves. A turban of black satin and a muff of black fox complete the ensemble.

Lois H. Brooks, Miami Beach, Fla.—Heavy petunia silk was used for this simply cut dress, which is ideal for California or for the south. The only decorations are appliqued flower motifs in the various shades of the petunia blossom with the green leaves for contrast. These motifs also decorate the casual gloves of matching material.

Atha-Lane Joyce, Washington, D. C.—This cinnamon crepe dinner dress can be worn with or without the chic bolero, depending upon the formality of the occasion. Manipulation of hidden drawstrings converts the gown into the correct garb for cocktails or the theater. A hat with a cascade of ostrich plumes completes the ensemble.

Sgt. Jen Merritt, Milwaukee, Wis.—There is definite chic in this charming dress of flame colored faille, a modern adaptation of the shirt-waist dress. The collar is of white faille.

Winter White Is a Flattering Fashion Motif

BY REA SEEGER

Veteran forecasters are somewhat surprised at the very early arrival of the winter white fashions. But the shoppers evince little surprise, only enthusiasm that such flattering contrast is ready so soon.

Winter white is a most dramatic and unusual contrast for all winter clothes. It is a perfect foil for black, it is subtle with brown, sharp and smooth with deep gray, and distinction itself with high colors.

Because winter white is an off white, not the dazzling white of summer wear, it has an oyster white tinge, or a grayed quality easy to wear with all winter fashions.

The most exciting new hats are of winter white. The hats are high and very dramatic. Some of them are the sensational global affairs, and others are dashing wide brimmed models with high western crowns. All of them will tempt susceptible shoppers with the yen for a new hat. The hats are all comparatively simple in detail and trim, in order to make the most of the off-white color of the fine felt.

Veils of pewter gray, of brown, and super flattering flesh tints are added for more flattery. High colored veils, such as emerald or copper, are very high fashion with all monotone suits and dresses.

Dress parade winter white hats are brilliant examples of almost chiseled outlines. The glint of shimmering star-dust dazzle is added with motifs of frankly fake jewel studs, sequins, and paillettes.

Very handsome Russian effect turbans have, in the exact center, huge motifs of blazing jewels, simulating the fabulous court jewel orders. Other hats have brims that are entirely covered with shiny embroidery. Even the sombrero copies have a glittering band of multi-colored sequins.

ON THE AISLE

By Claudia Cassidy

"Pagliacci" Wins Over "Cavalleria" in Familiar Duel of the Operatic Twins

Half a century ago in the original battle of the famous operatic twins, "Cavalleria Rusticana" won over "Pagliacci" on a technicality. Mascagni played an intermezzo to separate his two scenes, and Leoncavallo, luckless soul, dropped a curtain, thereby disqualifying his work as a one act opera. But the two tales of jealousy, vendetta, and heartbreak are on an artistic level, for all the hedging of prize givers, and you never know which will win the fight for top rank in current performance. It depends on the cast, and last night the winner by unanimous acclaim was "Pagliacci."

How could it miss? It had the greatest Canio since Caruso, the indomitable Giovanni Martinelli, and a magnificent Tonio, Leonard Warren. It had a young lyric soprano, Carole Stafford, a Nedda of great promise, and it had the focal point of the evening from the point of view of his innumerable friends in the audience, Louis Sudler, making his opera bow as Silvio.

I don't suppose in the history of the opera, Silvio ever before attracted so much attention, and there was exactly nothing Mr. Sudler could do about it, so he did just that. He sang the small role designed for no other purpose but to inflame Canio to the high pitch of the Lament, and he sang it well in a lyric baritone of good quality, simply, correctly, and in admirable Italian. His nervousness will wear off with experience, and I hope next time he musses up that all too neat suit and store window makeup, and remembers Silvio is no gentleman.

Miss Stafford came as an agreeable surprise, as she had appeared only in a tiny role in "Manon." It is a pity to pitch so gifted a youngster on the stage of a major opera house, when she deserves the chance to perfect her art in the relative privacy of those small theaters America does not possess. But she has natural stage presence, good looks set off by a luminous skin worth its weight in theater gold, and her voice is a true lyric soprano, ample in range and shining in quality. Some of the stage direction made her Nedda rather more of a trollop than necessary — remember Bori? — but she seems to have all the material necessary for stellar moulding. Wish her luck.

But stars on their way are one thing, and stars on the stage are quite another. Mr. Martinelli looked like his most famous self in the clown's garb and he sang "Ridi, Pagliacci" like the great tenor dynamo he probably always will be. Mr. Warren was equally exciting in the Prologue, superbly sung in the high key, and his performance touched on degeneracy without being theatrically repulsive.

Mr. Oliviero was a deft harlequin, the chorus was fresh and melodious, and Mr. Cleva gave the score as devoted attention as he earlier had bestowed upon "Cavalleria Rusticana." But that fiery opera declined to blaze. Armand Tokatyan was its major asset, singing Turiddu well and keeping him expertly in character.

Elis Flesch, the new Santuzza, was badly miscast, as she has neither the voice nor the presence for the role. Mr. Ballarini was a capable Alfio, and pretty Miss Manski sang Lola well for a lyric soprano attempting a mezzo soprano role. Miss Doe made Mama Lucia approximately 101 her next birthday, and the chorus just couldn't cope with the big scenes.

THE QUESTION

What in your opinion are the most prominent changes in women's fashions visible in this winter's collection?

WHERE ASKED

THE ANSWERS

Norman Weir, merchandise manager, Carson Pirie Scott & Co.—To put it very simply, women's clothes are going to be definitely feminine with a little more emphasis on dressiness. Skirts will be a little longer. This year's fashions greatly emphasize the use of the silhouette to call attention to lovely feminine curves.

Ann Sheehan, fashion coördinator, Marshall Field & Co.—The most noticeable change in women's fashions is the roundness of the silhouette. The designers shun T-squared shoulders for more marked indentations of waistline and general roundness of hips. Hats are just as round. Everything is trending away from leanness.

David Mayer, president, Maurice L. Rothschild—Restriction L-85 has not been removed because there is still a shortage of material. There isn't such a great change in fashions, but women won't object too much if it means materials are going to be saved so the boys coming home can get new suits.

J. D. Madigan, president, Madigan Brothers—First you'll notice all the pretty hats. I don't think there ever has been such a variation in hat styles. The dresses American girls will be wearing will appeal to the returning service man. They are feminine and more dramatic than they have been for a long time.

William T. White, sales manager, Wieboldt's Stores, Inc.—I think the biggest changes are in the softer, wider shoulder and the more natural waistline. The "victory look" has been achieved and is morale building. The fashions are glamorous, have a lot of glitter, and are made to be attractive to the boys.

Mrs. Roslyn Friedman, fashion coordinator, Kerman Stores Co.—Material is scarce, but the designers have done a remarkable job. There's definitely the feminine touch to everything. So much has been done with contrast in color. Some new fabrics have been added and we have some of the sheerest wools we have ever had.

Tomorrow in Color!

PRIZE WINNING AMERICAN FASHIONS

Mother Told: Hover Around Gang Sessions

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Often when fellows and girls get into high school they feel very adult and capable of taking care of themselves, and are eager to prove it. A gal may make it evident that she's a big girl now by wearing lipstick and wanting to stay out later when she goes to the movies with the girls on Friday night.

And a fellow may want to give evidence of his newly acquired manhood by calling girls on the phone every night and looking for an after school job to make him financially independent, now that he's buying cokes for two. Here's a letter from the mother of a young high school Joe:

"This problem concerns my 14 year old son and his companions. They have just started high school and are all nice fellows and girls. They have been in our home many times and conduct themselves very well. However, just recently four of them, two boys and two girls, have started to meet at the home of one of the girls whose mother works. Sometimes it is after school and sometimes in the evening, they don't keep late hours, usually breaking up about 9:15, if it's at night. I wonder if I'm wrong in objecting to their meeting together when neither of the girl's parents is at home. I don't question their behavior, but wonder if it's the right thing for them to do. Our home always is open to the gang, and tho I don't sit in their laps, I do stay at home."

Altho the days of the stern, stick shaking chaperone are gone, it's still a good idea to have an adult around when fellows and girls get together. It isn't necessary to have a supervisor in the room constantly, but these young characters will be more sure of watching themselves if they know someone is within hearing distance.

Why not suggest to your son that he invite the crowd to your house after school? Make it so pleasant, by supplying some music and allowing them to make some sort of simple food [peanut butter sandwiches and milk still have appeal], that they'll want to come. And they'll have so much fun that they won't even notice you.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 26—Bob Young is sorry now he let the option on "Citizen Tom Paine" lapse. Walter Wanger has got it, and Bob is trying to buy it back. . . . Arthur Freed tells me he has bought the Rodgers and Hart tunes for Metro to use as a background for their life stories. . . . What's this about 20th Century testing another British actress—Annette Simmons of Newcastle, England—for "Forever Amber"? She's not as lucky as Peggy Cummins, who got her trip before being tested. Peggy is now sporting a honey of a mink coat. She's one up on you, Annette. . . . Universal called to say "Hurray! Deanna Durbin is finishing her picture today and the stork won't have to delay." So now Deanna's showers begin. Her first will be given by her sister, Mrs. Clarence Heckman. . . . But Judy Garland got the most useful present—and from Eddie Arnold, of all people. He has made a collection of safety pins thruout his life. I don't know whether it was in preparation for a second childhood or not, but now he's turned the whole lot over to Judy.

She'll Change Her Tune, Perhaps

If Bing Crosby and Greta Garbo do appear in the same picture, I don't believe she'll say, "I vant to go home," if he starts singing "Going My Way." This time I think she'll be only too willing to go in the same direction. . . . Joe Pasternak swears he'll take two months vacation in 1946 in Canada and Florida. Well, they're far enough apart so his right foot won't know whether his left foot is in hot water or cold. I don't think Joe could stay away from us that long. And I'm certain we'd miss him.

A Nod for the Triple Threat

The Andrews sisters not only have a nod from Ezra Stone but also the Shuberts to do a Broadway musical. . . . Columbia is trying to buy half of Audrey Long's contract from R.-K.-O., but they're not in a selling mood. . . . I saw an old picture of Bonnie Colman's the other night—"White Sister in Italy"—and never thought before how much Errol Flynn looks like him. . . . Do you believe this about a crooner's wedding? Andy Russell says Della was crying when the minister asked, "Do you?" so he just upped and said, "Yes, she do."

It'll Be a Welcome Home

Chico Alonso, seabee and one of the most popular assistant directors at Paramount, has that white piece of paper in his pocket and will he get a welcome when he returns to his home lot! . . . Milton Sperling aims to develop his own stable of stars. His first hopeful—Lt. Tony Lord. . . . Capt. Jeffrey Lynn has had no publicity, but he'll return to Hollywood wearing the bronze star. . . . I never heard it from Wayne Morris, but Adm. Halsey's aide, Comdr. David McCampbell, told me he was mighty proud of his nephew—Wayne.

Fashion Show's 50 Costumes Are Described

as is the narrow edging of the almost nonexistent sleeves. Huge plastic buttons, studded with aquamarines, fasten the bodice.

Richard Grant Ezell, Detroit, Mich.—Heavy Chinese gold satin is used for the jumper top of this gown, which is caught at the hem with a suggestion of the harem drape. The skirt is pencil-slim and of black crepe, as is the wide inset waist belt. Long black gloves make a fine background for precious bracelets.

Mary Ann Westenberger, Germantown, Wis.—Glowing purple wool is used to make this knee-length coat, which is faced and lined with the same white crepe that makes the slim, simple gown. Gold thread, delicately hand embroidered, is used to trim the shoulders and the waist.

Donald Young, Winslow, Ariz.—The jacket of this dinner suit is of palest chartreuse metal moire, relieved by ties of self material at the neck. The skirt is slim and straight, making a perfect ensemble for theater or concert.

Helen Eldridge, Springfield, Mass.—The straight line of this vibrant red gown is broken at the hips by a swathed band of material which falls in the back in a wide sash. The draping is repeated at the neckline, where it forms a high cowl in front and a deep decolletage in back. The mat texture of the heavy crepe forms an excellent background for jewels.

Arthur F. Jaconelli, White Plains, N. Y.—Jade green velveteen is used for this ultra-modern gown, with a swathed corselette of gleaming gold lame. The note of gold is repeated in the matching purse.

Norman Edwards, New York City—Gleaming satin of soft rose is used for the flared tunic of this evening suit, which is emphasized by heavy rolls of self material worked in an intricate scroll design. The same treatment is seen at the hem of the straight skirt of deep burgundy wool.

Mme. Paule Madoc, New York City—Heavy crepe of delicate beige is used for this dinner dress, which is molded to the figure and swathed at the hips. The back drapery is edged with heavy gold embroidery. The same embroidery combined with colored stones is used on one of the tight fitting sleeves to form a novel bracelet.

Donald Frist, Clinton, Ind.—This dress, meant for gala occasions, is high at the throat and has long sleeves. The heavy black crepe is worked in a scroll design which is relieved by the flesh tone of marquisette.

Eddie M. Capsuto, 1436 S. Christiana av.—Heavy sapphire crepe is used in this gown of simple silhouette. The dress depends on the decoration of bands of delicate embroidery worked by hand in bugle beads of exactly the same shade as the crepe. Long gloves, showing the satin side of the dress material, complete the picture made by the gown.

Helene de Haene, New York City—The ageless charm of a full billowing skirt and the modern appeal of the cutout midriff are combined in this black velvet and tulle dress, which is perfect for dancing.

Alice Orovan, New York City—Layers of tulle make the skirt of this charming dress, the tight fitted bodice of which is made of gold moire. The tiny sleeves are made of flowers of the same material, painstakingly fashioned by hand.

Patricia Sharpe and Leone Avey, both of Los Angeles, Cal.—The back drapery of this black grosgrain gown ushers back memories of bygone days. Very modern is the deep cut back and the sleeveless bodice, which closely molds the figure. The red velvet ribbons on the back of the skirt are repeated in the long gloves.

Mrs. Margaret Wheelock, New York City—Exquisite silk taffeta in two shades of fuchsia gives this gown a touch of old world charm. The bodice is tight fitting and the deep bertha neckline frames pretty shoulders. The wide skirt rustles like echoes of yesterday. Two bunches of shaded violets are the only decoration and are used in a flattering manner. Short taffeta mittens add a picturesque note.

Marjorie Bengtson, Ashland, Kas.—This bridal gown was surely inspired by the art of the middle ages. The serene beauty of the ivory satin is enhanced by the headdress embroidered by hand with countless pearls. The short gloves also are embroidered with pearls.

Veal is the tender meat of very young animals, usually not over 12 weeks of age. It is fine grained and should be light pinkish brown in color. However, veal has practically no fat intermixed with the lean and it has abundant connective tissue—two things which should be taken into consideration when cooking.

The lack of fat in veal causes the meat to be very dry if proper cookery principles are not adhered to. To avoid dryness, especially when roasting, veal often is larded. This is done by inserting strips of fat pork directly into the muscle by means of a larding needle. The lardoons melt as the meat cooks and increase the flavor and juiciness of the meat. If you don't have a larding needle, place or tie strips of salt pork or bacon over the top of the roast.

The following cuts of veal are best when roasted: Crown and rib roasts, standing and rolled rump roasts, blade and arm roasts from the shoulder, as well as the rolled shoulder roast, veal round roast, and veal loaf from the breast.

The veal roast is placed on a rack in a shallow open roasting pan in a pre-heated oven of 300 degrees and cooked at this temperature until the meat thermometer registers 165 to 170 degrees. Without a thermometer, you will have to allow 25 minutes per pound for roasts with the bone in and about 40 to 45 minutes per pound for a rolled boneless roast.

A well cooked veal roast will have a reddish brown, even color on the outside. The interior will be grayish white, and the juice will run out on the platter. Veal never should be cooked until it is crumbly, but should be firm and tender.

Some of the larger cuts of veal are equally good when braised. They are rump roast, blade and arm roasts, and shoulder roasts. Cuts to be braised are first browned in a small amount of fat, then the temperature is reduced to a low point and cooking continued. Because braising increases the tenderness at the expense of the flavor, it is well to use herbs, spices, or vegetables to add flavor and give variety and interest. Some of the seasonings which should be kept in mind when cooking veal are: Onion, salt, celery salt, and poultry seasoning. For your roasts, squeeze a few drops of garlic juice into olive oil and baste occasionally.

The shoulder roasts from veal are good, and are much easier for the carver to handle if boned by the butcher and stuffed by the cook

Anchovy Leg of Veal

6 pounds legs of veal
6 boned anchovies, sliced
1 clove garlic, sliced
Salt and pepper
6 whole cloves
1 medium sized onion, sliced
1 bay leaf
¾ cup water
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup fine bread crumbs
½ cup heavy cream

Trim and wipe leg of veal, make small incisions over surface, and fill with strips of anchovies and garlic. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and stick with cloves; cover with cloth and allow to stand 1 hour. Uncover, place in roasting pan and put onion, bay leaf, water, and ¼ cup butter around meat. Roast, covered, in a 320 degree oven until well done, allowing 25 minutes per pound. Baste occasionally with liquid in pan. Turn meat over, dust with crumbs, and dot with remaining ¼ cup butter. Roast uncovered, about 20 minutes longer, or until crumbs are browned, pouring cream over meat 10 minutes before removing from oven. Remove to hot platter. Strain liquid in pan, thicken if necessary, and serve with meat.

$5 Prize Recipe

Spice Cake

1½ cups cake flour
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup sour cream
½ cup honey
½ cup raisins

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine eggs, sour cream, and honey, and mix well. Gradually add dry ingredients and raisins, stirring until mixed; then beat vigorously 1 minute, or until smooth and creamy. Turn into a greased 8 inch square pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 35 minutes.

Child Will Get Used to Father on His Return

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"How long do you think it will take the baby to get used to me?" wrote a young soldier to his wife, from the Pacific.

At first she and I used to worry about it, thinking it might be too much of a disappointment to his father when he came back if the baby drew away and "acted strange" for some time. But our doubts have been set at rest. For "our" baby who is now 14 months old, is attracted to all men as a magnet; he doesn't respond spontaneously like that to women he hasn't met before.

For instance, the carpenters have been at our house for a number of days making many needed repairs. They and the baby became friends at once.

But it isn't just that their tools and cheerful activities fascinate the baby. He just likes men. For yesterday we took our dog over to the veterinarian and the baby gazed into the doctor's face, then held out his arms to him to be taken up. This sort of thing happens repeatedly.

We don't believe either, that it's memory. Because the baby only was six months old when his father went overseas, and because of long arduous hours at camp, he didn't have much time with his little son during those early months.

No, we've decided that the baby just likes men. He takes to his men relatives readily, while his women relations whom he seldom sees he pays little attention to.

I'm beginning to think that what a friend of mine says is true: "All babies like men—better than women." My guess at the reason? For one thing, a father is a normal part of a child's life. It is partly, too, that men are more of a novelty [] since babies are cared for mostly by women, and also that the vigor and strength of a man and the depth of his voice give babies a secure feeling.

Unless he or she is particularly timid, don't worry about your baby-child getting used to father when he returns from overseas. Just have faith that it will work out all right.

See Milk Price Hike as Result of Union Vote

Milk dealers said they would petition the office of price administration for an increase as a result of an announcement by the milk wagon drivers' union that daily deliveries to homes soon would be resumed. At present deliveries are made every other day.

The decision was made independently of the dealers at a closed union meeting. Every other day deliveries were instituted by the office of defense transportation as a war time measure to conserve gas and tires. The ODT ban expires Nov. 1.

Thomas Gilmore, attorney for the Associated Milk dealers, said the resumption of daily deliveries would boost dealer costs between 1 and 1½ cents a quart.

"Cost increases in handling the milk will force us to ask for an increase," Gilmore said. "Some dairy companies are showing a profit of only one-third of a cent per quart and they cannot absorb an increase in labor costs of a cent or more."

The dealers petitioned the OPA for an increase several months ago when the members of local 753, Milk Wagon Drivers' union [AFL], were granted a $2 a week pay raise and promised a $1 weekly raise next May 1. The petition was turned down.

The drivers voted Wednesday night to resume daily deliveries to stores and hotels on Nov. 1. They left up to the executive board of the union the date for starting daily deliveries to homes. The board expects to reach a decision within two weeks.

Thomas Haggerty, secretary of the union, said he believed the dealers could absorb the increased cost without passing it on to the consumers.

Because of the time required to process a petition to the OPA, dealers indicated it would be three or four months before any increases in the price of milk would become effective, if granted.

Clock Watcher

Ten more minutes—now nine to go
Hope to heaven the clock's not slow!
Eight more minutes—this room is hot—
Seven more now—will he be on the dot?
Fold these letters—it's six minutes to—
Touch up this nail, and I'll be thru.
Is that my phone? Must fix my hair
Five more minutes and he'll be there!
Four—then three—what can be wrong?
Ten minutes couldn't last this long!
Two more minutes—find lipstick and—
What's detaining the clock's big hand?
One minute — guess my collar's white—
Here's five o'clock and my date tonight!

The Minus Sign

A financial service distributing an employment bulletin indicates by a red minus sign the positions for which there is, at present, a lack of employes.

Among the positions calling for applicants are these: Adding machine operators, addressograph operators, bank tellers, bookkeepers, billers, bookkeeping machine operators, comptometer operators, cost clerks, chemical engineers, file clerks, general office clerks, cashiers, insurance claim adjusters [and clerks and underwriters], and investment analysts.

Mail clerks are on the list of "those in demand," as well as junior messengers and office girls, secretaries, statistical typists, stenographers, publicity writers, junior typists, and new office trainees. From the list it is clear there is no dearth of white collar girl jobs.

Film Combines Fantasy, Corn, and Slapstick

"HER HIGHNESS AND THE BELLBOY"

By Mae Tinée

My favorite in this film was a character with a long, pointed nose, not even mentioned in the cast, who sat, quietly inebriated, watching a song and dance team, and said simply, but with feeling, "Ain't that pitiful?" [It was.]

It's very funny when you see it, and a couple of natural laughs like that help to save a film that is otherwise extremely forced and awfully obvious. Robert Walker plays the bell boy, Jimmy, and, despite the fact he looks worn and wrinkled much of the time, he works hard at his role of youthful exuberance and gets away with it for the most part. Rags Ragland plays his stooge, a porter who is very strong from the neck down, who is by way of being a kleptomaniac, but who just loves to have Jimmy read fairy tales to him—his eyes pop when he hears about the lonely princess and the poor, dirty boy who tended her pigs and eventually slew a dragon.

Then there is June Allyson as the little crippled girl whom the two pals cherish and entertain. When Jimmy reads about the dragon, all the people in the rooming house assemble to listen—even a floosie in a tight satin dress with cheap jewelry and a cigaret, the type you usually see posed against a lamp post. Miss Allyson is called upon to be naive and childish but a jolly good sport about everything.

Last but not least, we have the ever-beautiful Hedy Lamarr as a flesh and blood princess who leaves her kingdom in search of an American newspaper man she once loved. She hasn't much to do other than look lovely, which is no problem, and be obtuse about American slang. The man she loves is, to quote Jimmy, a "colyumnist" who keeps his typewriter in the bar of Jake's Joint and pecks out hot copy from there, altho he is a most austere and world-weary gent, from the look of him.

The princess meets Jimmy and finds him fun, the little cripple weeps silently into her pillow, and the porter gets into trouble. The royal entourage calls the bell boy "Jimminy" and asks for "operation" on the phone. Jimmy thinks he's the commoner the princess loves, her royal highness gets arrested—and you can take it from there.

It's a curious mixture of fantasy and corn, with a bit of rather funny slapstick thrown in, but everything is laid on with a shovel, and it's all a long, long time in getting over with.

Wedding

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. John Watson Wilder of Winnetka of the marriage Oct. 20 of their daughter, Miss Nancy Phipps Wilder of the WAVES, to Edward E. Dear Diary BY BECKY

Adrienne Ely, Miss Gardner Brides Today

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE

The weddings today of Miss Adrienne Ely to Capt. William G. Grannis and of Miss Evelyn Gardner to Ensign Warren Carstensen will present something of a dilemma to Chicagoans who are close friends of both families, for the two ceremonies are set for the same hour—4:30 p. m.

Miss Ely and Capt. Grannis will be married in the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest, with a reception following in the Lake Forest home of the bridegroom's father, Uri B. Grannis, and Mrs. Grannis. Mrs. Grannis is the bride's mother.

Miss Ely will wear the white satin wedding gown with sleeves lined in ice blue satin and the long tulle veil in which her sister, the former Caryl Ely, became the bride of Fred W. Fairman Jr. Capt. Grannis' aunts, Miss Erna Given and Mrs. Wallace Cook of New York, are here for the ceremony, as are Mrs. Dustin Grannis and Lt. and Mrs. Uri B. Grannis Jr., who came from Washington, D. C., and the best man, Lt. Lawrence Stockford, and Mrs. Stockford of Kalamazoo, Mich. Capt. Grannis is on terminal leave from the army, and when he and his bride return from a month's wedding trip they will be at home in Lake Forest.

A reception in the Henry A. Gardners' Winnetka home will follow the marriage of their daughter and Ensign Carstensen in the Winnetka Congregational church. Among the out of town guests will be the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans L. Carstensen of Cambridge, Mass., and his brothers, Lt. Comdr. Lawrence Carstensen and Lt. Comdr. Hans L. Carstensen Jr., who will be best man and an usher, respectively.

Miss Gardner will wear the wedding gown in which her sister, Mrs. Frederick Gleim Jr., was married. Ensign Carstensen, who has been on duty at the Glenview naval air station, will take his bride on a 10 day wedding trip.

"Something old" in Miss Aveline Bowman's wedding ensemble when she and Carroll Benton Huntress Jr. are married at 8 o'clock tonight in the Lady chapel of St. Luke's church, Evanston, will be an heirloom handkerchief which belonged to her grandmother and a beaded coronet headdress handed down from her great-grandmother. A reception will follow in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston A. Bowman of Evanston.

The bride will be attended by Miss Virginia Russell as maid of honor and by Mr. Huntress' sister, Mrs. John Palmer, as matron of honor. Mr. Huntress, a son of Mrs. Margery G. Huntress of Evanston, will have his brother, Jack, as best man. Ushering will be another brother, Douglas Huntress; the bride's brother, Robert Bowman, and William Palmer of Parma, Mich. After a wedding trip, Mr. Huntress and his bride will live in Evanston. His father, Mr. Huntress Sr., was unable to come from New York for the wedding.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. Ashley Gerhard of Winnetka announce the marriage Thursday of their daughter, Capt. Dorothy Gerhard of the army nurse corps, and Maj. Edward D. Hagerty of the army medical corps. The ceremony took place in Waverly, Mass. The bride's father is rector of Christ Episcopal church, Winnetka. Maj. Hagerty is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Hagerty of Nashua, N. H.

In a ceremony in New York today in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's church Miss Nancy Orr, daughter of Mrs. Robert C. Orr of New York, formerly of Chicago, will become the bride of Rudolf F. Talbot, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Talbot of Hingham, Mass. A reception in the apartment of the bride's mother will follow the ceremony. The bride's sister, Mrs. Volney W. Foster, will act as matron of honor, and Lt. Foster of the navy will be best man. Mr. Talbot has been discharged from the army air forces, with which he served overseas.

Kitchen Pointers

"Do you allow frozen meats to thaw before cooking?"

Not necessarily. They may be cooked either frozen or thawed. However, if meats are allowed to thaw first, cooking time can be judged more accurately.

"At what stage of ripeness is dill used for pickle making?"

Since the seeds impart the most desirable flavor, the herb should be used only after the seeds have become fully mature but are not so ripe that they fall off.

"Are food colorings injurious to health?"

No. All the food colorings on the market today are obtained from vegetable extracts and dyes which are harmless in the small amounts in which they're used.

"Can buttermilk and sour milk be used interchangeably in a recipe?"

Yes, because the buttermilk we usually buy is made from whole or skimmed milk with a culture added to give it its flavor. Hence the butterfat content of sour and buttermilk is the same.

EINSTEIN URGES WORLD RULE BY 3 MAIN POWERS

Warns of Danger from Atomic Warfare

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26 (AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein said in an interview published in the November Atlantic Monthly today that atomic bombs could kill two-thirds of the people of the earth, but that there always will be enough thinking men left to start again.

He favors a world government set up jointly by the United States, Great Britain, and the soviet union to reduce the peril of war waged with atomic bombs.

If a world government is not set up by agreement, he said, it will come in a more dangerous form, with a war ending in one power dominating the rest of the world.

Warned of Bombs

Einstein spoke thru an interview with a news commentator, Raymond Swing. In a foreword, the magazine recounts that Einstein, discoverer of the theory of relativity, wrote to President Roosevelt in 1939 predicting that uranium soon might be turned into a source of energy that would lead to "extremely powerful bombs."

"The release of atomic energy," said Einstein, "has not created a new problem. It has merely made more urgent the necessity of solving an existing one. As long as there are sovereign nations possessing great power, war is inevitable.

"I do not believe the secret of the bomb should be given to the united nations organization. I do not believe it should be given to the soviet union.

Opposes Give-Away

"Either course would be like the action of a man with capital, who, wishing another man to work with him on some enterprise, should start out by simply giving his prospective partner half of his money. The second man might choose to start a rival enterprise, when what was wanted was his coöperation.

"The secret of the bomb should be committed to a world government. . . . This government should be founded by the United States, soviet union, and Great Britain — the only three powers with great military strength."

After the three powers have adopted a constitution for a world government, the smaller nations should be invited to join, he said.

Einstein would give the world government power over all military matters and authority to intervene in countries where a minority is oppressing a majority. He cited Argentina and Spain as examples.

Barbers Picket Palmer House in Pay Demand

Pickets were patroling the entrances of the Palmer House yesterday after failure of the barbers and manicurists of the Terminal barber shop, in the basement of the hotel, to reach an agreement or their demands for increased wages. The barbers and manicurists had gone out last week with striking elevator operators but could not reach an agreement with officials of the Terminal company and resumed their picketing of the entire hotel yesterday.

EDEN ASSERTS NATIONS DIVIDE DESPITE A-BOMB

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, said today the world is in great danger and the "nations are not joined together" despite the warning of the atomic bomb. He added that no nation, however powerful, ever would be strong enough to dominate Europe, still less the world.

Addressing an audience at Leeds university, Eden asserted:

"A third world war would mean the annihilation of the human race. The terrible nature of that [atomic bomb] warning has failed to produce any healthy consequences. The nations are not joined closely together. Unhappily, the tendency is rather in the reverse direction. The world unquestionably is in very great danger. We need cool, calm, and understanding leadership. If ever the nations begin to throw atomic bombs about, no individual nation's security, however well guarded, is going to avail it very much."

French Estimate Death Toll of War at 300,000

PARIS, Oct. 26—Tentative statistics issued today estimate the French death roll during the war at 300,000, made up of 150,000 soldiers killed, 100,000 civilians dead from acts of war, and 50,000 civilians massacred by the Germans during the occupation. The number of French men and women who died in detention in Germany is estimated at 200,000.

U. S. AND BRITAIN STILL DIVIDED OVER PALESTINE

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—A British foreign office spokesman indicated tonight that complete agreement had not been reached by Great Britain and the United States on Jewish immigration into Palestine, reported discussed by Britain's cabinet today.

President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee have been communicating directly on the problem. The President has asked Attlee to grant 100,000 immigration permits for Jews to Palestine. The British government, in return, has asked concrete American aid in backing such a policy. This is understood to include warships, planes, and troops.

Attlee will state the government's policy on Palestine in commons next week.

1,003 REFUGEE JEWS, LAST UNDER QUOTA, ARRIVE AT PALESTINE

HAIFA, Palestine, Oct. 26 (AP)—The passenger liner Transylvania entered the harbor here today with 1,003 refugees from Europe, the last large group of Jewish immigrants permitted to enter Palestine under the British white paper quota.

[Dispatches from Palestine had reported that police leaves had been canceled in Haifa as authorities increased measures to prevent possible Jewish-Arab disorders.]

KOREAN LEADERS AGREE ON STEPS TO SET UP RULE

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 23 [Delayed] (AP)—Delegates from Korea's many political groups agreed at a conference today to appointment of a central working committee to plan reëstablishment of the provisional government.

Korea has been in political turmoil since its occupation—in the north by Russians and in the south by Americans.

Conference delegates, including communists, promised coöperation to Dr. Syngman Rhee, former provisional president and longtime exile who returned to Korea Oct. 16 at the invitation of the American occupation commander, Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge and apparently with the blessings of the United States state department.

DRIVER, 69, DIES AS CAR CRASHES INTO A TRUCK

Joseph L. Meyer, 69, a decorator, of 3014 N. Racine av., was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he lost control of his car after it hit a highway separation barrier on route 64 in Leyden township north of Maywood and crashed into a truck of the Arthur Dixon Transfer company.

Mrs. Josephine Liegerot, 53, of 4 Mason st., Hammond, Ind., was killed last night when she was struck at Calumet av. and 177th st., Hammond, by an automobile driven by Willi Grieseler, 1176 Sibley st., Hammond. Grieseler's automobile overturned and struck a tree after it hit Mrs. Liegerot. The driver was not injured.

Morris Looney, 35, a Negro, of 3444 State st., died in County hospital of a skull fracture suffered last Saturday in an automobile collision at 33d st. and S. California av. The driver of the other car was Abe Jacobs, 1316 S. Troy st.

CONGRESS PARTY ASKS BETTERING OF INDIA MASSES

BOMBAY, India, Oct. 26 [Reuters]—Development of a free India into a coöperative commonwealth on the lines of the "blueprint" recently outlined here by India Congress Party Leader Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru was envisaged by the India National Congress party today in a 2,000 word manifesto.

The manifesto declared that the most urgent of India's problems was to raise the standard of the masses, and to modernize agriculture and industry.

It described India's objectives after the elections as "to plan and coördinate social advance in all its many fields."

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 26—Undefeated Minnesota, seeking its fifth straight victory, will rely heavily on its expected superiority along the line to offset Ohio State's back field margin in the seventh meeting of the two universities in Memorial stadium tomorrow.

Until Purdue routed the Buckeyes, 35 to 13, last Saturday the Minnesota-Ohio State game looked like the climactic contest of the Big Nine season. No matter what Purdue may have done to the mathematical angle of the encounter, it still holds the top spot with home town fans on the Gophers' schedule. All of the stadium's 55,000 seats have been sold. This in spite of the fact that up-state temperatures were as low as 12 above zero this morning with snow and rain bearing down from Canada.

It's the Toughest for Gophers

Minnesota knows it will be called upon tomorrow to stop the strongest offensive opponent it has engaged this season. There were no running backs with Missouri, Nebraska, Fort Warren, or Northwestern to compare with the Buckeyes' Paul Sarringhaus, Dick Fisher, and Ollie Cline.

Ohio State, on the other hand, will meet a line that may prove the toughest it has encountered. Purdue's first string may be a match for Minnesota's, but Bernie Bierman's talent is three deep. He can make frequent substitutions without weakening the front strip. The return of Judd Ringer and Bob Fitch from service, the transfer of Bob Hanzlik from Wisconsin, and the remarkable development of Larry Olsonoski, a tranfer tackle from Gustavus Adolphus college, have given Minnesota reserve strength it had not expected when summer practice was concluded.

They Have Pitching Now

Minnesota's lack of aerial power was bemoaned by Minneapolis fans until Bierman unveiled Merlin Kispert, Tom Cates, and Vic Kulbitski, who shared pitching honors with Wayne Williams against Northwestern last week. The Gophers scored three of their four touchdowns thru the air. They still lack a good breakaway runner, a ball carrier who can sweep the flanks and get into the open. It will be no surprise if Bierman comes up with a player who will scintillate in that role against the Buckeyes.

Minnesota's fastest back has seen little service this fall, because of a leg injury, but he is ready to run tomorrow. He is Bob Kasper, whose dad did some fancy stepping for Notre Dame 25 years ago.

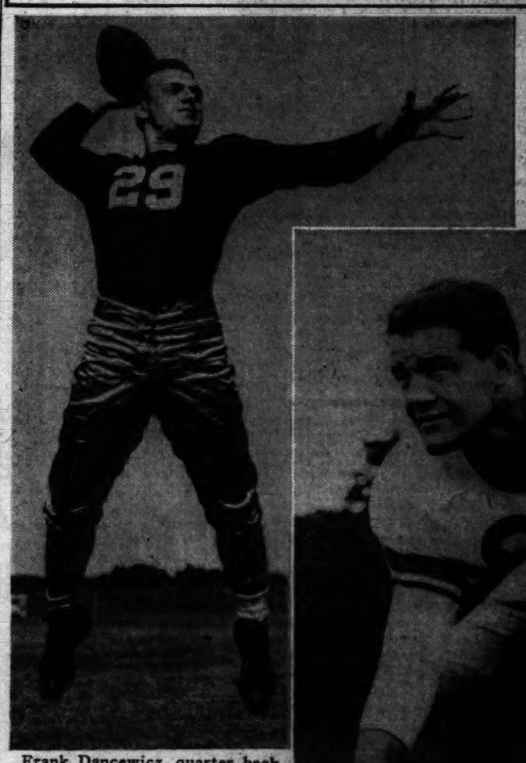
Buckeyes Test Stadium

The Ohio State squad arrived this morning and worked out in the stadium this afternoon. Among their greeters was a man who will be rooting against them for the first time tomorrow. He is James L. Morrill, president of the University of Minnesota, who served for 22 years in executive positions at Ohio State before coming to Minneapolis via Wyoming.

Zion-Benton Turns on New Lights and Wins

Zion-Benton High school turned on the new lights at its football field last night and celebrated the occasion by defeating Belvidere, 14 to 0, in a homecoming game.

THEY'LL BE IN SPOTLIGHT TODAY



Frank Dancewicz, quarter back and forward passing star of Notre Dame's unbeaten football team, which will be host to Iowa today.

Tho the brilliant Purdue backs get more attention, Joe Kodba (below), Boilermaker center, is a mainstay of team which will meet Northwestern in Dyche stadium today. Purdue is unbeaten to date and will be seeking sixth straight victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 26—Everywhere sports writers and broadcasters have been trying to buoy Iowa hopes of beating Notre Dame here tomorrow by repeating over and over that never in history have the Irish beaten the Hawkeyes. Some of these historians turn right around to forecast a Notre Dame victory by 35 or 40 points, but—please remember, they say, Notre Dame never has beaten Iowa and that goes at least until tomorrow afternoon.

A crowd of 45,000 is forecast for tomorrow, weather remaining as brightly crisp as it was today. All of these fans, of course, have not been cajoled into expecting a tremendous upset by the Hawks. Many, no doubt, are wondering if the Irish, with victories over Illinois, Georgia Tech, Dartmouth, and Pitt, have the stuff to beat Navy and Army. There will be many amateur scouts among those 45,000 who have come to build up hopes of Notre Dame success against one or both great service teams.

Figuring Things Out

This is the way things are figured—Notre Dame never has whipped Iowa, tho it has whipped Army and Navy many times. Purest logic in the world says that if Notre Dame beats Iowa by 40 or 50 points tomorrow, certainly it should beat old time victims like Army and Navy.

Of course, there may be some leaks in this line of reasoning. But there has to be some explanation of why 45,000 fun loving sportsmen and sportsgals should assemble to see Notre Dame play Iowa.

Those who think the score will be high here tomorrow put aside the thought that the Irish might choose to conserve their resources against

Veeck Ready to Sell Brewer Club Holdings

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 26 (AP)—William L. Veeck, whose personality and business acumen transformed a decadent Milwaukee Brewer baseball club into a three time pennant winner and a box office bonanza, tonight was negotiating for the sale of his controling interest in the American association club to Oscar Salenger, a Chicago attorney.

Veeck, who was chosen in 1942 as the outstanding minor league executive, said he was motivated by concern for his wife's health. Discharged from the marines only recently after a tour of duty in the Southwest Pacific, Veeck said he had decided to go with her to Arizona.

Veeck Can Return

Salenger said efforts were being made to "work out a deal so Bill can purchase 50 per cent of my interest at any time."

"I'd like to have him back when Mrs. Veeck's health will permit," Salenger added. "He's a tremendous asset to the club as his record proves."

Veeck pointed out that the other seven clubs in the association would have to certify the transfer. Neither Veeck nor Salenger would comment on the report that Salenger had offered in excess of $175,000 for a majority interest in the club.

Report Hornsby Signed

Veeck, son of the late William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, took over the Milwaukee club in 1941 in partnership with Charley Grimm, present manager of the Cubs. The Brewers led the association in attendance in 1942-'43-'44, and won successive league championships in 1943-'44-'45. Grimm returned to the Cubs as manager in 1944 and sold his interest in the Brewers to Veeck.

Nick Cullop, who managed the 1945 pennant winner, was signed to a 1946 contract recently. It was reported Rogers Hornsby has been named general manager for 1946.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 26—Indiana university's unbeaten but once tied eleven, boasting one of the fastest sets of backs in the midwest, has an interesting problem to solve tomorrow in Memorial stadium. It will face the University of Tulsa's unbeaten, high scoring, and powerful defensive squad which will be playing its first game against a Big Nine opponent.

Coach Henry Frnka of the Hurricane machine is extremely pessimistic for the leader of an outfit which whipped Georgia Tech in the Orange bowl last New Year's day and so far this season has piled up 170 points against 7 in five games. "No one knows what will happen tomorrow. There are no comparisons to go on and I'm afraid we'll have to go into the game the underdogs—say about two touchdowns. It really should be more than that," says Henry.

Bo's in Usual Form

Coach Bo McMillin, too, can't understand how the Hoosiers are going to have any luck. He points to a Tulsa line, which averages some 219 pounds as compared with Indiana's 202 average. However, McMillin has been in that mood for many years and, before each of his four victories so far this season—over Michigan, Illinois, Nebraska, and Iowa—he wasn't quite sure he had a football team. Northwestern was the only eleven which proved he had some reason for his customary attitude, for the Wildcats earned a 7 to 7 deadlock.

Wilson Leads Attack

Frnka brought to town today a squad of 36 men headed by Full Back Camp Wilson, 200 pound senior and All-American candidate, around whom the Tulsa running attack is built.

The Tulsa coach spent most of the week working on defenses he hopes will slow down Ben Raimondi, George Taliaferro, Mel Groomes, and Pete Pihos.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

Purdue's Boilermakers, the boys with the touchdown mania, will roll onto the Dyche stadium grass at 2 o'clock this afternoon, fully determined to give another exhibition of their Big Nine title intentions.

Unbeaten, in fact not even pressed in their five previous games this season, the Boilermakers to make additional progress will have to step around, over or under Northwestern's Wildcats who thus far in the campaign have shown a definite fear of trespassing on the other fellow's gridiron lawn.

It will be the 28th chapter in an argument that started way back in 1895 and at the moment is made up of 14 victories for Purdue and 12 for the Wildcats who have succumbed in the last three of the series. One of the games was a tie.

They Have Everything

The Boilermakers will unveil themselves before a homecoming crowd of about 35,000 as an eleven that knows all the tricks, proof of which was that 35 to 13 lathering handed to Ohio State a week ago.

The Boilermakers aren't just a running team or a passing team. They're both and the two fellows who take care of most of this are Bill Canfield, half back, and Ed Cody who prefers full backing but isn't particular. Jack Rabbit Canfield, in addition to running, does most of the business on the receiving end of passes pitched by Freshman Bob De Moss, the quarter back.

Wildcats Lack Reserves

The Wildcats will have to feel their way, limited as they are in the matter of experience and none too bountifully supplied with replacements.

So far as is known at present the Wildcats have at least two youths who might give today's guests a few snappy moments and Coach Lynn Waldorf thinks he might uncover a third during the afternoon's football social. He has planted Bob McKinley in the left half starting role, the youngster having given indication that he might be able to do some of the running that will be greatly needed. McKinley, who will replace Bruce Bairstow, hails from College Springs, Ia.

The two proven Wildcats backs are Dick Conners, who has a total of 308 yards to his credit, and Jim Farrar, freshman quarter, who is expected to put on a show against De Moss, the Boilermaker passer. Farrar has completed 10 of 27 passes.

Five Thousand at Pep Session

More than 5,000 homecoming celebrants attended last night's pep session which was featured by a huge pre-war style bonfire on Long field in Evanston. The highlight was the burning in effigy of a Boilermaker.

Fifty-two floats, prepared by members of fraternities, sororities, and campus clubs, featured the parade which traversed the main business section on its way to the field. Two of the floats caught fire from torches but there was no serious damage.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 26—The National Football league's concern about the advent of the All-America conference into a field thus far monopolized by the older organization follows the pattern of college football. . . . There was a time when top flight football was restricted more or less to Harvard, Yale, and Princeton. . . . Their triangular playoff held the attention of the nation. . . . Soon, however, several of the larger eastern universities began to build outstanding teams and eventually came the group still known as the Ivy league. . . . The development of the sport at Cornell, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, and Columbia did not kill football at Yale, Harvard, and Princeton. . . . The decline came from administration policies, not from competition encountered outside the Big Three. . . . Football was too great a sport to be confined to a few eastern universities and around the turn of the century it began to flourish in the middle west, notably at Michigan, Chicago, and Notre Dame. . . . Fielding H. Yost and A. A. Stagg steadily established themselves among the nation's most resourceful coaches.

The Western conference was organized and football in the middle west was here to stay. . . . This section was outstripping the east when the nation first went to war to save the world for democracy. . . . Immediately after the war the middle west enjoyed a gridiron boom, the like of which the country never had known. . . . Some of the great coaches of all time belonged to this area—Knute Rockne, Bob Zuppke, Howard Jones, Doc Williams, Yost, and Stagg. . . . They developed the Four Horsemen, Red Grange, Benny Friedman, Aubrey Devine, Fritz Crisler, Earl Martineau, and others whose names will live in gridiron lore. . . . The swing to the middle west did not destroy or curb the popularity of football in the east. . . . Thousands of young men still were reporting for university and college teams and tens of thousands of spectators were crowding into the Yale bowl and other huge plants. . . . Meanwhile, the sport was coming along steadily in the south and on the Pacific coast. . . . Prominent coaches from the east and middle west moved into greener territory and soon came regularly scheduled intersectional contests.

Football at last was truly a national game. . . . If football was good for Harvard, Yale, and Princeton, it was good for California, Texas, and Indiana. . . . As soon as the benefits of football became apparent it was impossible to limit the sport to a few eastern schools. . . . It similarly was inevitable that men would want to play the game after the completion of their collegiate careers. . . . Many were quitting the sport when they were at their physical peak, so professional football came into existence. . . . Colleges abhorred the trend. . . . They maligned promoters and looked down upon competitors. . . . They placed every possible obstacle in the path of the pro game's growth. . . . But postgraduate football, due largely to the perseverance and vision of men like George Halas of the Chicago Bears and Curly Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers, gained in popularity and today is recognized as a valuable addition to the nation's sporting calendar. . . . The rise of the National Football league has not retarded the undergraduate game. . . . College boys are turning out in ever increasing numbers and attendance is at an all-time high.

The National Football league now is alarmed about the organization of a strong competitor, the All-America conference. . . . Some of the owners feel there isn't room for two play-for-cash circuits. . . . They are as wrong as were the people who 50 years ago thought they could limit college football to a few eastern universities. . . . Both leagues will succeed if they present honest, high class entertainment. . . . If they fail it will not be because of a lack of interest in the sport. . . . It will be due to the stupidity of a few who were unwilling to accept the inevitable. . . . They can destroy each other by cut-throat competition.

Tolerance

It is a bleak and austere kind of word
Carved from the block of cold ambiguity.
The tone is gentle, really hardly heard,
And yet the import beats destructively
Against the ear of sensitives who seek Warm cadences the heart may freely give.
Not tossed from some remote Olympian peak,
That marks its worth as vainly fugitive:
Even as one who asks, yet turns aside
Calling his hearthstone bright, his doorway wide.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 26—Michigan's football men arrived this afternoon, drilled briefly on the Memorial stadium gridiron, and then retired with undiminished ambition to whip Illinois here tomorrow in the 35th homecoming game sponsored by the Illini. Michigan's record, despite a loss to Indiana, has been largely instrumental in the deluge of ticket requests in the last 24 hours. Sixty thousand are expected to watch the game.

Illinois' reputation as a defensive eleven, even when offense fails, has not been tarnished in the last two decades. Illinois is not the choice to win from Michigan. In fact, Michigan should take this battle and no one should be surprised if the Wolverines finish 1945 in a tie for the Western conference title, but Illinois cannot be pushed over easily.

The Illini Always Fight

In all its games this season, despite a series of personnel losses which should discourage any team, Illinois has shown the tenacious defense, characteristic of elevens produced at the state university.

Michigan will give the heavy, but active, Illinois line a real test. Capt. Joe Ponsetto, who directs the Wolverine attack from his quarter back position, is the type of field general who can spot any defensive weakness of the opposition.

With Dan Dworsky or Jack Weisenburger plunging from the full back spot, and the deception embodied in the running of Walt Teninga, Bob Nussbaumer, Henry Fonde, or Pete Elliott, Ponsetto directs an attack which gave Army many anxious moments two weeks ago.

Don't Forget Robinson

Another potent Wolverine factor is the passing of Ponsetto or that of Don Robinson. While Robinson's return to Michigan was not announced until yesterday, Illinois not only knew he was preparing for a comeback to conference competition, but his name and number will be found in the program prepared by Charles [Chuck] Flynn for sale tomorrow. Robinson's value may be discounted, however, for he was a substitute in his last season at Michigan.

Tomorrow is victory homecoming day for the Illini and the setting is as colorful as the arboreal beauty of Champaign on crisp fall days. For the first time since 1942, fraternity and sorority houses are decorated and a crowd of 3,000 students, and alumni jammed the quadrangle tonight for a pep rally at which the Illini football squad was introduced.

RAIN DAMPENS PENN CHANCES TO BEAT NAVY

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—Penn's apparently meager chances for victory over Navy in their football game here tomorrow appeared to be further reduced today as a heavy rain, which continued on into the night, drenched Franklin field. Brisk weather is predicted for tomorrow, but indications are the field will be muddy. Penn has fast backs and had hoped for a dry turf.

Assistant Coaches Rae Crowthers and Paul Riblett are to direct the Penn team. Head Coach George Munger has been ailing for a week with a heavy cold. In the event he is unable to attend the game, even as a spectator, he'll see his charges in action via television in his hospital room.

VICTORIES KEEP HARRISON AND AUSTIN IN LEAD

BY DAVID CONDON

Austin High school, co-champion of the City league, and its traditional rival, Harrison Tech, which battled the Austin eleven to a 6 to 6 tie last week, each scored a victory yesterday to remain tied for the west section lead.

Left Half Back Rocco Mavigliano moved Austin off to a good start in its 18 to 0 triumph over Foreman in Hanson park when he ran around end for 20 yards and a touchdown early in the first quarter. Later in the period Tony Cammilo scored on a short plunge. The last touchdown came shortly before half time when Bruce Morrice broke thru tackle and sprinted 71 yards. The second half was scoreless.

Golden, Brosky Score

Harrison defeated Crane, 14 to 0, in Key Branch stadium. In the second quarter Jack Golden scored from the 6 yard line, and added the point to give the Hornets a 7 to 0 lead. Alf Brosky went around end on a 36 yard jaunt in the fourth quarter for another touchdown and Nunzio Mugavero kicked the point.

Crane twice threatened to score, but was held for downs on the Harrison 1 yard line, and later on the 8.

Gage Park swamped Kelly last night, 43 to 0, in a central section game at Shewbridge field. Ray Stanek and Rudy Amrik each scored two touchdowns. It was the third victory for Gage in five games.

South Shore Wins Thriller

A touchdown in the last minute of play, when Bernie Citron passed 35 yards to Joe Hoffman, who continued 40 more to cross the goal, enabled South Shore to defeat Bowen, 19 to 13, in a south section game in 83d-Yates av. stadium. South Shore held a 12 to 6 lead at half time after Jerry Ganey had run 21 yards for a touchdown in the first quarter and added a second on a 15 yard trip around left end in the second.

Bowen's first touchdown came in the second period when Irv Festin ran 25 yards after taking Ed Salata's 20 yard pass. In the fourth period Bowen tied the score as Salata took a short pass from Bob Sadzak and ran four yards to score. Bowen took a 13 to 12 lead as Sam Vzelac ran over for the point, but this held up only until the Tars started their passing attack.

Tomatoes for Police

Following the game several Bowen boosters unlimbered their throwing arms and tossed tomatoes at police who attempted to persuade them to leave the stadium. Only one toss connected, a short throw that splattered Policeman Mark Maystrovich. Six youths taken into custody later were released.

In a second south section meeting, in Shewbridge field, Harper beat Chicago Vocational, 12 to 0, altho Vocational twice lost the ball deep in Harper territory. Art Barrett and Jerry Kasley scored the Harper touchdowns. Lineup:

HAWKS TO HELP MONTREAL OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

Pro Hockey

GAMES TONIGHT
NATIONAL LEAGUE
Chicago at Montreal Canadiens.
Boston at Toronto Maple Leafs.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 26 [Special]—Montreal's Canadiens, who won the last two National Hockey league titles, will open their season tomorrow night against the strengthened Chicago Blackhawks.

According to hockey experts, who have watched the Canadiens' preparations in practice sessions and intra-squad games, the Flying Frenchmen have lost none of the speed and color which carried them to two pennants, one Stanley cup, and a dozen team and individual records the last two seasons.

Doug, Max Bentley Return

The Blackhawks, with the return of Doug and Max Bentley, who are teamed with Willie Mosienko, may furnish enough speed and determination to offset the goal-scoring rushes of the Richard-Lach-Blake line. The Hawks' second string of Hamill, Grosso, and Horeck appears as strong or stronger than the Canadiens' new line of Buddie O'Connor, Joe Benoit, and Dutch Hiller.

Two years have shown that Bill Durnan of Montreal is one of the ablest goalies the game has ever known, and experts link his name with Charlie Gardiner, George Hainsworth, and Georges Vezina. The Hawks are experimenting with Doug Stevenson, a comparative newcomer to major league goal tending.

Can Hawks Hold 'Em?

The Hawks' defensemen—George Allen, Eddie Wares, John Mariucci, and Joe Cooper—have yet to prove they can thwart the rushes of big time opposition effectively enough to hold scoring to a low level. Dick Irvin's rear guard has already proven its worth. Butch Bouchard was selected as one of the league's best defense men last season. Leo Lamoureaux, Glenn Harmon, and Frankie Eddolls round out the remainder of the Canadiens' defense.

BLUEJACKETS TO FACE BRONCOS' PASSING ATTACK

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 26 [Special]—Western Michigan college, seeking its first victory over Great Lakes in the third contest of its war time series, will have two changes in the line against the Bluejackets tomorrow, and concentration on passing this week has made it evident that the Broncos will play a wide open game.

Tom Hill of Detroit will take over the left guard position made vacant by Carl Cornelius, V-12 trainee, on leave at his home in Kearney, Neb. John Skoubes, Kalamazoo trainee, may not be able to play and Robert Boston will be the starter at that position. Lineups:

LINDHEIMER IS NOT INTERESTED IN HAWTHORNE

Benjamin F. Lindheimer, executive director of the Arlington and Washington Park race tracks, emphatically denied yesterday upon his return from Los Angeles, Cal., that he has any interest in the future management of the Hawthorne track, control of which will revert to owners of the property next Wednesday.

The Chicago Business Men's Racing association, of which Charles Bidwill is chairman of the board and Charles Krutckoff is president, was notified recently that its lease would not be renewed by the Thomas Carey estate. The heirs of the late millionaire brick manufacturer and Chicago politician number eight and are represented by a son, Robert Carey, a Chicago lawyer.

Carey says the estate intends to ask the Illinois racing board for 1946 dates. Clement Nance, secretary of the board, yesterday said in the absence of Chairman Ednyfed H. Williams that no applications have been received. The closing date for date applications is next Wednesday.

Bidwill and Krutckoff, who have made Hawthorne one of the most successful racing enterprises in the country, say they are just awaiting developments.

MEET TODAY ON ONE DAY PREP TITLE TOURNEY

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 26—[Special]—The board of control of the Illinois High School association will meet here tomorrow to discuss terms and conditions for the 1946 state basketball tournament and consider a recommendation that the meet be cut to a four-team, one day event. The recommendation was made early this month by the Illinois Principals' association.

It appears that three courses of action are open to the board. It can approve the recommendation for a one day meet; it may disapprove and continue to hold the three day 16 team meeting, or it can defer action until all members of the I. H. S. A. have voiced opinions.

BEARS BUY NEW CENTER; AT PEAK FOR LIONS GAME

BY EDWARD PRELL

The upturn of the Chicago Bears' fortunes continued yesterday when they fitted Rudy Mucha for a uniform. Mucha, a Chicagoan who was an All-American center at the University of Washington in 1940, was obtained on waivers from the unbeaten Cleveland Rams.

Rudy, who recently ended three and a half years' service in the navy, will pair up tomorrow with Pvt. Bulldog Turner at center in the Bears' game in Detroit against the Lions. Inasmuch as this will be Turner's only Bear appearance of the season, Mucha may be the regular at center for the team's remaining games.

Ready for Best Game of 1945

"With the squad we've got right now, including Turner, of course," said Co-Coach Hunk Anderson after yesterday's drill, "we'd be tough for any team in the league."

Anderson and his colleague, Luke Johnsos, agreed that the Bears, for the first time in 1945, are a solid team, ready to play their best game of the season. The Lions are 7-point favorites, but the Bears are confident they will break their four game losing streak tomorrow.

Other reasons for optimism are Edgar [Special Delivery] Jones, who will carry the mail at full back; Jim Daniell, former Ohio State All-American tackle, who will start on the left side of the line; the return to action of the two starting guards, Ed Sprinkle and George Zorich, and a marked improvement in the condition of Capt. George Wilson's knee, which has sidelined him virtually all season.

Three Players Released

The Bears felt so confident of being in an improved position that they cut loose three players—Quarter Back Johnny Long, Full Back Joe Vodica, and Guard Milt Vucinich.

Mucha was the Rams' No. 1 choice in the 1940 draft of college players. In 1941 they used him as a blocking back. The next season, Rudy played with the Great Lakes eleven. He arrived in Hawaii on V-J day to participate in a navy football program, but the end of the war brought him his discharge.

The Bears will leave at 1 p.m. today for Detroit, remain there overnight and return Monday morning by day coach.

Cardinals Meet Packers

The Cardinals, whom the football betting cards are spotting 21 points, will leave today for Green Bay for tomorrow's contest with the Packers. The Packers have won 15 straight from the Cardinals since losing to them in the first of two games in 1937, 14 to 7. In 1938 the Cards came close, losing 24 to 22. In 1941 the Packers skimmed thru with a 14 to 13 triumph, and in 1942 were held to a 17 to 13 score.

Tomorrow's game is the only one scheduled this season between the old rivals.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 26—Sure, there will be some great feudin' going on tomorrow on central states gridirons, what with the Minnesota-Ohio State, Michigan-Illinois, and Purdue-Northwestern doings, but Michigan State's tidy Macklin field will be the stage for a mighty fine vendetta of its own, when the local Spartans tackle Marquette's Hilltoppers.

They are no strangers, these two, having begun wrangling 'way back there in 1909, when State started the series with a 10 to 0 victory on its home grounds. Since then, they have argued it out on 13 other occasions in one of the midwest's most spirited rivalries. The Hilltoppers have won six of the 14 contests.

Can Expect Close Ones

The battles for the Little Brown Jug, the Old Oaken Bucket and other traditional football trophies have endured for years, but usually one team or the other has been able to pull ahead by a comfortable margin. Not so with this Michigan State-Marquette debate. Throw out the last time the two met, which was in 1942, when the Hilltoppers won by 28 to 7, Skip the Spartans' 21 to 7 triumph in 1937. Then consider that all of the other games have been decided by a touchdown advantage or less, and you realize this is the sort of ball game from which you may expect anything.

Coach Tom Stidham of Marquette moved into town late this afternoon in time to direct a workout by a squad which has lost four of the five games it has played thus far this season. The local citizenry, led by Coach Charley Bachman of the Spartans, refuses to take a rocking-chair attitude toward this record. It has been noted that Marquette has given as good as it has taken, scoring 108 points to its opponents' 110.

They Scared Purdue

The Hilltoppers, you may remember, are the boys who scared the daylights out of that great Purdue team, coming from behind to just miss a tie with the Boilermakers, who won, 14 to 13. They restrained Villanova to a touchdown, then had a 55 to 13 holiday against Kansas State before yielding a 37 to 27 tussle to Great Lakes last Saturday.

Marquette will be handicapped by a number of injuries incurred in the Great Lakes encounter and by facing a Spartan team which will have an overall weight advantage of 7 pounds to the man.

Ghosts of 3 Iowa Upsets Haunt Irish

the rigors of the Navy game, which will be played in Cleveland next Saturday. The high score boys say the game tomorrow has to go 60 minutes and it is not conceivable that Coach Hugh Devore will hint to his boys it would be polite, or kind, to run in the wrong direction.

Recall Earlier Upsets

At the same time there are those who remember those earlier upsets of Notre Dame optimism. All of Iowa's three victories have been over highly favored Irish teams. For instance, in 1939 the Irish had won six straight going into the Hawk encounter, but got knocked off, 7 to 6. Next year's team also had won six straight before being humbled by the Hawks, 7 to 0.

Navy day will be celebrated between halves tomorrow, perhaps as a stirring patriotic warm up for the ceremonies which will attend the Navy-Notre Dame game.

Vice Adm. Frederick C. Sherman, U. S. N., who commanded the first carrier task force of the Pacific fleet, will speak. The United States navy midshipmen's school band will play while a complement of midshipmen at Notre Dame will be reviewed by Adm. Sherman and other officers.

STEEL SPRING COMPANY BIDS FOR PULLMAN

Arrange Financing Thru Chicago Bank

Standard Steel Spring company, Coraopolis, Pa., yesterday disclosed it had offered to purchase all the capital stock of Pullman company, sleeping car subsidiary of Pullman, Inc., after transfer of modern lightweight sleeping and parlor cars on which the railroads hold purchase options. These cars are valued at approximiately 35 million dollars.

Financing of the proposed acquisition of the remaining assets, valued at 40 millions, has been arranged thru the First National Bank of Chicago and a group of associated banks. They would make loans of 37½ millions to mature serially in one to 10 years.

Standard Steel Spring, automotive parts manufacturer, would supply the remaining 2½ millions required. It is one of a group of companies headed by Willard F. Rockwell of Pittsburgh.

Differs from Previous Bids

This offer differed from two previous bids which contemplated acquisition of approximately all Pullman company assets. Eliminating the lightweight cars, Standard Steel would acquire 6,200 heavyweight sleeping cars, including more than 2,000 tourist cars, and 10 laundries and six repair shops—together with their inventories and supplies.

Robert C. Enos, Standard Steel Spring president, said Pullman headquarters would remain in Chicago and executive offices of Standard probably would be moved to Chicago if the transaction is completed. Pullman would be made a wholly owned subsidiary.

Sale of the sleeping car business by next March is required under a ruling of the federal District court in Philadelphia which held Pullman, Inc., was in violation of anti-trust laws in operating this business while engaged in the manufacture of railroad cars. Pullman, Inc., chose to retain Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company.

Hearing Called for Nov. 5

The court, to which the purchase offers have been submitted, will not choose the purchaser, but must approve any sale plan adopted. It has set Nov. 5 as date for a hearing on "all offers."

Pullman, Inc., would realize approximately 75 millions thru the various transactions contemplated by Standard Steel Spring. It would have received approximately 35 million dollars as proceeds from sale of the lightweight equipment.

Before Standard Steel could acquire the Pullman company stock, Pullman, Inc., also would have received the proceeds of the 37½ million bank loan plus 2½ millions in cash from Standard Steel. Participating with First National would be the Bankers Trust Company of New York, the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, and the National Bank of Detroit. It also expected that other banks having dealt with Standard Steel Spring would participate.

Fourth Bid Is Expected

The railroads of the country are expected to submit a fourth offer to the court. Whether this would be for the entire sleeping car company's assets or only for its modern equipment on which they have an option was not known.

Robert R. Young, chairman of Alleghany corporation, and his railroad group were associated with Otis & Co., Cleveland investment banking house, in offering 75 million for the Pullman business, planning large expenditures for new equipment.

Glore, Forgan & Co., Chicago, heads an underwriting syndicate which offered a price equal to the excess of the value of assets over

All American Bus Acquires Eastern Line

All American Bus Lines has contracted to purchase all the stock in Eastern Trails, independent bus system which operates from New York to Washington via Philadelphia and Baltimore, a spokesman for All American disclosed yesterday. Acquisition of the link by the Chicago system awaits approval of the interstate commerce commission.

Merger of Northern Trails into All American last December gave All American an option, subject to ICC approval, to purchase all Eastern Trails stock. The option originally was purchased by Northern for $20,000.

Fix Price at $97,600

Present holder of all Eastern Trails stock is Aaron E. Greenleaf, for many years an independent bus operator. He has contracted with All American to sell his holdings for $97,600. On ICC approval, Eastern Trails will be merged into All American.

All American was purchased by a Chicago syndicate last January. The group, including two Chicago investment houses, was said to comprise individuals closely identified with the bus transportation industry and others hoping to benefit from an expected large expansion in bus operations.

Burlington Sale Pending

Last August All American applied to ICC for permission to purchase controling interest in Burlington Transportation company, wholly owned bus operating subsidiary of the Burlington railroad. Acquisition of a 51 per cent interest for 1½ million dollars awaits ICC approval.

All American operates buses east from Chicago and St. Louis to New York and other eastern cities and from Chicago to Los Angeles and San Francisco thru southwestern states.

ICC POSTPONES EFFECTIVE DATE OF RATE DECREE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today postponed from Nov. 30 to Jan. 1, 1946, the temporary frate rates adjustment ordered in its May 15 rate decision.

The commission said some railroads "have encountered mechanical difficulties beyond their control" in connection with printing of the tariffs required to be filed by the order and that such railroads "will not be able to file their tariffs so as to make them effective on the date specified."

The order called for a decrease of class rates by 10 per cent in the south and west and an increase of 10 per cent in official territory, which includes the northeastern states.

DEALERS DISPLAY '46 BUICKS IN 26 COOK COUNTY SHOWROOMS

New Buick automobiles were delivered to 26 dealers in Cook county yesterday. Showings also were held in Detroit and New York. Dealers elsewhere will be supplied as fast as cars are available. Buick expects to produce 10,000 cars during November and 14,600 during December, unless labor difficulties intervene, company spokesmen said.

The only model in production is the Super 51 four door sedan, which is similar to the 1942 models, but with continuous streamlining from front to rear, and several mechanical and engineering improvements. Other models will be put into production when volume output is attained.

Buick does not contemplate expansion of its dealerships in Chicago, spokesmen said. The number will remain the same, with replacements for the few who dropped out during the war. New cars will be only for display until ceiling prices are approved by the office of price administration.

BELDEN'S NEW ORDERS OFFSET TERMINATIONS

Profit Rises on End of Special Reserve

New orders received by the Belden Manufacturing company since V-J day have more than offset war contract terminations and cancellations totaling $1,700,000, Whipple Jacobs, president, said yesterday. The backlog of unfilled orders is larger than at any time this year.

Third quarter shipments were the smallest in any quarter since 1942 because of the V-J day shutdown and time required to change over to producing civilian items. With output increasing steadily, Jacobs predicted larger sales and profits in the last quarter of the year than in the third.

No Contingency Deduction

Net income in the nine months ended Sept. 30 rose to $317,152 from $301,569, and share earnings to $1.19 from $1.05. Earnings in the 1944 period, however, were after a $46,380 provision for contingencies. No provision was made this year. Sales decreased to $8,208,718 from $8,309,724.

Douglas Aircraft company estimated its net profit in the nine months ended Aug. 31 was $4,921,000, or $8.20 a common share, after providing $16,745,000 for taxes and $1,546,000 for contingencies. No comparison with year ago figures was available.

Progress Is Satisfactory

The company is progressing satisfactorily on contract terminations and should enter its new fiscal year Dec. 1 with a backlog of 266 million dollars of military and commercial orders, the report said.

American Steel Foundries net profit more than doubled in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, rising to $6,240,034, or $5.25 a share, from $2,675,383, or $2.25 a share, in the preceding year. The increase was caused partly by inclusion as a deduction in prior years' amortization of emergency facilities in excess of the amounts then deductible for tax purposes, the company said.

GRAINS EXTEND ADVANCE; OATS TRADE IS ACTIVE

Grain futures prices yesterday extended the advance that started early in the week. May rye sold at a new seasonal peak of $1.53⅞ a bushel, and December rye came within ⅛ cent of the old high. Altho prices retreated for a time after Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.], chairman of the house rules committee, announced he would oppose the Pace price parity bill, closing trades were near the top. Net gains on wheat were ⅛ to ⅝ cent. Corn was ⅛ to 1⅛ higher with December at the futures ceiling price.

An active trade developed in oats with the close ⅝ to ¾ higher. Rye gained ¼ to 1¾ and barley was unchanged to 1⅝ higher.

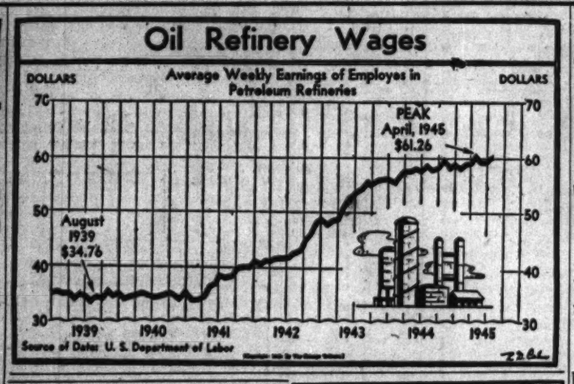
Atlas Corp. Votes to Call 100,000 Preferred Shares

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—Directors of Atlas corporation voted today to redeem 100,000 shares of preferred stock at $55 a share plus accrued dividends. Floyd B. Odlum, president, said "eventual elimination of all preferred stock" was expected. The present redemption will leave 243,711 shares outstanding.



Field Acquires Warehouse of Grocery Firm

BY AL CHASE

Marshall Field & Co. yesterday purchased for $750,000 the six story warehouse covering the block bounded by Washtenaw av., Taylor, and Arthington sts., and the Chicago and North Western railway. J. H. Van Vlissingen & Co. was broker. The building contains 630,000 square feet of floor space. The seller was the Consolidated Grocers corporation, formerly Sprague Warner-Kenny corporation, of which Nathan Cummings is president.

Field will not take possession of the property, once known as the Heywood-Wakefield building, until July 1, 1947. It then will consolidate its five warhouses and workroom operations at that location, said Hughston M. McBain, president.

New Warehouse Planned

During the 20 month interval Consolidated Grocers will select a location and build "the most efficient wholesale grocery warehouse in the world," said Cummings. It will be streamlined and correct "several mistakes in layout" discovered by the old Sprague, Warner & Co., after it erected its $1,500,000 plant at 461-607 N. Sacramento blvd. in 1940.

The new plant will be of one story and contain about 500,000 square feet. Cummings said he hoped it could be built for less than 2 million dollars. Several sites are under consideration.

Profit Made on Both Sales

Cummings said his company made a profit on sales of both warehouses. It sold the Sacramento blvd. building to the Defense Plant corporation in 1942 for $1,850,000. The building sold to Field was acquired at that time for $440,000.

The Sacramento blvd. unit was leased late in 1942 by the DPC to Bendix Aviation corporation which operated the world's largest aircraft carburetor plant there during the war.

Cummings said he understood the plant would be declared surplus by the government, but that Consolidated was not interested in acquiring it, nor did Bendix wish to continue a tenant.

SUPPLY OF HOGS RISES, PRICES AT CEILING LEVELS

The movement of 1945 spring pigs to market, which reached larger volume this week, lifted yesterday's receipts in Chicago to 10,000 head, the biggest Friday total in four months.

Ceiling prices were paid for nearly all stock, the $14.85 a hundred pounds top for almost all barrows and gilts and the $14.10 limit for all packing sows and stags.

Cattle receipts of 3,500 were the third largest for a Friday since last January, but were below trade needs. Prices were steady.

Receipts of sheep and lambs totaled 3,000. Prices were steady.

People and Events

The Commonwealth Edison group of companies yesterday announced the appointment of Milburn L. Forth as industrial economist in charge of research activities of the recently created territorial information department. Forth for three years has been a WPB economist in Washington, D. C., and prior to that was economist for the industrial division of the national resources planning board. He is a native of Evanston.

Milburn L. Forth

Dr. Donald Babcock Keyes, director of the WPB office of production, research, and development, and head of the University of Illinois chemical engineering division, last night received the 1945 honor scroll of the American Institute of Chemists at a dinner in Huyler's restaurant. Among those who paid tribute to Keyes were Dr. Gustav Egloff, president of the institute; Dr. Albert L. Elder, director of research for Corn Products Refining company, and Lawrence Brown, assistant director of the WPB chemicals bureau.

Lt. Col. John W. Fraser, director of procurement in the Chicago quartermaster depot, is returning to civilian life after 3½ years at the depot. Before the war he was national canned meat buyer for the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company. He is a graduate of West Point and served as a major during World War I. Col. Fraser has not announced his plans.

Lt. Col. John W. Fraser

Packaging for air cargo shipments will be discussed by the Packaging Engineers Association of America Monday in the Hotel Sherman. Representatives of United Air Lines and Pan American Airways will speak.

Warren Lee Pierson, president of the American Cable and Radio corporation and former president of the Export-Import bank, was elected a director of Transcontinental and Western Air.

United Air Lines Will Add Three Round Trip Flights

United Air Lines will add two Chicago-Cleveland-New York round trips and a fourth daily round trip to Seattle and the Pacific northwest on Nov. 1, M. W. Stevenson, district traffic manager, said yesterday. The new service east will increase to 14 the number of United's round trips between Chicago and New York, including three all-cargo flights.

STOCK MARKET RISES AGAIN AS VOLUME GAINS

Labor, Tax Outlook Aid Advance

MARKETS CLOSED

Major securities exchanges and many commodities markets will be closed today in observance of Navy day. The Chicago Board of Trade, Chicago Mercantile exchange, live stock markets, and banks will be open.

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—The stock market advanced again today behind selected steels, utilities, rails, and specialties, but light selling depressed several leaders.

Altho many customers held aloof or trimmed accounts because of tomorrow's Navy day holiday, idle cash again sought income and individual issues were benefitted accordingly.

The trend was lower after the start but hardened in the final hour. Turnover was 1,300,000 shares against 1,230,000 yesterday.

Stock Average Is Higher

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.5 point at 72.1 where it had retrieved most of its recent setback. Of 954 issues traded 549 advanced and 210 declined.

At peaks for the year or longer with gains of fractions to 2 points were American Telephone, Electric Power and Light, Paramount Pictures, International Paper, R-K-O, Schenley, and Electric Boat.

Longer were Western Union A, Great Northern, Chesapeake and Ohio, Sears-Roebuck, National Distillers, Dow Chemical, Standard Oil [N. J.], and Texas company.

BOND PRICES CLIMB

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—The bond market today managed modest gains in a sizable list of rails. A large total of common and preferred stock offerings and several blocks of new bonds diverted interest from existing securities. Sales of $5,690,000 compared with $5,680,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO STOCKS GAIN

Prices extended their rise on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in increased turnover of 51,000 shares. Volume leaders included Chicago corporation, up ⅝; Armour, up ¾; Commonwealth Edison, up ⅛, and Sears Roebuck, down ⅛. New 1945 highs were reached by Binks Manufacturing, up 1⅛; Curtis Lighting, up 2¼, and Gillette Safety Razor, up 1⅝.

FIRST NEW G. E. RADIO REACHES CHICAGO BY AIR

The first new radio manufactured by General Electric company arrived in Chicago yesterday by plane from the company's Bridgeport, Conn., plant. R. Cooper Jr., president of the General Electric distributing organization here, said the company expects to have 12 radio models available for retail sale next month. The new line includes 10 table models, a portable, and a console combination radio phonograph.

Cooper said that the public will get better quality in radios as a result of the electronic developments in the war. The unit received yesterday was presented to the patients of Gardiner General hospital.

Big Burlington Loan Sold by Underwriters

A group of underwriters headed by Morgan Stanley & Co. yesterday sold the 65 million dollar issue of Burlington railroad 3⅛ per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds. The group won the award on a bid of 100.0399 over a Halsey, Stuart & Co. bid of 99.4399, and reoffered the bonds at 100.56. Subscription books were quickly closed.

Offering of 300,000 shares of 5½ per cent $5 par cumulative convertible preferred stock of Majestic Radio and Television corporation was made by Kobbe, Gearhart & Co. Proceeds will be used toward constructing a plant at Elgin, Ill., and for working capital.

Registers Preferred and Common

General Instrument corporation filed a registration statement with the securities and exchange commission for 60,000 shares of $20 par value cumulative convertible preferred and 260,000 shares of $1 par value common. When the offering is made, probably by Burr & Co., the preferred will be sold by the company and 150,000 shares of common will be sold for stockholders. Of the remaining common, 100,000 shares will be reserved for conversion of preferred.

As part of the Illinois Central railroad's debt refunding program, the railroad applied to the interstate commerce commission for authority to acquire direct control of companies forming integral parts of its system.

Would Dissolve Three Companies

It would purchase all the assets of Mississippi Valley company and would thereby obtain direct control of the Gulf and Ship Island railroad and the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad, then dissolve all three companies.

Transfers will be made in consideration of the cancelation of the indebtedness of Illinois Central's subsidiaries and the cancelation and redemption of their capital stock. Illinois Central will pay no money to effect the transfers.

ILLINOIS POWER SETS POSTPONED MEETING DEC. 4

Illinois Power company yesterday scheduled its postponed annual meeting for Dec. 4, following the ruling of the securities and exchange commission which bars North American company and two subsidiaries from voting any of their 26 per cent stock interest in the election of directors.

N. P. Zech, one of the nominees for director of Illinois Power on the North American slate, denied that he had any present association with the Middle West corporation, parent company of Central Illinois Public Service company, which serves territory adjacent to that of Illinois Power. He said he severed his connection with the company in 1944.

The possibility was suggested in utility circles that North American and the subsidiaries, North American Light and Power and Illinois Traction, may appeal to the courts to sustain their right to vote their stock.

CHRYSLER RUNS ON SCHEDULE IN NEW CAR PLANS

BY ANTHONY WIRRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26—Altho the Chrysler corporation has not produced a 1946 model passenger automobile, preparations for volume production are proceeding on schedule, a company spokesman said today.

The Chrysler reconversion program calls for operation of assembly lines by the end of the year and volume production about the middle of February or March, barring labor difficulties and shortages of gray iron castings and other materials. The company declined to say what it meant by volume production in terms of daily output, but it was recalled that Chrysler turned out 5,000 to 6,000 cars a day before the war.

Others Had Head Start

Producer of Chrysler, De Soto, Dodge, and Plymouth cars and Dodge trucks, the company was in full production of tanks, guns, and other war equipment in all divisions right up to V-J day and was unable to prepare for peace time operations before that date. Ford and General Motors were more fortunate in this respect, and are producing 400 to 600 cars a day.

The government had 7,667 pieces of machinery in Chrysler plants during the war. Altho the company bought 974 of them and a large number have been moved out, approximately 2,000 still remain to be grease-coated and removed.

Chrysler will make no official pronouncement on the order of the appearance of its four cars, but it is understood each assembly line will be "brought along" at an equal rate.

Most, if not all, of its dealers are expected to have at least one car for display purposes by the time the first public dealer showing is announced. The company will not venture a prediction on the speed of subsequent deliveries, or say what the basis of distribution will be.

Information Awaits Deliveries

In keeping with its long established policy, the company refused to disclose details and improvements of the new models until dealer deliveries start. The only hint of things to come was given by K. T. Keller, president, who asserted the new cars will be the best Chrysler ever has built. The Chrysler line is expected to embody as many improvements as the first new cars of other manufacturers. No predictions are available on new car prices or the approximate date the average person will be able to buy one.

Eighteen million dollars have been set aside for expansion, largely for additions to existing plants. No government plants are being purchased.

MOVE TO SPEED U. S. TRADING IN PACIFIC AREAS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—The state department said today it expected prompt reëstablishment of United States business operations in the Pacific area and listed five steps taken to facilitate it:

1. Resumption after Nov. 1 of regular steamship service between the United States and the far east, with acceptance of private shipments.

2. Early restoration of commercial air transportation across the entire Pacific area.

3. War department agreement to supply food, quarters, and local transportation to United States business men traveling in the far east when these accommodations otherwise would not be obtainable.

4. Reëstablishment of commercial communications facilities with principal cities, and efforts to bring early reëstablishment of banking services.

5. Resumption of United States consular service in the principal Chinese cities and at Hongkong, Manila, and Singapore.

RETAILER SALES 5 TO 9 PER CENT ABOVE YEAR AGO

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—Heavy consumer demand this week held retail sales thruout the country 5 to 9 per cent above a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

"Some durable consumer goods such as refrigerators and stoves are beginning to reach retail outlets," they said. "Apparel stores report continued large volume of business, and sales of high priced furs increased with mink preferred when available."

NATIONAL STEEL

Please give me a report on National Steel corporation. What proportion of its output is taken by the automobile industry?—H. O.

Operating complete steel manufacturing facilities at Detroit, National normally sells about one-third of its total production to the automobile industry. Other plants are in Weirton, W. Va.; Steubenville, O., and Buffalo, N. Y. Approximately 44 per cent of the finishing capacity is for sheets and strip and the remainder for plates, bars, tin plate, structural shapes, and track accessories.

The company, which expects to be active in prefabricated building, was the sole producer of the navy's Quonset huts, building about 154,000 of these rounded roof steel structures during the war.

Thru Hanna Iron Ore company, a subsidiary, and other mining affiliates, National Steel controls extensive iron ore reserves in Minnesota, Michigan, and Wisconsin, and it owns more than 9,500 acres of coal lands.

Since 1940 earnings have ranged from a peak of $7.79 a share in 1941 to $4.78 a share last year. In the first half of 1945 the profit rose to $3.12 from $2.45 in the 1944 period. In the four years ended with 1939 the earnings averaged $5.97 a share, and a profit was shown and dividends paid each year since 1929. The current dividend rate is $3 a year.

Outstanding are 2,206,492 shares, $25 par. Of the long term debt of $54,826,665 at the close of 1944, $14,500,000 was retired this year. Net working capital last Dec. 31 was $69,994,000.

First National of Chicago Heads Financing

liabilities for the Pullman company stock. It would resell the stock to the public if its offer were accepted.

OPPOSE RAILS' PURCHASE

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP)—The states of Colorado and California today filed a petition opposing the sale of sleeping car facilities of the Pullman company to the railroads of the United States. Filed in United States District court the petition urged a speedy sale of the huge sleeping car business to an "independent and aggressive" management.

Neither Colorado nor California, which filed a joint petition, was a party to the government's anti-trust suit for dissolution of the alleged monopoly. The petition said the states entered proceedings because their future growth and development depend upon modernizing transportation methods.

Contentions of States

The most important system for handling passenger travel, the petition said, is the railroad system. Filed by the attorney generals of the two states, it asserted the railroads are considering a plan to buy the business, but ask 18 months "to think it over."

The court set no date for a hearing of the two states' opinion. The petition said "the Pullman service needs a transfusion of new blood and without it the nation can look forward to nothing but a plethora of receivership and reorganization."

The railroads, it said, cannot give the "transfusion" necessary to revitalize the sleeping car servicing business because of their "indecision." The longer the delay, the more harm will be done the western states thru the inability of bus and air lines to handle the travel.

PROPOSES PRICE CURB TO OFFSET REDUCED WAGES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26 (AP)—A proposal to enforce price cuts on companies whose workers' hourly earnings are reduced thru loss of overtime was advanced tonight by Sen. Murray [D., Mont.].

It came as the United States conciliation service predicted the strike problem would drop to "near normal" proportions within three weeks.

Murray suggested that the OPA be directed to lower the ceiling price on the products of any employer whose average hourly wages are reduced by the elimination of overtime and the "down grading" of employes to lower paid job ratings. He also proposed that corporations be penalized thru the tax laws for refusal to bargain collectively and failure to accept federal offers of mediation or voluntary arbitration.

CHICAGO TAKES 4 STEPS TO GET WORLD CAPITAL

Envoys to Present Case to United Nations

Mayor Kelly's campaign to win selection of Chicago as permanent headquarters of the united nations organization moved forward at a meeting in the city council chambers yesterday of a citizens' committee appointed to further the proposal. These were the steps:

1. A handsome, leather bound, 28 page brochure setting forth Chicago's advantages as a capital for the world organization was sent by air mail to the temporary headquarters in London.

2. The committee voted to send a delegation of from three to five Chicagoans to London to urge selection of the city in interviews with the united nations preparatory commission.

3. Members agreed to appoint a committee to raise funds for furthering the project.

4. Prepared to arrange for the printing of 250,000 pamphlets to publicize Chicago's manifold advantages.

Boosts Chicago

Offer Island as Site

The green leather cover of the illustrated brochure is adorned with a picture of Northerly Island, and, in gold letters, "Chicago Offers Northerly Isle." The tract, comprising about 100 acres, has been favored as the site for the headquarters. The island is off Grant park.

The brochure's 28 illustrated pages describe Chicago's advantages, including hotel facilities, strategic geographical position, vacation opportunities, education and cultural facilities, and stimulating climate. It also contains letters of invitation signed by Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly.

The committee which will go to London will be composed of representatives from the ranks of labor, business, the city government, and education.

Told Task Isn't Easy

The mayor warned the committee that the task before it was no easy one. Edward R. Stettinius, United States representative to the united nations organization, and other federal officials, he said, have pledged themselves to boom San Francisco for the permanent headquarters.

6,388 SOLDIERS, NURSES RETURN ON WASHINGTON

New York, Oct. 26 (AP)—The army's largest transport, the George Washington, brought 6,388 soldiers and army nurses home from Europe today.

Col. Dinsmore Alter, transport commander, said elements of the following fighting units were aboard: 50th general hospital, 607th tank destroyer battalion, 512th military police battalion, 612th tank destroyer battalion, 712th, 714th, and 745th tank battalions, 3337th quartermaster trucking company, and 510th fighter squadron.

Lt. Col. Vladimir B. Kedrovsky, 31, of 2208 W. 5th av., Gary, Ind., commander of the 712th tank battalion, arrived on the George Washington after 18 months' overseas service. His unit led most of Gen. Patton's 3d army drive thru France. Col. Kedrovsky said 25 per cent of the battalion's officers were killed.

Today's Arrivals

More than 13,200 troops from Europe are scheduled to arrive at three east coast ports aboard 12 troops carriers tomorrow. On the west coast, about 6,300 service men are due from the Pacific theater aboard 12 ships docking at Seattle and San Francisco. Ships and units arriving:

Freeman Sails for United States

YOKOHOMA, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Freeman, carrying 466 officers and 2,770 enlisted men, sailed today for the United States, 8th army headquarters announced. The Pennant left yesterday with 1,468 officers and men. The Heinzelman was expected to complete loading and sail tomorrow for Manila with 500 officers and 2,692 men.

COPPER EXPORT VITAL TO CHILE, PRESIDENT ASSERTS IN CHICAGO

Chile's copper exports, which were vastly increased during the war to aid the allied nations, must be kept high in peace for both economic and political reasons, Juan Antonio Rios, president of the South American republic, said yesterday at a press conference in the Blackstone hotel.

He explained that his country now is producing 500,000 tons of copper yearly, as compared with 300,000 tons in the pre-war years. "If the demand for our copper dimihishes it will affect not only our internal economy but our political situation," President Rios said.

President Rios said his country is eager to buy manufactured goods, especially machinery and tools, from the United States, if it can exchange its own products.

COUNTY TO DROP MORE EMPLOYES IN BUDGET CRISIS

County Treasurer Schlaeger said yesterday that by laying off additional help during November he would be able to balance his salary budget before the start of the county's fiscal year on Dec. 1.

Several weeks ago it was disclosed that the treasurer's pay roll, unless something were done about it, would exceed appropriations by about $40,000. The Circuit court's help committee allowed only $10,000 toward the deficit and Schlaeger had to make drastic cuts in personnel. So far about 165 have been laid off and he estimated that he is now within $8,000 of a balance, to be achieved by further temporary dismissals.

"We got behind on the pay roll last spring when we had to make over and mail out 45,000 erroneous tax bills," Schlaeger said. "That job alone set us back $50,000, and it was something that could not be anticipated."

UNRRA ASKING CANNED FOODS TO GIVE NEEDY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26—The united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, it was learned tonight, has found a new way of tapping the American bounty which 43 other nations are helping the United States distribute in needy countries.

UNRRA has begun a nation-wide collection of canned foods that will enable the international organization to spend more of the 550 million dollars it is asking of congress on salaries and administration and less on supplies.

UNRRA's new enterprise came to light when Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] began getting requests from Illinois organizations for information about the UNRRA subsidiary, known as the "victory collection of canned food conducted by the community canning program for overseas relief."

Dental Major Dies in Fire at Hospital Near Paris

PARIS, Oct. 26 (AP)—Maj. Claude A. Ward Jr. of Fort Worth, Tex., a dentist, died in a fire that destroyed officers' quarters at the 198th General hospital near Paris on Sept. 25, army records disclosed today.
